

LUMBER PLANT REOPENS TODAY

PROLONGED RUN ASSURED BY OVERHAULING—MORE LABOR ORDERED FOR THE BOX FACTORY AND WOODS.

(From Friday's Daily.)

After being closed down for the last three weeks for a general overhauling, the sawmill at the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber Co. plant, resumed operations today, and will run two shifts, it was announced this afternoon. Mill officials stated that everything is now in condition for a prolonged run.

Because of the accumulation of orders, a second shift will go on tonight at the box factory, the completion of the new storage shed making possible the storing of almost an unlimited quantity of the finished product until the car shortage abates to such an extent as to allow for shipping.

BEND BOYS TO HAVE ANNAPOLIS CHANCE

Early Graduation of Middies Creates New Vacancy—May 8 Date for Examination.

(From Monday's Daily.)

An unexpected vacancy for midshipmen from Eastern Oregon in the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis has been created by the recent order of the President directing that the midshipmen of the class of 1918 be graduated in September, 1917.

Congressman Nick Sinnott has decided to make designation of principal and three alternates for this vacancy on basis of a competitive examination to be held simultaneously on May 8 in the following cities:

Bend, Klamath Falls, Lakeview, Ontario, Baker, La Grande, Pendleton, and The Dalles.

The examination will be held under charge of the U. S. Civil Service commission. Every boy eligible to take same and desiring to do so should report to the secretary of the local civil service board of examiners at 9 o'clock a. m., May 8, and if possible notify Congressman Sinnott at Washington that he intends to enter the competition.

Any young man is eligible to enter the competition who is now an actual bona fide resident of the Second Congressional district of Oregon, and a citizen of the United States, provided that on June 27, 1917, the date of the official entrance examination he shall be between the age of 16 and 20 years.

The examination will consist of the subjects of algebra, geometry and grammar, for which three hours are allowed, and, after an intermission of one hour, geography, United States history and arithmetic, for which three hours are allowed.

Prospective contestants can get information concerning the Naval Academy and sample questions by writing to Congressman N. J. Sinnott, Room 242, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

ENLISTMENT IS HEAVY AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Majority of Men Will Serve Under Stars and Stripes—Women Ready to Do Part.

(By United Press to the Bend Bulletin.)

EUGENE, Ore., April 9.—The shadow of war hangs heavy over the University of Oregon.

Since the assembling of Congress in special session, when it was apparent war was inevitable, the international situation and the prospect of going to the front in the service of Uncle Sam have been uppermost in the minds of the men of the university.

Fifty of the most prominent men of the student body have enlisted and more are joining daily. Dr. John Straub, dean of the college of literature, estimates that about one-third of the total male enrollment will go to the colors at the first call, and that the bulk of the others will join later. Faculty members are taking up special work, such as map-making and field tactics.

Scores of girls are enrolling in the Girls' Honor Guard, an organization which is taking up seriously first-aid and hospital work and motor driving. Already attendance at classes has begun to suffer, for many have gone home to visit mothers and fathers before going out with their regiments.

AUTO STAGE STARTS RUN

WILL WOMEN WORK IN FIELDS IN AMERICA?

Change in Labor System May Be Necessary in Case of Heavy Enlistment for the War.

By Carl Vrooman, (Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Member National Emergency Food Garden Commission.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Can we enlist a million American women to do men's work this summer on the farm?

I ask this question because it is possible that this summer the United States may be in as great need of farm laborers as of soldiers and munition makers. But whether the actual opportunity comes this year or not, preparedness of the individual for war or for peace demands that American farm women be ready for every possible emergency.

It is well within the bounds of probability that the available farm labor of the United States will be materially reduced by the calling of many men to other and more hazardous duties than sowing and reaping.

It is physically possible for the farm women of America to aid our economic preparedness in the event that a war summons an immense army to the colors. To handle modern farm implements is not necessarily beyond a woman's strength. With a good team and a riding cultivator equipped with an umbrella, plowing corn is a deal more pleasant than washing. The spring seat of a binder compares favorably with the comfort of a piano stool. Few household duties are more fun than riding a hay-rake. Even plowing with a sulky plow is not too heavy a strain for some American women.

Every farm girl and woman should proceed at once to master the elements of practical scientific farming. Those who can should attend short courses in agricultural schools and every one should ask questions, observe, and read bulletins.

The Department of Agriculture has issued a concise, simple, practical primer of scientific agriculture for the middle west—"Farmers' Bulletin No. 764"—which can be obtained through Congressmen or directly from the Agriculture Department. Similar bulletins for other regions are now under preparation.

Every farm girl and woman, moreover should, by all means, take a hand in actual farm operations so as to handle tractors, horses, and farm implements readily and skillfully. Those who do so will not have to prepare AFTER the fighting has begun, to do their "bit" for their country in time of danger. They will know how to plant, cultivate, and harvest the crops essential to our national welfare when saving them depends upon the service of women in the field.

Let the million women step forward.

EVANGELIST CALLED BY WIFE'S ILLNESS

(From Monday's Daily.)

Dr. Marshall spoke four times Sunday, large audiences greeting him at each meeting. He spoke to the Bible school and a number made the decision to accept Christ. At the 11 o'clock service he spoke on "The Delity of Christ," and at 3 o'clock he took as his subject, "The Call of the Wild." The evening subject, "Two Jail Birds With Wings," was thoroughly appreciated by a large audience. Paul and Silas in prison at Philippi represented these two characters.

