COMMISSION IS FEELING SHAKY

port to the millage bill. By passage of this bill no money will be asked from the next legislature for any military purposes whatsoever, is the promise of its authors, and in the light of this assertion there seems to be excellent chances for its passing. It is pretty safe to assume that a patriotic press, which has given its undivided allegiance to every patriotic measure, will also fall in behind the move and the defense council looks for a great majority in favor of it.

Bills Are Numerous.

In addition to the measures mentioned, others which will be on the ballot include a bill to prohibit commercial fishing, bills from C. S. Jackson of the Portland Journal to cut out delinquent tax publications and to establish a new rate for publication of legal notices, a bill for Southern and Eastern Oregon normals, a bill for a new state school, and possibly bills for repealing the $6,000,000 road bond issue and further regulating road work. Still other initiative measures are looked for.

The Jackson bills are claimed by him to be inspired by an intense patriotic fervor which permeates him through and through in the interests of the taxpayers, but others are inclined to the belief that they are somewhat actuated by motives of revenge. Sam Jackson has made a million or more in the newspaper game, growing up from the country ranks, and now he turns and scorns the base degrees by which he did ascend. Through his henchmen he tried to slip the delinquent tax repeal over on the 1917 legislature, but fell down when his motives were exploited. Whether he can buffalo the people remains to be seen.

League Dwindling.

The Non-Partisan league, which was considered a bugaboo to some of the candidates early in the race, apparently is dwindling into insignificance. Constant reports of the alleged assinine activities of the league in the Dakotas seem to make it appear less of a menace here, and while the league will get some backing the great rank and file of farmers are going to rather gun shy, if statements heard from various sources are to be depended upon. Whatever occurs, the league will not be a formidable organization in the next legislature. From the very fact that the candidates will be lined up at the primaries and practically elected by the middle of May, there seems little hope of the league getting by with any material advantage at the general election.

Oregon already has the initiative, referendum, recall and the numerous bits of popular legislation which gave the league its strong hold in the limited middle western territory it covers and the league's propagandists will not have the shouting capacity here that they had in a corporation ridden state.

Pierce for Governor.

Walter Pierce of Union county now has his name up as Democratic candidate for governor and it is generally considered that he wishes to be the standard bearer for the Non-Partisan league. His advent makes it rather tough on Bob Smith, editor of the Tax Liberator at Roseburg. Bob was side kick of Pierce when the 6 per cent. limitation amendment was put over and the two have been the staunchest braves of the Taxpayers' league. Some time ago Bob made a trip east and came back shouting about the menace of the Non-Partisan league. Linked up as he is with Walter, and Walter's position in the Taxpayers' league and his inclination toward the Non-Partisan league will cause even foxy Bob a few wrinkles before he decides which way to flop.

One thing is sure. If Walter and the Non-Partisan league ever get into control together the capitol at Salem will be converted into a munitions factory turning out 72-centimeter statutes at the rate of a hundred a day. What the league will be unable to think of in the line of freak legislation will be gleefully supplied by Walter and they will plaster the statute books with everything that is new and kill everything that is now among those present.

Harvey Starkweather of Milwaukie is the only other Democratic gubernatorial candidate so far appearing.

Will R. King, Democrat, formerly of Eastern Oregon, one time justice of the supreme court, and now solicitor for the reclamation service at Washington, has formally entered the race as Democratic candidate for the United States senate. There are some who feel that if Stanfield is nominated King will have a good chance if he can beat Sam White, also Democratic candidate for the nomination.

Moser Figuring High.

Mathematical Moser's deductions as to his place in the governorship race, as recently published, are important if true. Multnomah's wizard of addition can fairly make the paper sing with his paens of victory. He says he will come out of Multnomah with 15,000 to the good and that the upstate or downstate vote, whichever it is, will be so sadly split between his opponents that the farmers will cut down his lead to no more than 10,000 at the most. Those who have examined the Moser statement, and are pretty familiar with public sentiment, say that the only outstanding feature in the statement is his assertion that all of his opponents are good men.

Four years ago he says he carried Multnomah by about 4,000 plurality. At that time, however, he was backed by a solid wet organization with several hundred white aproned boosters advertising their candidate from behind every bar in Portland. That organization has now melted like the mists before the morning sun. He also calls attention to the fact that three years ago there were eight candidates, of which number four were from Portland and two from Oregon City, within a few miles of Portland. Gus now labors on the assumption that he will get all the vote that was cast for the other three from Portland, merely because he is a resident of Multnomah county. Gus seems to forget the fact that the reason he didn't get the vote of the other three Portland candidates was because the voters didn't wish to support him. The Oregon City candidates were pledged to prohibition and consequently he need expect to get none of their vote at this election after his following became so marked three years ago. Simpson will also cut a big chunk from Moser's Multnomah county following as every report indicates that he is playing his strong cards in Multnomah county on top of Moser's own table.

Based on Old Vote.

Moser also claims he will receive a large vote in the Willamette valley, basing it considerably upon the valley vote of three years ago. Three years ago he received the vote of the valley wets and not much more. They are now located in the same section of the country as the wets who cut the figure in Portland three years ago. Moser will receive a mighty small percentage of votes in the Willamette valley, or every political dopester of any astuteness in this section has lost his acumen.

He states he has covered about one-half of the state already and will cover the balance before the primaries. If he does his strength will continually dwindle.

The writer can place his fingers on half a dozen letters received from Central Oregon since Moser made his famous visit there and each of these letters bears the report that Moser's visit cost him at least 20 per cent. of his doubtful strength in that section. If he keeps this record good throughout the balance of the state he will not have to remain up very late on the night of the 17th of May to discover that he is not wanted.

Olcott Center of Fire.

These facts are summarized merely to indicate that there is no reason to change the recent statement that the race is between Withycombe and Olcott and that Moser, Simpson and Anderson will be chalked up as also rans when the dust dies away at the wire.

The ammunition wagons are being drawn up and the offensive working out against the Olcott sector by the various candidates. Simpson is soliciting support for himself in the different counties he is visiting, but requesting the voters, if they find they cannot give him their support, to throw it to Withycombe. In fact, Olcott is the center of fire and "Anything to beat Olcott" is the slogan. Olcott's strength has been too well demonstrated in past elections to be considered a negligible factor and this is realized by the candidates. The Portland Telegram is an example of the general situation, that paper not appearing for any particular candidate so far, but directing all of its attention to attacking Olcott. Many believe that the Telegram is getting ready to support Moser, this being argued from its repeated attacks on the state highway commission, a body appointed by Governor Withycombe. Moser and the Telegram seem to be joining hands in this attack and the attitude is hard to explain from any other angle but that it contemplates getting behind Moser's candidacy.

It Cost the Average Family Less Than 10c Per Week for Packer's Profit in 1917.

The Meat Bill is one of the large items in the family budget but less than 10 cents per week of it goes to the packer in profits.

In converting live stock into meat and getting it into the hands of the retail dealer, the packer performs a complex and essential service with the maximum of efficiency.

The above statement is based on Swift & Company's 1917 figures and Federal Census data:

Swift & Company's total output (Meat and by-products)	5,570,000,000 Pounds
Swift & Company's total Profit	$34,650,000.00
Profit per pound	$.0062
U. S. Meat Consumption	170 pounds per person per year
170 pounds at $.0062	= $1.05 per person per year
