

WILL INCREASE FOUNDRY SCOPE

ENLARGED BUSINESS IS THE CAUSE.

Improvements to Include Construction of Up-to-date Machine Shop, Will Cost $7,000—Enlargement of Pattern Shop.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Plans for the enlargement of the plant of the Huffschtmidt-Dugan Iron works, necessitated by a steady increase of business, were announced this morning by R. E. Huffschtmidt, and will involve an expenditure of approximately $7,000. Some of the additions to the present equipment are being made now, but the main change will be begun next summer, in the shape of a machine shop, which will cost between $5,000 and $6,000, Mr. Huffschtmidt stated.

Enlargement of the pattern shop has already been started, and will be completed probably by the end of next week. Office rooms are to be included, the present business headquarters of the plant having been merely temporary. The building, when finished, will be 30 by 50 feet and of frame construction.

Excavations are being made for the installation of a brass furnace, and a new two-ton crane, all of its parts made at the foundry, is soon to be installed, strengthening of the brick structure housing the molding room being necessary before this can be done, however.

The machine shop will be of brick, and will be thoroughly equipped with up-to-date machinery, particularly for the handling of structural steel and other building materials, to allow for the turning out of finished products.

A new departure taken in the manufacture of iron fittings, has just been started at the iron works, in the way of turning out novelties, such as andirons, grates, and the like. One of the big items of business at present, Mr. Huffschtmidt states, is in the making of furnaces for local use. The largest run of business in the history of the plant, is expected for this spring and summer.

MARTIN TAKES BOUT FROM ERNEST MILLER

Wins Two Falls on Straight Holds, After Conceding First to Idaho Man on Trick Arm Hold.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Max Martin, of Bend, and Ernest Miller, of Sand Point, settled their dispute as to mat supremacy last night at the Hippodrome, when Martin took two falls out of three. Walter Fox refereed the bout. A large crowd witnessed the contest, every seat being taken, while many were forced to be content with standing room.

Miller took the first fall in 10 minutes, on an arm bar, failing to pin his opponent's shoulders to the mat, but inflicting such punishment that Martin was forced to concede the victory, or run the risk of receiving a broken hand or wrist.

Martin took the next fall with a bar lock and half Nelson, in 13 and one-half minutes, after the Idaho man had fought for nearly five minutes to squirm out of the hold. The Bend champion came within a shade of winning earlier in the round, with a straight bar lock.

The third fall took slightly longer, but was eventually won when Martin secured a crotch and body hold and, lifting Miller from the floor, jammed his shoulders to the canvas.

The local athlete showed more finish than in his previous bout here with Miller, which went to a draw, and with the exception of the first round, and the first few minutes of the second, took the aggressive. The bout was fast throughout.

In the preliminaries, Ted Hoke took two straight falls from "Bosco" Whitson, and George Carroll had equal success with Ray Golden. Hoke again went on the mat, this time with Jeff Giesar, and secured one fall before the principals were ready.

STREET IMPROVEMENT
COUNCIL ISSUE.

City Engineer Gould to Make Trip to Examine Laws of Other Cities—Several Petitions Held Pending Definite Information.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

That Bend may before long adopt a uniform standard for street and sidewalk improvement, was the possibility broached last night when the members of the streets committee of the city council met with Mayor S. C. Caldwell to consider a report submitted by City Engineer Robert B. Gould, in connection with the cost of effecting improvements in city district No. 2. A petition for improvements in the district, roughly embracing the territory lying between Band street and the railroad tracks, and Greenwood and Ohio, was filed last fall.

According to Mr. Gould's report, the proposed improvements would cost $10,870, or $78.20 per lot, apportioned in accordance with the Bancroft law. Grading of the streets, installation of cement curbs and gutters, and covering the streets with a layer of cinders of from four to six inches in thickness, were included in the estimate.

