THE DAILY BULLETIN.

Today, The Bend Bulletin becomes a daily newspaper. In a way, a community ceases to be just a town and becomes something of a city when it possesses a daily newspaper. And it is because Bend is forging ahead so successfully that we venture to make the move.

We are immeasurably pleased. The pleasure is not simply because the step means a larger business. It is a sort of double pleasure, aside from commercial considerations: first, because The Bulletin has been so long a part of Bend and has labored so faithfully for its upbuilding, sharing lean years and its times of prosperity, that it is wonderfully gratifying to feel at last that we are all out of the woods with big things safe and sure before us; and, secondly, because there never were newspaper men in the world, whose hearts are really in their work, who haven't looked forward to the time when they can have the satisfaction of producing a daily newspaper.

That is one side of it. The other is not so satisfactory. A goodly number of men who know the daily newspaper game, and know it right here in Oregon, warn us that a daily may be a losing venture in Bend for some time to come. They point to the fact that not one daily in six, and in towns larger than Bend, make any money.

But somehow, Bend is different from any other town we know. It does things which other towns can't. It has that sort of people which make progress possible. And that is why Bend is Bend, and why Bend is bound to become a real steerable city. So we are banking on Bend being able to support a daily newspaper, and we shall do our level best to give it a daily with which its people may be satisfied and which will go forth as another testimonial to the substantial prosperity and progressiveness of the community.

Frankly, we don't expect to make any money from the daily. We shall be satisfied if it pays its way for the first year or so, and nothing more. But even that won't be an easy task. It is surprising how much actual money is required to run a daily. Of course we can't start out with a very large paper, but we are arranging to make it thoroughly good and have equipped it with the best service and features obtainable for smaller afternoon newspapers. And just as fast as the business increases we will increase the size and the scope of the paper.

Because we want, above everything else, to build up a really worth-while newspaper, no profits (even if available) will be taken from the enterprise for some years to come, and every cent received will go back into the paper. That, of course, isn't just unselfishness; it is simply wise business, for later on a good newspaper will be worth conducting. But also, a good paper, now and in the future, will be helpful to the town, and what is good for the community in such a way is good for every business man and land owner in it.

So we are commencing our daily with the belief that we can make it a creditable one and still "break even," and confident that it will receive the support and approval of the community. Naturally, we hope that every loyal Bender will become a subscriber, and of Bend advertisers, our only request is that they will be as discerning and consistent patrons of the columns of the daily as they have been of the weekly.

The Commercial club committee should go after that federal building with a vim. Bend deserves it just as much, and more, than many communities which have been favored.

BEND PLANS TO GIVE ALL CHILDREN BIG CHRISTMAS

Second Annual Community Tree Will Be Big Feature for Juveniles
December 23.

Bend, with several hundred more children than it had last year, is going to plan for a much bigger and better Christmas this year, and with this in view, the committees recently appointed by Mrs. C. S. Hudson, chairman of the Bend Benevolent association, are already beginning to lay plans for the second annual community Christmas tree, which will be held Saturday evening, December 23.

That Bend should have a bigger and better celebration than last year is the consensus of opinion of many of the members of the general committee. The city has been more prosperous, there will likely be a keener Christmas feeling, and it is hoped to give the children of the vicinity one big feast for their eyes and hearts.

Because there is a far larger number of children in this locality than last year, who will have to be included in the plans of the coming Christmas tree, the committees are going to have to conduct a more elaborate campaign, and provide in much larger quantities than last year. It is expected that the committee will raise approximately $500 with which to provide Christmas cheer.

The communities that will have charge of the Community Tree festivities this year are: Finance, H. C. Hartranft, Mrs. C. S. Hudson, Mrs. N. G. Davis, Miss Esther Moore and Prof. F. Thordarson; program, Mrs. C. V. Silvia, Mrs. Ashley Forrest and Mrs. H. M. Greiner; Christmas tree, A. Whisnant, T. H. Foley, R. W. Sawyer, H. J. Overturf and T. A. McCann; gifts, Mrs. Harry K. Brooks, Mrs. Harper W. Skuse, Mrs. Archie Myers and Mrs. Ward Coble; poor families, Mrs. J. D. Davidson, Mrs. J. P. Keyes and Mrs. H. Norton.

NOVEMBER WEATHER

Zero Temperatures Pull Minimum for Month Down.

With extreme low temperatures about the middle of the month, unusual for this time of year, the mean minimum temperature for the month of November was lower than for many years past. The exact figure is 15.5 degrees and the maximum 47.1, making the mean 31.3. The highest temperature reached was 77 degrees on the first, and the lowest three below, on the 13th. There were six and a half inches of snowfall during the month and a total precipitation of .51 inches. Clear days were in the majority, with 15, as against eight cloudy and 7 partly cloudy.

The daily temperatures and character of day were as follows:

Save Malheur Lake

There is plenty of land in this country awaiting development. It is not necessary yet to drain any lakes in order to get more land. Suppose we devote our energies to the development of the lands surrounding the lake and preserve the lake.—Crane American.

No Higher Price for This.

While food and clothing have advanced in cost, it is well for the sick that the prices of such reliable family remedies as Foley Kidney Pills are not increased. Foley Kidney Pills cost little and relieve backache, pains in sides and loins, sore muscles, stiff joints, rheumatic pains and bladder trouble. Sold everywhere.
