SCHOOL SITES.

In another column appears a statement concerning land which has been offered to the district for school purposes. In printing this statement The Bulletin is not to be supposed to be taking a position for the land in question, nor yet against it. The communication is given space in order to put before the people facts which are needed before a purchase can be wisely made. We trust others will write also.

As we understand it, the school board is desirous of obtaining the views of the voters on new school sites and buildings. There was a rambling discussion of the subject at the annual meeting, but no decision reached and those who were not at the meeting have no clear understanding of the sites which are under consideration. In order that they may be informed and the case for the different sites presented as completely as possible The Bulletin throws open its columns, as in the case of the statement mentioned above, to any who wish to discuss the matter.

LOVETT.

One of the biggest assets this county has is its agriculturist. We have said this more than once before and are glad to say it again. Now comes Addison Bennett, in his Redmond article for the Oregonian, with the following:

"It is also a good omen to see that Professor A. E. Lovett, the competent county agriculturist of Crook, who makes his headquarters at Redmond, is organizing a milk-testing district, 300 cows having already been signed up. Whenever you find the dairymen intelligent enough to get into a testing association you will find a community that is bound to win out. Professor Lovett has rendered valuable services to land owners of Crook county in many other directions besides dairying, and his services show that a county having a competent and active agriculturist has, at a small cost, an official who is bound to cause progress among land owners."

The Western Union's attitude toward an improvement of the local telegraph service, as expressed in the letter read at the last Commercial Club meeting, can hardly be said to partake of the modern corporation ideal of service and efficiency. There was plenty of testimony on Saturday to the need of a change here. Anyone who has occasion to use the telegraph has had the situation borne in upon him and a short forenoon spent here by an investigating official would tell him the story. The local employees are doing their best, but they are overwhelmed with the local business. And this business will continue to grow so that a change is imperative. We think it would pay the Western Union to go into the matter more thoroughly and show a more responsive feeling to the wishes, as well as the needs, of the town.

Roosevelt's endorsement of Hughes and the action of the Progressive committee in favor of the Republican candidate make a G. O. P. victory doubly sure in the fall election. Apparently a few of the Armageddonists will now become Adulantes and that will be the end of the Bull Moose.

Other states may smile at the Oregon system but it seems clear that Oregon system produced the first militia company to mobilize after the President's call, and the first to be mustered into the Federal service.

We can stand this rain so long as we do not get web feet and moss all over our shingles.

The state may be "dry" but it is not very arid in this vicinity just now.

"HOME TOWN" SHOULD BE FIRST

Chautauqua Lecturer Believes In Small Cities.

Ernest J. Slas, community development, home town progress promoter, is the kind of man who will pit the people of his home town against the people of any other town on any enterprise, commercial, social or uplift.

Slas has "the faith that moves mountains," but he knows that "faith without works is dead." Slas is one of those men who in a town where they make their living act like a dynamo on everything around them, generating enough current to move whatever they connect with.

The motto which he believes should be hung in every office, not as an ornament, but as much of a reminder as his appointment book, is this:

"It is my sworn duty to support this town because it supports me—the town keeps me because I help keep the town."

Slas' lecture on community development is a whirlwind, and no one desiring to improve his home town can afford not to hear him.

WAR SEEMS IMMINENT

Carranza Expected to Refuse Demands—Troops Off For Front.

Developments in the Mexican situation of the past week include an attack on a company of United States troops in Mexico, resulting in the death of several and the capture of a number of others. President Wilson has called upon Carranza for the release of the prisoners and a definite statement of his position toward the American detachments now in Mexico. Latest reports are that Carranza will refuse the American demands and that war will result.

Belief that the government expects war is given weight by its action in rushing the mustering into the Federal service of the state troops and ordering them to the border immediately. The first Oregon battalion, according to reports from Portland, left last night for San Diego, California, and others will follow at once. Bend citizens who are in the militia are G. P. Putnam, publisher of The Bulletin, and Ray Devarmond.

SURVEYORS AT YAINAX

Strahorn Party Nears Klamath Falls—People Excited.

(Klamath Herald.)

The surveying party engaged in running the line from Silver Lake to Klamath Falls for Strahorn's railroad system, the Oregon, California and Eastern railroad, is now at Yainax, according to advices from the Reservation.

As a result, there is much excitement in that section, now that the people are certain that the route is being seriously considered.

It will be only a comparatively short time before the surveying party reaches Klamath Falls. The most difficult topography in connection with the Silver Lake-Klamath Falls line is between Silver Lake and Yainax.

The remainder of the survey, over nearly level country, should be made in a short time.

PINE MEN HERE

Prominent Lumbermen Visit Bend on Return From Meeting.

Returning from a conference at McCloud, California, between the pine manufacturers of the Inland Empire and officials of the California Pine Manufacturers Association several prominent lumbermen visited Bend last week as the guests of Manager T. A. McMahon, of The Shevlin-Hixon Company. Their time was spent in an inspection of the two local mills and in a visit to the logging operations up river. All were enthusiastic over the developments at Bend.

In the party were A. W. Laird, manager of the Potlatch Lumber Co., of Potlatch, Idaho, J. P. McGoldrich, manager of the McGoldrich Lumber Co., of Spokane and J. M. Richards, manager of the Idaho White Pine Manufacturers Agency, of Spokane. They came up from Klamath Falls by auto with Mr. McMahon. In the party also was W. J. Lau, auditor of The Shevlin-Hixon Company, who has spent several days here on company business.

Indiana Man's Experience.
Frank Moseley, Moore's Hill, Ind., writes: "I was troubled with almost constant pains in my sides and back. Great relief was apparent after the first dose of Foley Kidney Pills and in 48 hours all pain left me." Foley Kidney Pills make the kidneys active and healthful and stop sleep-disturbing bladder ailments. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

"A Word to the Wise"

If you know a good thing when you see it—and most men do—you'll recognize in this occasion the dominating clothes value of the season.

That doesn't mean the "cheapest;" you can see lower figures than ours most anywhere. It takes more than "marked prices" to make value.

If you're looking for high class tailoring, distinctive style, all wool fabrics, a perfect fit and long service, you'll get more of it for your money here than anywhere. We're ready to prove it; the clothes and not the prices are our biggest argument.
