BUILDER OUTLINES HIS RAILROAD PLANS

On Completion of Survey in Next 10 Days He Will State What is Necessary to Get Road Into City—Line Determined Upon Now.

(Klamath Herald.)
"In ten days the survey of our railroad will be into Klamath Falls, and then I will be ready to state what will be necessary for this city to do to get the railroad built into your city."

This statement by Robert E. Strahorn, made this morning, tells in a nutshell, the situation right now with regard to the proposed Central Oregon railroad into Klamath Falls. The survey crew is now camped at Olene, and the line completed almost to that point.

"Except for the last ten miles into Klamath Falls and about 50 miles in Harney Valley and Fort Rock country, the line of our railroad has been practically determined," said Mr. Strahorn. "About 450 miles of rails will be laid. One line will run southwest from Bend to Klamath Falls, the second southeast from Bend to Lakeview, and from a point about 20 miles out of Bend another will run southeast in Harney valley. The line from Bend to Klamath Falls goes in at the head of Yonna valley, and then follows Lost River to Olene."

Mr. Strahorn and party, consisting of Mrs. Strahorn, Chief Engineer N. H. Bogue, and C. S. Hudson, president of the First National Bank of Bend, have just completed a 1,000 mile auto trip through Central Oregon and northern California and Nevada to study the traffic possibilities of those sections.

"I am particularly interested in learning the traffic possibilities of the country and am paying lesser attention to the engineering features," said Mr. Strahorn. "This makes about 5,000 miles I have made over this same territory since I first thought of building the railroad."

"It is the agricultural possibilities of Central Oregon that must be known before construction of the road can be begun. Irrigation and drainage are important and completion of these things must seem assured. Only second in importance is the lumber and the tourist possibilities, although on this trip I shall see Crater Lake and all other attractions to learn how far they might be exploited."

"There is one thing that I want to emphasize, and that is that I and my backers are with you to secure the opening of Klamath Indian reservation and the development of further territory in Central Oregon. Klamath Falls can be made the wholesale point for all the territory nearby and for much that extends farther east and northwest. The road will be a feeder from the adjacent country for the Southern Pacific line into Klamath Falls."

As Mr. Strahorn said when he was in Klamath Falls last fall, two things must be done for him before construction on the proposed road can begin: First, terminals and rights of way must be given by the towns and country through which the road is to pass, and second, twenty-five per cent of the cost of the entire project must be subscribed by the towns benefited by the road, or by any other interests other than Mr. Strahorn and his backers. When these things are secured construction of the road will begin.

The main line of the proposed railroad as outlined already is all that has been decided upon. But this does not mean that lateral lines will not be constructed wherever traffic possibilities permit branch lines.

"For instance, the road from here to Bonanza may come to be a link in a road from Klamath Falls to Lakeview," said Mr. Strahorn.

Mr. Strahorn and party will be in this section for about three weeks.

A Woman's Kindly Act.

Mrs. G. H. Eveland, Duncan Mills, Ill., writes: "I was stricken with lumbago, unable to turn in bed. A neighbor brought Foley Kidney Pills. She had been similarly afflicted and they cured her. I was cured by three bottles." If the kidneys do not function, lumbago, rheumatism, aches, pains, are apt to result. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

BOSTON'S WELCOME TO JOURNALISM.

The Reverend Brothers Mather were honest men and true who believed that good religion must be always strong and blue. Upon free speech they doted, and they knew with all their might that no one else in Boston but themselves could use it right.

Stirred by benign ambition they proceeded without fail to suppress contemporaries and deliver them to jail. Brave and zealously they labored in their efforts to protect against editorial poison the young Boston intellect.

Ben and James, the Franklin brothers, did not like this Mather's trust. They were full of free opinions which they had to spread or bust. So they bought a press and paper, and they wielded poison quills to produce such journalism that it gave the Mathers chills.

"Satan," cried good Increase Mather, "sure has lit on Boston Town! If these Franklins go unpunished, pitch and brimstone will rain down! To subscribe to such a paper is a wicked, monstrous sin which will bring an Awful Judgment on the town and all within!"

Then the General Court held session and expressed most gloomy views of the consequences fearful must follow weekly news. "Of His Majesty's officials these vile editors make sport! It is foul for law and order!" said the pious General Court.

Joyously the Boston jailer swept a hospitable cell (twas an editorial sanctum that the editors knew well), and they gathered in J. Franklin and they left him there to think what a serious lot of trouble comes from little drops of ink.

But the Devil, ever busy, still continued to imbue men with notions journalistic and ideas ever new. And the wicked circulation, blind and glorying in crime, galloped headlong to destruction, buying papers every time!
