

TRIBUTE PAID DROWNED MEN

JAY H. UPTON SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON.

Were Men Without Enemies—Other
Business Taken Up by Club—
War Savings Workers Are Thanked.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
Tribute to the memory of Vernon A. Forbes and Ralph Poindexter, President Foley appointed J. A. Eastes, C. S. Benson and Clyde M. McKay.

With his thoughts so filled with the loss of his two friends, Mr. Upton felt himself able to make only passing mention of the irrigation subject, on which he was called to speak. He did, however, compliment the club on the action it took recently to forward the plan for the development of irrigation to make homes for returned soldiers, and urged continued support of the measure now introduced in congress by Congressman Sinnott.

Following a suggestion made by H. J. Overturf in a letter from Eugene, the club voted to invite Colonel John Leader to spend his vacation following the present officers' training camp in Bend. A second camp will open on August 3 and the club will forward applications from any in this section who wish to attend.

Dr. U. C. Coe, who recently returned from the east, told of the tremendous war activity to be observed there, saying that critics of the administration would be silenced if they could see what was going on. R. S. Hamilton, of the University of Oregon, was also called on for remarks. He spoke of his friends and acquaintances in Bend and of Colonel Leader, praising him highly for his many fine qualities. Referring to a portion of Mr. Overturf's letter, in which he said he disliked to see so many empty houses as there were in Eugene, Mr. Hamilton said that the reason was the inflation caused by a boom without any solid foundation and urged that the mistake be avoided here.

For the Fourth of July committee, Dennis Carmody read a financial statement showing expenditures of about $425 and a balance of nearly $100 on hand. The report was ordered filed. A vote of thanks was also given the war savings stamp organization for its success in putting Deschutes county in the lead in Oregon and thereby, according to an ingenious proposition set forth by President Foley, making it the leading county in the world.

FEW PETITIONS ON THE BALLOT

Jackson-Hagood, et al., bills.

Honest One Fails.
One measure of large moment fell by the wayside. An honest endeavor was made honestly to secure signatures for the emergency war fund bill, a measure with honest purposes. But people wouldn't sign. The State Council of Defense was behind this move and used its organization in the various counties in an effort to put it over, but the interest was lacking. Of course the interest was lacking with those endeavoring to secure signatures as well, because they were not paid so much per name or so much per day by a millionaire taskmaster, and consequently it didn't get by.

Up to Legislature.
Failures of the emergency war fund bill to get over may lead to some serious consequences. This bill was intended to raise some $928,000 a year to meet the expenses of war emergencies. Had it been enacted into law the next legislature would have had no need to cope with war expenses, even to the expense of the national guard and naval militia.

With the 6 per cent. limitation amendment tying the hands of the legislature in a time of stress, the war emergency bill would have saved the day for the soldiers and have left it comparatively easy sailing to meet mounting current expenses of state government. But, as it is, the chances are slim for the legislature to handle the situation, and it will require much better financial ability than is shown by the average batch of legislators to meet the crisis which will arise.

There is No Surplus.
Regardless of the fact that an additional 6 per cent. is allowed for each year's levy over the last, under the limitation amendment the 1919 legislature will have no more money to spend than the legislature of two years ago. The emergency board has taken care of that part of it by eating up all the surplus in deficiency appropriations, which will be the first expenditures which the next legislature will have to meet as a distinct moral obligation.

This will leave the 1919 legislature with funds approximating practically dollar for dollar the funds which were allowed the 1917 legislature. Everyone knows that the 1917 appropriations were inadequate, even in normal times. Everyone knows now that expenses have doubled, tripled and in some cases quadrupled over what the 1917 session expected they would be.

Imagine the situation confronting the merry band of gentlemen who will convene here early in January, 1919, and the glad manner in which they will go at their task to meet the uphill pull ahead of them.

And that is not the worst feature of it. All of the extraordinary expenses for war emergencies, which it was contemplated by the State Council of Defense would be handled by the emergency war bill, will have to be met by a legislature bowed

BEND KNITTERS HAVE HUGE TASK

400 POUNDS OF YARN
REQUIRED.

135 Sweaters and 950 Pairs of Sox
Are to Be Sent Out from Local Chapter by the First of September.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)
Four hundred pounds of yarn, costing approximately $1,100, will be required to fill the demand made upon the Bend chapter of the Red Cross for knitted goods to be delivered by the first of September. The knitting department, under the supervision of Mrs. Miner, is working on a quota of 135 sweaters and 950 pairs of sox. It will require 125 pounds of yarn to complete the sweaters and 275 pounds to complete the order of sox, at an average cost of $2.75 per pound.