No action was taken on the report, as the meeting was entirely informal, but Mr. Gould was authorized to visit The Dalles, Portland, and Vancouver, getting ideas as to the standards of these cities, their paving and street laws, and particularly the method of apportioning improvement costs on property benefiting, although not fronting on the improved streets. He expects to leave Saturday evening.

Action by the council in adopting a standard, and especially in regard to the expense entailed in following that standard, is being anxiously awaited by taxpayers in Bend. It is understood that at least four street and sidewalk improvement petitions are ready, but are being held until more definite information can be obtained.

Among those present at last night's meeting, in addition to Mayor Caldwell, were councilmen Silvis, Bennett, Edwards and McKay, Recorder H. C. Ellis, City Engineer Gould, and Chief of Police Nixon.

FILINGS FEW UNDER NEW 640-ACRE LAW

Doubt as to Right of Homesteaders of Agricultural Land Causing Delay in Taking Grazing Tracts.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Because of doubt still existing in regard to the rights of individuals now homesteading, to take up land under the 640-acre homestead act, but few are taking advantage of the new law, local attorneys report. Filings made here so far are principally by individuals having particularly desirable land in view and wishing to take no chance on losing it.

The chief difficulty, it is explained, is that holders of land under the additional homestead law, allowing the taking up of 320 acres, are uncertain as to whether their present holdings may be classed as part of a 640-acre tract suitable for grazing only. Previous filings have been based on agricultural adaptability.

PLAY IS DISCUSSED

(From Thursday's Daily.)
"Play" was the chief subject for discussion at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher association held at the Emblem club last night, the topic being dealt with by Mrs. Holloway and Superintendent Thordarson. Dr. Faulkner also spoke on the care of the teeth. Mrs. Holloway's children played two duets. Following the program light refreshments were served.

CONDENSED FOOD MAY SAVE LIFE

LOST FOREST GUARD ALWAYS CARRIED SUPPLY FOR EMERGENCIES, FORT ROCK RANGER REPORTS—SEARCH STILL ON.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Only the fact that he is in the habit of carrying a supply of condensed food constantly with him, as a reserve in case of emergencies, has saved Forest Guard J. Russell Christenson from death by starvation, in the opinion of local forest officials. Christenson has been sought in the country surrounding Crescent for the past four days by a rescue party, after he had been wandering through the snows since Christmas. He took only a light lunch with him, but Ranger Harriman, of Fort Rock, is authority for the statement that Christenson never left camp without a good supply of concentrated provisions.

The rescue party was still seeking for the missing man, according to a telephone message from Burton Oney, the ranger at Big River station, received today.

It is now believed that Christenson is sleeping during the warm part of the day, and travelling at night, for he has made no camp fires for several days, and is apparently without matches. Woodsmen believe that he is reversing the usual order of life, to economize on warmth.

INTEREST CONTINUES IN REVIVAL SERVICES

Dr. Elwood Lyon Speaks on "The Finished Work of Christ."—Scores Protective Religion.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

Dr. Elwood Lyon, evangelist, spoke last night on "The Finished Work of Christ," when he addressed more than 300 Bend people at the union revival services being held at the Presbyterian church. He spoke of Christ on Calvary hill as pertaining to the past, present, and future of the race, then branched into a discussion of the prodigal son.

"The prodigal son was at all times a son, the only difference being that he got dirty and lived in a pig pen for a time," Dr. Lyon declared. "When he came to his senses, he went home. Many people today live with the pigs, then they join a church, but take a little pig with them. When the minister preaches against dancing or card playing, you can hear a little pig squeal."

The speaker asserted that religion to some people, is nothing more nor less than a fire insurance policy.

In mentioning the lecture given by the evangelist yesterday afternoon on "Satan's Opposition to Christ," Rev. Hartranft, pastor of the Presbyterian church, declared it to be the most masterly exposition on the subject to which he had ever listened.

Services will be held again at 7:30 o'clock tonight.