The evangelist was called home last night because of the sickness of his wife and son. By a vote of the congregation he was asked to come back in the early part of July after the Chautauqua, to which he consented.

MORE DONATIONS FOR ATHLETIC CLUB MADE

(From Monday's Daily.)

Although the swimming pool planned for the Bend Amateur Athletic club has been abandoned as an initial feature of the institution, consideration is now being given to a plan for the excavation of a space for the pool in the basement, thus making possible putting it into use as soon as the finances of the club are sufficient for its maintenance. With this in view a further study of the ground has been made in the past few days, and tonight a meeting of the directors will be held to reach a final decision.

Donations which will mean a big saving in the cost of the building have been announced today, all relating to the foundation work. They include the use of a rock crusher, air drill, concrete mixer and the services of Joe Rock and his crew of stone men.

With the final plans complete and these donations available, work on the foundation will begin on Monday.

OPENING THE BIBLE

When the President Takes the Oath of Office.

(From Monday's Daily.)

NO PLACE FIXED IN ADVANCE.

The Passage of Scripture Upon Which the Chief Executive Presses His Lips Is Entirely a Matter of Chance—The Bible After the Ceremony.

The president before he enters on the execution of his office takes an oath or affirmation that he "will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States," and this oath is usually sealed or confirmed by the kissing of the Bible.

The kissing of the Bible as part of the inaugural ceremony is perhaps following a very ancient custom. The Egyptians were required to kiss the rolls on which the commands of Joseph were written.

The custom requires that immediately after the president elect has taken the oath, with hand on the Bible, the clerk of the United States supreme court shall throw open the book, and the incoming chief magistrate shall implant a kiss on one of its open pages.

Doubting Thomases have always thought that there was no element of chance in this performance and that the passage of Scripture is always carefully selected in advance, and the book is held by the clerk of the court in position so that the incoming chief will kiss the passage that it is intended he shall kiss, but this supposition is entirely wrong.

James D. Maher, clerk of the supreme court, said that the opening of the book is entirely "haphazard" and that no man on earth has the slightest intimation in advance regarding the passage of Scripture that will be thus brought into notice.

Usually the Bible that is used in administering the oath is bought by the clerk of the supreme court and paid for out of his pocket and is a small Oxford edition costing $10 to $15. The late James H. McKinley, for many years clerk of the supreme court, once said, "You see, congress expends money only by appropriation, and if we were to wait for congress to appropriate the price of the book we might never get a Bible on time."

There have been exceptions, however, when the Bible came from other sources. For instance, when James A. Garfield was inaugurated March 4, 1881, he carried in his overcoat pocket to the capitol a well worn, leather bound volume which had been presented to him by his mother. The book was taken from the White House and in a few years found its way to the stall of a bookseller in San Francisco. How it got there has never been known, nor is it likely it ever will be. A few years ago it was offered for sale at a very high price.

Chester A. Arthur took the oath of office just after midnight at his home in New York city Sept. 20, 1881. The Bible used was one belonging to the then chief justice of the state of New York. It is cherished by the judge's family as an heirloom.

On March 4, 1885, when Grover Cleveland was inaugurated president for the first time, he, like Garfield, kissed the Holy Book which was given to him by his mother. It was a small volume, bound in red leather, and was presented to him many years before. The book is now in the possession of Mr. Cleveland's married sister at Toledo, O. The Bible upon which he took the oath in 1893, eight years later when he became president the second time, was one presented by his beautiful wife, and she became its possessor.

When Benjamin Harrison was made president March 4, 1889, the Bible used was one that his wife had given him on the day of their marriage in Oxford, O., where President Harrison spent his school days. The Harrison Bible is owned by Mrs. James R. McKee, the daughter of ex-President Harrison.

President McKinley used a Bible that had been presented to him by the negro bishops of the country. It was the largest Bible ever seen at the clerk's office, and Clerk McKinney in relating the incident said: "The day before the inauguration one of the bishops called at my office with the Bible. It was a huge affair of the type known as family Bibles. It rested in an ornate box lined with purple velvet and ornamented with gold. The box was fastened by lock and key. When I realized that it would be my lot to carry that huge Bible from the senate chamber clear out to the front of the capitol my knees grew weak and I could not refrain from asking the bishop jokingly where the wheelbarrow was that should go with it."

The invariable custom is that on the day following the inauguration the clerk of the court takes the Bible to the White House and presents it to the first lady of the land as a keepsake.—Exchange.

Re-enforced Concrete.

The ark in which Moses was placed in the bulrushes, we are told in the second chapter of Exodus, was an ark of bulrushes daubed with slime and with pitch. This is probably the first recorded instance of a re-enforced concrete structure.

In matters of conscience first thoughts are best; in matters of prudence last thoughts are best.

ENFORCE AUTO LAWS

Machine Owners Hailed Into Court to Explain Lapses.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Recommencing the campaign against autoists who fail to comply with the law, leaving the tail lights on their machines extinguished after dark, the Bend police are busy tagging all autos coming under this head, the tags directing the owners to report to City Judge H. C. Ellis.

Ten autos were tagged last night, and on all excepting first offenders, the full penalty prescribed by law will be exacted, Judge Ellis states.
