

BEND WINS OVER REDMOND TEAM

BASKETBALL SCORE IS 31 TO 15.

Local Boys Carry Off First Victory of Season—Next Game Is With Madras — Arthur Norcott
Is Last Night's Star.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Opening the interscholastic basketball season for the year, Bend high school won from the Redmond quintette to the tune of 31-15, on the Hippodrome floor last night. Arthur Norcott played the stellar role of the evening. He was everywhere the ball was, and time after time scored, making 11 field baskets in all. Sanders and Smith gave him excellent support throughout the game. The Redmond boys played a good game, although they were plainly nervous. Tuck, of Redmond, made one of the prettiest throws of the evening in the first half when he tossed a basket on the run half way down the floor. The visiting team showed good stuff but the clever passing of Bend was one of the strongest factors in piling up the score. Both teams were fairly evenly matched.

The numerous penalties during the game may be accounted for by the fact that this was the first contest of the season. Next week the local men will meet Madras on the home floor.

Rice, captain of the Redmond team did the principal scoring for the union high. Baskets were made for Bend by Norcott and Sanders and for Redmond by Young, Tuck and Rice.

Nelson Byberg acted as referee and Philip Dobson, of Redmond, umpire.

A big crowd turned out to witness the game, Redmond sending several automobile loads of rooters down. An abundance of excitement was furnished throughout the evening and enthusiasm ran riot. The score stood 11 to 5 at the end of the first half, Bend leading.

The lineup was as follows:

Rice	rfl.	Sanders
Young	lfr.	Norcott
B. Van Allen	lgr.	Smith
P. Van Allen	rgl.	L. Coyner
Tuck	c.	McGuire
Coaches	Francis, Bend; Moore, Redmond.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN PASSES THROUGH CITY

James W. Woods, of Cline Falls, still has Pass Given Him By President Lincoln.

(From Monday's Daily.)

Veteran of the first battle of Bull Run and an acquaintance of President Lincoln, is James W. Woods, of Cline Falls, who passed through Bend Saturday on his way to Portland. Mr. Woods is now 71 years of age.

The elderly man was a member of the Fourth Wisconsin regiment in 1861. With his school teacher and 15 other boys he enlisted in the same company. All were together at Bull Run but only three survived, the teacher and two boys. Mr. Woods was 15 years old at this time. He secured a pass to Washington, eight miles distant, and in that city attempted to get a furlough home but failed to impress the officers.

On the street he met President Lincoln and stated his case. The President then saw to it that the lad received a furlough and a pass on the train. Mr. Woods still has this pass in his possession.

During the Spanish-American war the veteran offered his services to the governor of Minnesota.

Nurse Says Soldiers Like Gifts of Cookies and Candy

(From Friday's Daily.)

Another letter from Miss Alice Stone, an Oregon City nurse now with Hospital 22 in the Harvard unit in France, has been received by her intimate friend, Mrs. J. M. Lawrence, of this city. The Bulletin recently published a similar one written to Mrs. E. M. Thompson.

In the last note Miss Stone tells just what supplies are sent the hospitals on the front lines and gives a picture of the living quarters of the nurses. Extracts from the letter are as follows:

"We do not have many of the Red Cross supplies. Our things are furnished by the government but the C. C. S. (casualty clearing station), receives all of those. Our men wear night clothes and when they go to England they all wear the regulation Blighty clothes supplied by the hospital. So we do not bother about any of those other things. But if any of your friends have time and can knit, we can use any amount of mitts, which are like mittens but do not cover the fingers. Then I can also always use stockings or socks. We haven't any use for bed socks. Other things which are useful are the scarfs and wide handkerchiefs like the bandanas. They can be made out of almost anything."

"Of course we have thousands here and one can never have enough, but it is nice to give some little thing. All of the sisters having friends, we manage to give the boys some pleasure, so they are quite well taken care of.

"Our wards are made of canvas, like any tent, only three together so we have 48 and 60 bed wards. Our unit cares for 1800 men at a time. We are a clearing station, so our patients are only able to stay until they are well enough to be shipped over to Blighty. They are taken from the field to the C. C. S. and brought down here by train.

"Our fracture and head cases are the only ones who remain with us any length of time. They are in huts and are quite as well cared for as if in their hospitals at homes, but the boys who have to go back up the line are the ones we mind the most about and try to give them some little thing. This is the way I do: I generally give them a box of cigarettes and matches, a pair of socks, chocolate, gum, and the like. They have their knapsacks with a few things and can't carry much. After they are located, I usually send a box once in a while to the ones I know from my ward. Even so we cannot give to all and a little goes a long way."