The work will be apportioned out to the various auxiliaries throughout the district, and Mrs. Miner is making a special appeal for the women who can do so to aid in filling the quota by the specified time.

In the rural districts work for the chapter has slowed up considerably. This is attributed to the haying season now being at its height and the helpers living in these districts are not permitted, through other duties, to give as much time to the Red Cross work as previously.

Officials of the order here are now endeavoring to secure a knitting machine to aid in turning out the work.

Comfort Kits Furnished.
In the sewing department the special order for 110 comfort kits to be turned out immediately by the chapter has been completed and will be sent out this week. These kits are now being held pending the arrival of supplies with which they are to be filled.

In addition to the comfort kits for the month, the supplies to be finished include one case of convalescent gowns, one case of operating gowns, one case of taped bed shirts. In addition to this there is an allotment of baby layettes and leather vests.

down under the burden of the 6 per cent. amendment.

Statement on Ballot.
To meet the crisis the state tax commission will take up the question of preparing a statement to put on the ballot at the regular November election in order to provide for an additional levy of taxes. This the commission may do under a law of the last legislature, the 6 per cent. amendment limiting all levy increases to 6 per cent. a year, unless otherwise voted on by the people.

Apparently the legislature may be helped to the tune of a few hundred thousands of iron men by recommendations that are almost certain to come from the committee named by the last legislature to investigate the question of abolishing state aid for the industrial accident commission and to make workmen's compensation compulsory.

Senator Eddy, who is chairman of that commission, stated on a recent visit here that he will call the members together at Salem within the next few months for the purpose of formulating some report, and from the drift of Senator Eddy's conversation it is probable the committee will report favorably on making workmen's compensation insurance compulsory, on cutting out state aid for the commission and imposing the entire burden, except possibly the cost of administration, upon the employers and employees. If this is done it probably would save the state about $450,000 the next biennium, as state aid is costing about $300,000 for the present biennium.

Commission in Favor.
The accident commission itself is in favor of the plan, but believes the state should bear the cost of administration. With all these forces apparently lining up behind the movement it looks as though the next legislature might decide a question which has been much mooted ever since the industrial accident commission was formed.

The first deficiencies for state institutions has been granted by the emergency board in the shape of $35,000 for the state penitentiary, which asked for $70,000. More will likely be given when the board meets again along about October. Senator Wood, who created the emergency board, or rather was father of the act creating the board, and who was largely responsible for the slashing of appropriations two years ago which has brought on the necessity of deficiency appropriations, has been consistently absent from emergency board meetings of late and the balance of the members of the board are huffy. They say he is dodging a responsibility which rests peculiarly upon him as father of the emergency board law and as chairman of the joint ways and means committee which made appropriations so low that the government could not continue to exist in many of its branches without deficiencies being granted.

They hope to smoke him out and make him attend the next meeting to put him on record as to where he stands. The doctor from Washington county, however, is a little foxy himself and if he attends the next session it may be a lively affair. The board also gave $5,000 for the state lime board. The lime board expended all of its $20,000 appropriation without producing any lime. It wanted $10,000 more and got but five. If it fails to find a market for its lime now after it has enough to operate on, the whole lime business may be ditched at the next session of the legislature.

MEN DROWNED WHILE FISHING

The accident occurred three-fourths of a mile from the boat landing. It was only about 100 yards to the nearest shore. People at the landing first heard the motor stop and then, in a moment, screams for help.

The boat did not break, as at first reported, but was sunk by the weight of the motor, apparently after springing a leak, or otherwise filling with water. Following the screams, watchers saw one of the men, whom they thought they recognized as Mr. Forbes, apparently confused by the shock and the suddenness of the affair, swimming out into the lake, with Mr. Poindexter following in an effort to aid him. This lasted only a few moments, both going under before making any distance.

