

CREAMERY HAS BIG 1916 GROWTH

GAIN IN LAST YEAR EXCEEDS 100 PER CENT.

Local Dairymen Consider Plans for Enlarging Quarters This Year—Number of Patrons Shows Big Increase in 12 Months.

(From Monday's Daily.)

That the dairy business is coming into its own in Central Oregon was clearly evidenced last Saturday afternoon at a meeting of the stockholders of the Central Oregon Farmers' creamery, called for the purpose of discussing some plans for the coming year and arranging for new plans. During 1916 the creamery had an increase of more than 100 per cent in the volume of business over 1915, as shown by the report of Glen H. Slack, secretary of the creamery association. During 1916 the creamery did a $38,000 business, compared with a $15,673.28 business in 1915, and $3,280 business during the six months of its existence in 1914.

Patrons are increasing.

Not only did the creamery do more business in dollars and cents, but it did more business with patrons than in any previous year. Jumping from 75 patrons in 1915, the Central Oregon Farmers' Creamery is sending cream checks to 128 farmers tributary to Bend. With the growth in the number of patrons has also come an increase in the number of stock handled in this section for dairy purposes.

More than $15,000 was distributed among the local farmers during the last year for butter fat, and 159,634 pounds of butter was manufactured during the year. During the seven months which the creamery sold milk to city patrons, 71,366 gallons were distributed and 1,747 gallons of ice cream were manufactured. The creamery has maintained the market prices quoted on Portland markets for butter fat, ranging between 24 and 41 cents.

May Get New Quarters.

Now that the creamery has grown to such proportions in the last year, it has become necessary for the stockholders to look to other quarters. It is understood that the Bend Water, Light & Power Company may need the building in which the creamery is now situated and will compel the farmers to look elsewhere for quarters. For some months the farmers have been contemplating the purchase of property more centrally located. Just what the farmers will do in this respect depends largely upon what conclusion is made with respect to the proposal of L. B. La Follette, of the Redmond Creamery, who has signified his desire to enter into some sort of operating agreement with the farmers relative to butter manufacture. Many of the farmers are not disposed to relinquish this department of the creamery, inasmuch as it is now getting on its feet and promises to be conducted on even a more extensive scale this year than last. The majority of the farmers are inclined to consider a building venture, if some suitable arrangements can be made that will not too heavily encumber them. This matter will come up probably at the next meeting to be held on January 27.

The officers elected to head the creamery for the coming year are: President, Charles Sipchen; vice president, Julius Pederson; secretary-treasurer, Philip Burt; board of directors, G. H. Slack, P. H. Dencer, H. A. Johnson, H. H. Stanley and G. L. Moore.

BUSINESS GOOD IN REAL ESTATE

PORTLAND PEOPLE ARE BECOMING HEAVIER BUYERS—THE TRANSACTIONS IN SIX DAYS SHADE $10,000.00.

(From Monday's Daily.)

"The best January in the real estate business in Bend," is the verdict of local realty dealers, who were asked today as to the condition of the market in this city. Not only is business good, but an unusually large number of sales is being made to out of town people, and operators assert that Portland residents are finally waking up to the opportunities offered here, and are among the heavy purchasers.

Among the most rapid work done was that by J. A. Eastes, who within two days has made six sales, including 13 lots. Other dealers were unwilling to give an itemized account of their business, but a partial total secured, shows that transactions in residence property for the last six days will shade $10,000. Big improvements in their holdings are planned by the Bend Park Co., as soon as the grip of winter is loosened. Water mains are to be installed, and connections extended and sidewalks constructed, while in all parts of the city much building is being planned as soon as warmer weather comes.

LEAVES LONELY HOME

John Peters is Taken to Auburn, Washington, by Sisters.

(From Monday's Daily.)

On a complaint alleging that John Peters, living near Bend, was unsafe to be at large, Sheriff S. E. Roberts made a trip to the Peters cabin on Saturday afternoon, returning by evening. Peters, who is 48 years of age, has been living alone and has been ailing for some time, his illness resulting in a partial loss of memory.

His sisters, Mrs. Frank Heister and Mrs. Frank Moyer, of Auburn, Washington, left Saturday night, intending to place their brother under private care.

EXAMINE FOR RABIES

Dog's Head Sent From Bend for Test—Animal Bit 15-Year-Old.

(From Monday's Daily.)

The possibility that rabies may have been introduced into the city, was again intimated yesterday when Sheriff Roberts was called on to kill a dog which had bitten the 15 year old son of W. E. Claypool, of this city. The animal was found at a house above the Brooks-Scanlon mill, and its head has been sent away to be examined for traces of hydrophobia.

The boy was returning to his home from skating when the dog rushed out and bit him.

KETCHUM LISTED AMONG CAMP'S ALL-TIME STARS

(From Monday's Daily.)

In Walter Camp's all-American football eleven of all time, based on the number of years the players have been selected for the famous mythical eleven, appears the name of Henry H. Ketchum, Yale, 1914, listed among the men selected for the center position. Ketchum played on the Blue eleven during the 1913 and 1914 seasons and captained Old Eli in 1914, being selected all-American in the latter year.

Ketchum is now employed the The Shevlin-Hixon Company in Bend, and contributed much toward the success of the local eleven during the football season.

Among the other names mentioned for all-American for all time appears the name of the late Tom Shevlin.

MERCURY DROP IS FELT HERE

WATER PIPES FROZEN, LOGS AT MILL ARE EMBEDDED IN ICE, AND ICE CAKES MENACE THE POWER PLANT WHEEL.

(From Monday's Daily.)

After the manifestation of a slight upward trend for the last two days, the mercury took a sudden plunge last night and registered a minimum of four degrees below zero, according to the official government thermometer here. Unofficial measurements in several instances were much lower. The cold was the most intense during the present year.

Plumbers were kept busy today thawing out water pipes which had been exposed to the cold, but few instances of bursting were reported. Among the most serious consequences of the frigid weather, was the delay caused at the mills, where the planers had to be shut down. Men were kept busy blasting logs from the pond, where they were frozen firm in the ice, and band saws were idle while a supply of raw material were extricated from the frozen surface of the river.

The Bend Water, Light & Power Co. had its troubles, too, and it was only with the utmost difficulty that anchor ice could be kept out of the wheel at the power plant. Men were at work all night to forestall trouble of the kind.

The swiftness of the river where unconfined, prevented its being coated over, but above the power dam, the cold, which began to be manifested yesterday, provided skating for many, ice safe to glide over extending half way across the Deschutes.

APPLICATIONS MANY ON ANIMAL BOUNTIES

Hunters Coming in From Outside Counties Expecting Revenue From Rabbit Scalps.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Applications are becoming more and more numerous for bounties on coyotes and jackrabbits, is the report of County Clerk Haner, who states not only are they being presented by residents of the county, but that hunters living in other parts of the state are coming here with the intention of making money during the winter on rabbit scalps.

No bounties are being paid, however, as the county has as yet no funds at its disposal, and as no warrant issue has been authorized by the county court.

Mr. Haner declares that in any event he would refuse payment on rabbits while the bounty law is in question.