"There are several units here, so there are several thousand patients and with the R. A. M. Co. (Royal Army Medical Corps), and the medical officers and nurses, we are a city by ourselves.

"We are not near any city and four or five miles from town. No amusements except what we do for ourselves, but we do have jolly times. We usually have dances and play hockey. There are Y. M. C. A. huts for the boys and a recreation hut for the ones who are able to go.

"It seems hard to have our American boys come over here, but all of these boys are dear and all have homes, too. They never complain and are jolly, even the sickest of them.

"Our huts are quite cozy. We have nice rooms with a tiny stove. Our coal is issued each day. We are not in our rooms much, so we have enough fuel to keep us warm. It gets cold here as we are near the sea and we feel the dampness. The food is fair and we have plenty. Sugar is very scarce, but I know it is the same over there as well. We have the same things to eat all of the time but we don't mind and the boys are fairly well cared for. They don't have the variety we do—but a fair amount. Consequently a box of cookies or home-made candy is a treat to all. Small packages are the easiest sent."

BRANCH SCHOOL IS ESTABLISHED

UNION DISTRICT AT REDMOND WILL PAY HALF OF TEACHERS' SALARY—WILL BE AN AID TO TERREBONNE.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

What is a step toward improved means of education in the country districts, which will probably have a state-wide effect, has been taken in Deschutes county. School Superintendent J. Alton Thompson yesterday completed arrangements for making it possible for the outlying districts willing to support two-year high schools, to graduate students into the junior classes of standard institutions without the necessity of their taking an examination for entrance.

By coming up to the requirements set by the union high school district at Redmond, small towns in that section may install courses, which will give the students the full credit, as will be the first community to take advantage of this rule, which will have a tendency to keep the ranchers' children at home instead of taking them away to the larger towns.

Pays Half of Salary.

The recommendations which must be followed before a school can be standardized are: The district must furnish a room, janitor services, heating, the requisite library for standard high schools, the required amount of apparatus for the courses in the first two years and pay for one-half of the teachers' salary. The union high school board will then hire a teacher, who must be qualified to instruct in high school work. She would have eight classes, reciting in periods from 35 to 40 minutes in length.

After February 1 no standard high school may receive students from any other than a standard institution without submitting them to an examination and holding the papers written by the students on file for the superintendent of public instruction or his deputy to examine. At La Pine, although there is a two-year high school, the graduates must observe this rule. At Terrebonne, under the new system it will not be necessary because it will be classed as a branch of the union or standard high school at Redmond. If Bend would form a union district, La Pine and similar towns could be included.

State Official Approves.

In spite of the fact that the branch high school was permissible under the present school laws, it has never been tried out before. Mr. Thompson, after receiving a request from Terrebonne to form a district of some sort, evolved this solution to the problem. It has met with such favor that the state superintendent of public instruction has asked that he be kept posted on the way in which the plan works out.

The union district does not give the branch any additional funds, it merely pays half of the teacher's salary direct to her.

BENDS POSTAL INCOME GROWING RAPIDLY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 17.—For the first time in many years, Oregon is not represented in the list of estimates submitted by the treasury department for public buildings. This is because previous sundry civil bills have appropriated all the money needed to complete buildings under construction. Since 1913 no general public building has been passed, and except in the case of a limited number of special acts, no new buildings have been authorized. The supervising architect was so far behind in plans, and so many buildings were delayed from one cause or another, that until this year there has appeared no substantial diminution in the number and cost of public buildings. This year there is a sudden falling off, which will be still more pronounced next year, unless there is new public building legislation in the meantime, but of this there is little likelihood. Secretary McAdoo has announced vigorous opposition to omnibus bills, and while the house passed a bill of that sort in the last congress, it proceeded no further. In that bill it was proposed to authorize buildings for Hood River, Klamath Falls and Corvallis, and to purchase a site at Oregon City. None of these ambitions is likely to be realized in the present session. In the meantime Bend has come forward rapidly in postoffice expansion, and will no doubt be urged on an equal basis with the other towns named when new buildings are again seriously considered by Congress. Congressman Sinnott, looking up postoffice receipts of towns in his district which do not have public buildings, finds the following figures, as of June 30, 1917: Hood River, $19,974; Bend, $18,475; Klamath Falls, $18,108; Ontario, $10,618; Enterprise, $8,262; Vale, $6,892
