

BEND BOXERS HOLD HONORS

BOTH GEORGE AND GILBERT VICTORS.

Williams Is Put to Sleep at the Start of the Fourth Round—George Wins Decision Over Street in Ten-Round Go.

(From Monday's Daily.)
Bend boxers again demonstrated their supremacy as boxers Saturday night at the Bend Amateur Athletic club smoker, when Fred Gilbert won over Billie Williams of Portland in the fourth round of a ten-round bout, and Billie George retained the middleweight honors in a ten-round decision battle with Frank Street of Portland.

The first go between Gilbert and Williams gave promise of ten rounds of fast and furious boxing until Williams left an opening in the commencement of the fourth round and received a right hook to the jaw that put him down for the count. Rounds one, two and three went by with little advantage to either man. Williams was in good condition and was capable of taking punishment freely administered by his opponent, and came back in a like manner. In the first round Gilbert registered a right hook on the jaw of his opponent, and for his trouble received an uppercut in the mouth, Gilbert returning with right and left to head. Round two opened with a clinch, both men trying for body blows. In the break Gilbert landed right to body and left to head, and received several stinging blows in the mouth. The balance of the round both men were fighting cautiously. Williams slipped and fell in this round and was helped to his feet by his opponent. Round three opened with a clinch fighting to a clinch. Williams landed right to head, and followed later with a right to the jaw. Gilbert retaliated in the close fighting with short-arm jabs to the body. As the gong sounded Gilbert landed right to face. Both men were fighting easy. Williams was spitting blood.

Round four opened with the men coming to a clinch and close fighting. Gilbert getting in his work on the body of his opponent and receiving short jabs in the face. After the break from a clinch Gilbert landed left to body and a clean right hook to the jaw, putting his man down for the count.

George-Street.
The middleweight bout between Billie George and Frank Street of Portland was hard fought from the beginning. Street, a careful fighter, kept himself well covered during the entire ten rounds, and only in the first round did he appear at all bewildered when he received a heavy uppercut to the jaw that sent him to the floor. He came up at the count of three, and, hugging close to the ropes, let George rain blow after blow on his face and head, waiting for an opening. One coming, he took advantage of it and landed a stinging right to George's jaw just as the gong sounded.

Rounds two, three, four and five followed each other with both men fighting hard and many clinches. Street continued to hug the ropes and permit his opponent to land right and left to head, and short-arm jabs to body. During these rounds Street succeeded in catching George napping on two occasions and landed rights to the jaw, but they lacked the punch and George came back smiling.

Round six opened with both men fighting cautiously. George rushed his man to the ropes and rocked his head with right and left hooks. Street came back with a hard left to the jaw, and in the open fighting a moment later succeeded in landing another in the same place. The fighting then became close again with Street against the ropes and guarding cautiously, covering up well, and remaining entirely on the defense.

Rounds seven, eight, nine and ten were continuations of the former rounds, George keeping the offensive and Street hugging the ropes. At the end of the ninth round George landed a heavy right to the jaw and Street went to his corner groggy.

The only time during the entire battle when it appeared that the fight belonged to any man was at the end of the first round after George had landed hard on his opponent's jaw and put him down for the count of three. While Street fought cautiously he appeared to have plenty of wind all through the fight, and came back hard on every occasion, fighting viciously when not employing his tactics of hugging the rope and keeping covered, waiting for a chance opening to land one of his vicious right swings. George was caught napping during the first three rounds and permitted his opponent to land, but after that he kept well covered, both in the open and close fighting.

The main bouts were preceded by a preliminary by Ernest LeClaire and Hill Benson, both of this city. Although ten pounds lighter than his opponent, LeClaire made a good showing, winning the honors in a decision contest at the end of the three rounds the bout was scheduled to go. The men worked hard and there was not a lagging moment from the start to the finish.

Dr. Turner, eye specialist of Portland, will be in Bend again Wednesday and Thursday, June 19-20, at Thorsen's jewelry store. Don't fail to consult him about your eyes and glasses on those dates. On account of serious illness in his family Dr. Turner was unable to keep his last engagement in Bend, but will positively be there on above dates. 14-15

SILVER LAKE MAN IS SEVERELY INJURED

Car Turns Turtle Near Lakeview, Pinning J. L. Freeman Beneath Wreckage—May Not Live.

(From Friday's Daily.)
J. L. Freeman, well known stockman of Silver Lake, is not expected to live as the result of an auto accident which occurred Monday, according to reports which were brought to reports which were brought to this to this city yesterday by P. H. Reeder. Freeman was out driving in his new Premier car in the vicinity of Lakeview when the accident happened. The car became unmanageable, veered from the road into a shallow ditch, and turned over three times, the driver being pinned beneath the wreckage. Other autoists who saw the accident rushed to the aid of the injured man and succeeded in getting medical aid. Several bones are broken and it is feared he is suffering from internal injuries.

BOXING GLOVES BRING GOOD SUM

DONATION TO B. A. A. C. OF SET GIVES BEND CHAPTER OF RED CROSS $83.22—ROBERT INNIS IS DONOR.

