BENHAM FALLS.

The Interior Department, in its dealings with the Benham Falls project, seems to be engaged in the well known pastime entitled "passing the buck." This, at least, is the conclusion to be drawn from the news report reprinted in this paper from a Portland daily, in which it is stated that the department is not anxious to go over the state in the matter of opening the lands to settlement.

The situation is appealingly beautiful. The state has asked for an extension of time on the contract. The stern land office, to whom the request is made, replies that before the petition is granted, you must show me what you have done and that it is possible for you to proceed. In answer the state does nothing and then when the rude Commercial club of Bend says to the land office, "Get active. The state has done nothing. Open the lands," the paternal bureau says nothing can be done, as the state has requested otherwise.

At the last meeting of the Commercial club it was reported that the only thing remaining in the effort to get relief from the land office was for the individual members of the club to write the Oregon representatives in Washington and others who might help. This latest plea from the department suggests still another course. That is an appeal to the Desert Land Board to present to the Washington authorities the true facts in the case, namely, that it is not the state that asks for the extension, but the C. O. I. Co., and that since the company has not complied with the department's requests, the board is ready to have the project cancelled and opened to entry.

MARK THE TRAIL.

The suggestion made in the paper by the high school students, printed in this issue of The Bulletin, that this section follow the lead of Klamath Falls in marking the route of the Fremont expedition, is good. We trust that a movement will be started to carry out the idea and to collect historical material relating to this Central Oregon country.

With the good roads movement, there has sprung up all over the west activity toward marking the trails followed by the early pioneers. "Old timers" have retraced their paths by automobile and communities have cooperated with the idea of adding to the attraction to the tourist by making known the historical interest of the route. To many summer autoists the fact that they may follow Fremont's course and see his camping places is as interesting as the scenery along the way.

Here, then, is a local opportunity. There are still living a number of men in this vicinity whose assistance in the work would be invaluable. Let's get it before it is too late.

THE FOURTH.

In each of the past two years the Chautauqua has been here on the Fourth of July. That has been regarded as sufficient observance of the day, and as affording enough recreation for all, so that no further program has been attempted. That is wrong. The Chautauqua program is on for only a small part of the day and there are many to whom it does not appeal. For them and all the rest of us who are Americans before we are Chautauquans, something more than the Chautauqua should be provided this year. Let's start something and invite Central Oregon to be present. We know that the feeling in town in favor of this is such as to insure its success.

TERREBONNE FARMERS IN ASSOCIATION

(From Thursday's Daily.)
Last Monday afternoon the farmers of the Terrebonne section invited County Agent R. A. Blanchard to assist them in organizing a National Farm Loan Association. Over 30 men came to the usual meeting hall at Terrebonne and after considering the benefits and object of the Federal Farm Loan Act, the following board of directors was elected: W. F. Mackey, J. J. Ellinger, C. G. Cornelius, L. P. Snapp and B. E. Nichols. The board then elected W. F. Mackey as president, B. E. Nichols vice president, and C. A. Douglass for secretary-treasurer. A loan committee of H. Gates, C. G. Cornelius and L. P. Snapp was then chosen to perform their work as prescribed by law. The organization as yet is temporary and after the final blanks are received the association will be perfected.

Some question was raised on the legality of the association and the possibility of obtaining loans on the land under the several contracts held by the farmers in which the state holds a first lien. The county agriculturalist presented several letters and correspondence from Secretary W. W. Flannigan of the Federal Farm Loan Board, which indicated that so far as the law read it would be impossible to loan on land which could not provide a first mortgage, but should the situation become acute over a large territory, Congress probably might be prevailed on to make arrangements for relieving this situation.

WIRED ANSWERS MADE DURING EXAMINATION

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—"Pollomyelitis is a brand of New York breakfast food," wrote a young grammar school Miss in a "general information test," given to all the pupils of Germantown Friends School here.

Two other definitions for the word were perhaps just as venturesome. One little Johnny called it "the result of liquor," and a demure though conscious lass branded it as "the worship of more than one god." Then

MEASLES HERE NOW EPIDEMIC

QUARANTINE BLOCKED BY THE LAW.

City Health Officer Miller Explains Stand—Says Disease Not Serious Enough to Warrant Closing of the City Schools.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)
That the disease of measles in Bend is assuming epidemic proportions, was the statement made this morning by Dr. Dwight F. Miller, county and city health officer. Although the childhood complaint is becoming prevalent among young and old alike, Dr. Miller does not yet feel that he would be warranted in ordering the closing of the city schools. He stated that this would not be done until it was manifested that the benefit to be derived from keeping the children from their desks would counterbalance the value of the time lost from their studies.

Answering a criticism which has been directed against him for the non-enforcement of a quarantine on measles, Dr. Miller declared that there is no provision by law for such an action as the disease is not considered dangerous. "The most danger of contagion exists in the four days before the rash breaks out," he said, "and if an effective quarantine were to be declared, it would only result in keeping many wage earners from their work, and rendering as many families practically destitute."

Warning is Given.
"The epidemic is well scattered throughout various sections of the city, but so far, aside from inconvenience, little actual suffering has been occasioned. The disease is for the most part manifested in a mild form, and no deaths have occurred from this cause."

"Members of families where measles is present, should, however, refrain from associating with others to any greater extent than is absolutely necessary."

there were other answers like those:

"The character Naaman appears in Omar Kajamm."
"The ukulele is an instrument of torture."
"The underground railway is the method of communication with Congress revived by President Wilson."
"A mediator is a piece of hot iron shooting through the sky."
"Shadow Lawn is noted for the slaughter of 1916."

Do you realize what you will have to pay for the family's shoes next winter? A word to the wise is sufficient.

A Guarantee

YOU want just one thing in the clothes you buy; if you get that, it's enough. You want to be satisfied with them.

A "guarantee" doesn't mean much unless it means that; and when we "guarantee" our clothes, that's what it means.

We use none but all-wool fabrics; the best of other materials; skilled craftsmanship; we design styles to express the good, new fashion-ideas; we make models to fit all sizes and shapes of men. And we guarantee satisfaction.

Every merchant who sells our clothes is authorized to make such a guarantee, and make good on it; it covers everything about clothes that may satisfy or dissatisfy; fabrics, fit, colors, tailoring, value for the price. There are no reservations or exceptions.

LOOK FOR THE LABEL
Our label in the clothes is the signature to this guarantee, be sure to see it before you buy. If it isn't there, the clothes are not ours. A small thing to look for, a big thing to find.
