TO THE MEN.

One of our friends thinks that all this Hoover business and the war-time recipes and hints for saving in the home are directed only at the women. She thinks that the men have their share in it too, but are sitting back and looking to the women to bear the whole burden, and that that is not fair. Her idea is, to make a poor joke, that as Oregon is an equal suffrage state, the men and women ought to suffer together.

The idea is discussed in a clipping from a Portland newspaper which she has brought us, a letter written by a woman to the editor, which we reprint as follows:

"Every woman who takes an interest in her home is by nature economical, especially in these times when high prices demand it.

"For instance, how often are we told: 'Don't waste a drop of milk!' With this necessity selling at 13 cents a quart, is it likely any woman would throw a drop of it in the sink? 'If,' pleads a Portland housewife, 'you are the only paper in the world to do so, suppose you drop women for a while (we'll conserve just the same) and tell the men how they can conserve.

"What about oil?" asks Portland Housewife. "Isn't there a scarcity of that? And yet I saw my very own husband just pouring oil on his tin lizzie to produce a polish, when soap would have served just as well."

"And gasoline? We need gasoline to win the war. How many delivery drivers (men) turn off their engines while making deliveries? Haven't you seen cars standing stock-still by the curbing, pounding away for five or 10 minutes, sometimes longer, while the drivers are making deliveries? Is that conservation?"
How about it, Men?

HEALTH.

The present scarlet fever epidemic will not have occurred in vain if there grows out of it sufficient health and quarantine ordinances. That such will probably be the case seems clear as the result of last night's meeting between the council and the school board. Everything the city health officer needs to make possible the healthiest city in the state should be provided. In climate, water supply and other conditions we have all the fundamentals of a healthy community. Let us see to it that the man-made conditions are equally good.

Some towns have a healthy public conscience, and where one is found other things are likely to be in pretty good shape. The public conscience of Bend ought to be ashamed to hear that most of the summer deaths of children might have been avoided. It ought to awaken itself now and help the health officials to see that there is no ground for renewed criticism of the same sort.

Recent statements on the part of the Central Oregon Irrigation Co. officials that they wish to cooperate with the settlers in working out the best solution of the problems confronting those interested in the segregation seem to be borne out by the apparent acquiescence in the formation of the district proposed by the settlers. The county court has now set December 17 as the date of the election at which the settlers shall decide if they wish to proceed. If they decide to do so an opportunity will be offered both sides to get together and produce something constructive.

The report of the Deschutes county food administrator that at least 1000 families have signed up to conserve the nation's supply of food, is encouraging. A complete report will undoubtedly show an even higher percentage of domestic patriotism.

The Y. M. C. A. has earned the reputation of being the greatest thing in the soldier's life. Deschutes county will have the chance to help $3000 worth in the next two weeks toward making trench existence endurable.

Retail food prices have decreased on an average of 10 per cent since June, says a Washington news dispatch. Seems odd that Bend was passed up.

"Italy Will Get Help In Every Way," says the headlines in a newspaper story. Change one letter and see what she is getting now.

Our boys in France will entrench; we must retrench. Sign the food card and live up to the pledge.

"Great Caesar's ghost" ought to come to the rescue of his hard-pressed descendants.

"All nuts are fresh," says a sign in a local grocery window. They surely are.

The Germans seem to have found the hole in the macaroni.

Now it's a championship football team for Bend.

Have you signed the food pledge yet?

Have you dug your potatoes?

FIFTEEN WILDFOWL SECURED BY THIEF

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

After enjoying unusual good fortune on a shooting trip, W. H. Martin, of the Martin & Cashman store, found late last night that the total results of the trip had vanished. Ten ducks and five geese which he had left hanging in his garage, had been stolen before he had a chance even to pluck a single bird. No clue, to the identity of the thief has been found.

The birds stolen were Mr. Martin's share of a bag of more than 100 made by a party of hunters who returned to Bend yesterday.

BERKELEY SEXTETTE WILL APPEAR HERE

Varied Musical Program to Be Given Here November 16, as First in the Lyceum Series.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Coming as the first of the high school lyceum series this season, the Berkeley Sextette will appear in Bend at the Liberty Theatre on the evening of November 16. It was announced this morning. The six are being sent to Bend by the same entertainment bureau which furnished the talent for Bend's Chautauqua last summer, and are declared to be among the headliners of the 1917-18 lyceum.

The program will be composed of orchestra numbers, readings, songs, instrumental solos, and costumed selections. Of the gowns which will be worn, it is declared that the sextette is the most expensively costumed of any company of its size in the lyceum field.

WILL NOT CONSIDER UNION RECOGNITION