(From Monday's Daily.)
One set of boxing gloves and a punching bag, the property of Robert Innis, son of Joseph Innis, brought the Red Cross $83.22 at the smoker Saturday night. In a letter to his father, written from France, where he is now stationed, Robert instructed his father to donate the gloves to the Bend Amateur Athletic association to be raffled off, the benefits to go to the Red Cross. "No one," he declared in his letter, "but the soldier realizes the great work done by this organization."

Instead of raffling the gloves, as was suggested, A. Whisnant in a short talk declared that they were to remain the property of the B. A. A. C. and asked those present to show their spirit by making contributions, with the result that the above amount was raised. Twenty-eight of those present contributed $1.

DUNN LOCATED IN WASHINGTON

(From Monday's Daily.)
Dave Dunn, ordered by the judge at the last session of the district court to leave the state, has complied with the request, according to a telegram received this morning by Sheriff S. E. Roberts. Dunn is now at Fallbridge, Washington, just across the Columbia river from the Oregon line. In his telegram to the sheriff he asks that saddles belonging to him be shipped to him by express at that point.

RATS KILLED BY THOUSANDS

(From Thursday's Daily.)
The sage rat drive in Crook and Deschutes counties is meeting with phenomenal success. Never in the history of rodent poisoning have such large kills been made as during the past week. Reports received from Suplee, Paulina, Crooked River, Prineville, Redmond and O'Neil show that better than 20,000 sage rats were poisoned during the week of June 2 to 8. The highest kills per quart of poisoned grain were reported as 216 per quart at Suplee, 84 at Crooked River and 65 at Paulina. The county agent's office has distributed 1,500 quarts of poisoned grain and 150 ounces of strychnine thus far in the drive. County Agent R. A. Ward is holding meetings and poisoning demonstrations this week at Barnes and Bear Creek in Crook county.

Estimating the damage done to grain, alfalfa fields and ditch banks at $1 per sage rat per year, which experience shows is conservative, the work of the past week saved Crook and Deschutes counties $20,000 worth in crops. As over 50 per cent. of the rats die in their burrows and are never counted, the actual saving exceeds this amount.

CLASS 1 WEEK TO BE HELD IN STATE

(From Saturday's Daily.)
PORTLAND, June 15.—A "Class 1 Week" is to be held sometime this month by every local draft board in Oregon, under instructions received from the war department and communicated to local boards by Captain John E. Cullison, officer in charge of the draft in the office of the adjutant general.

The purpose of "Class 1 Week" is to correct any errors in classification that may have been made previously. In correcting these errors, many registrants previously placed in lower classification will be transferred to class 1.

At the same time, the reclassification will work both ways. Where the evidence justifies, local boards will reopen the cases of men wrongfully placed in class 1 and place them in lower classifications, as the circumstances warrant.

Government appeal agents and members of legal advisory boards have been directed immediately to make a careful examination of all questionnaires and records in all cases in which they are satisfied that reclassification should be made. Thousands of registrants are now in class 4, the war department believes, who should be in class 2 or class 1. Appeal agents are instructed to appeal every case where the reclassification is not convincingly correct.

"Local boards, government appeal agents and members of legal advisory boards," Captain Cullison's instructions advise, "are requested to direct special attention to the following classes of cases: Class 2, A and B; class 3, A, B and C; class 4, A."

For the benefit of all these definitions are given: Class 2-A: Married man with children or father of motherless children, where wife and children are not mainly dependent on him for support; 2-B: Married man without children whose wife is capable of supporting herself; 3-A:

Man with dependent children (not his own but toward whom he stands in relation of parent); 3-B: Man with dependent, aged or infirm parents; 3-C: Man with dependent helpless brothers or sisters; 4-A: Man whose wife or children are mainly dependent on his labor for support.

New standards of physical examination are being issued by the provost marshal general. These will, it is believed, not merely add to the number of men eligible for military service, but will largely increase the roster of those held for limited or special service.

COUGHS AND COLDS VANISH.

"Summer colds" are not hard to break up, coughs and hoarseness are easy to get rid of, if you will take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Mrs. Mary Sogdam, 282 Maple St., Perth Amboy, N. J., writes: "It helped my throat; never had anything better." Slightly laxative. Contains no opiates or narcotics. Sold everywhere.

National and Local Meat Business

The meat business of the country is conducted by various agencies—

By small slaughter-houses in villages—

By local Abattoirs or small Packing Houses in towns—

both

Using only a part of the local live stock supply and

Furnishing only a part of the local demand for meat.

These slaughtering and distributing agencies fill a well defined but necessarily restricted place in the distribution of the products of live stock.

But only packers like Swift & Company, organized on a national scale, are able to undertake the service that is more vitally important, involving

An Obligation to the Producer
To purchase for spot cash all the live stock the producer may send to market for slaughter.

An Obligation to the Consumer
To make available to every consumer, everywhere, in season and out, the full supply and variety of meat products, of the highest standard that the market affords.