Mr. Poindexter is said to have been an expert swimmer, and it is now believed that he sacrificed himself in his effort to save his friend, the weight of his clothes and the low temperature of the water causing him to succumb in his fruitless endeavor. Mrs. Forbes returned from Portland last evening and was joined this morning by a younger sister, who came in from Vancouver. Friends report that both she and Mrs. Poindexter are bearing up bravely under their present strain.

PROHIBITION CLAUSE CAUSES ARGUMENT

Ruling That It Has No Place as Part of Food Stimulation Bill to Be Voted On.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The dry won a signal victory this afternoon when the senate by a vote of 36 to 33 reversed the ruling of Senator Saulsbury, president pro tem, whereby the prohibition amendment would have been removed from the food stimulation bill. It is believed the amendment will win.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Senator Saulsbury, president pro tem of the senate, upheld Senator Penrose's point of order ruling that the bone dry prohibition amendment had no place in the food stimulation bill. The ruling has caused a lively discussion and the senate will take a vote as to whether or not the ruling will be sustained.

HE ALSO SERVES WHO STANDS AND SALUTES

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, July 10.—It was quite an event in the young life of a private to be assigned to guard duty around the White House.

But it has its disadvantages. There's this saluting thing. When an officer passes a soldier on guard, the private must stop in his tracks, face his superior and bring his rifle to "present arms."

Of course that isn't hard work—just now and then. But when officers from the neighboring war department pass almost in a steady stream it keeps said private busy saluting.

So, guarding the President may be some honor, but it's also some work.

Mrs. Chas. Peden Gains 27 Pounds

Twice Examined and Each Time Told Operation Was Only Hope.

"I have just finished my third bottle of Tanlac and have gained twenty-seven pounds," was the truly remarkable statement made by Mrs. Chas. Peden, residing at 550 Mill street, Huntsville, Ala. Mrs. Peden is one of the best known and highly respected women of that thriving little city, where she has made her home for a number of years.

"When I commenced taking the medicine," she continued, "I only weighed ninety-eight pounds; now I weigh 125 pounds and never felt better in my life. For years I have suffered with a bad form of stomach trouble, constipation and pains in my side and back. At times the pains took the form of torture and I was twice examined and each time I was told that I had appendicitis and that an operation would be my only hope. I had fallen off until I only weighed ninety-eight pounds and was so weak I could hardly get around."

"I had no appetite at all scarcely, and what little I did eat would cause gas to form in my stomach, which gave me palpitation of the heart, sick headaches and a dizzy feeling about the head. When the spells came on I would get awfully nervous. I worried about myself until I could rest and sleep but little."

"I had fallen off until I was almost skin and bones and my strength and energy were slowly leaving me. I had a dread of the future and could see nothing but the operating table and the knife. I had a perfect horror of an operation, but I had made up my mind that it was either life or death and prepared to submit to it. I had made all preparations for the operation and called on my sister to tell her goodbye, as I did not know whether I would live to see her again or not. My sister begged and pleaded with me not to allow them to cut on me and told me to wait and try a good tonic for a while. The next day, as I returned from the consultation room I thought of what she said and as I had heard so much about Tanlac I decided to try it as a last resort and stopped at Gilbert's drug store and bought a bottle. Of course I had lost heart and had no faith in the medicine, but to please my sister I made up my mind to take it, and, oh, what a happy day that was for me!"

"I never returned for the operation, but just kept taking the Tanlac. Right from the start I began to feel better. The medicine seemed to take hold right at once. It had a soothing effect and in a few days I felt no pain at all. I was so happy over the wonderful improvement in my condition that I sent for my neighbors to tell them how much better I felt. I sent and got another bottle of Tanlac, and have just finished taking my third bottle and feel like I have been made all over again into a new woman."

"As I have said before, I now weigh 125 pounds, and my improvement has been so rapid that none of my clothes are big enough for me. I will have to make them all over again. I now have a ravenous appetite and my husband says I am simply eating him out of house and home. I have even gone back to my coffee, which I was told not to touch. Those terrible pains in my back and head have all disappeared and I sleep like a child. I am no longer nervous and when I get up mornings I feel refreshed, cheerful and bright. I am now able to attend to my household duties and I feel as if I had started life all over again. My husband is highly delighted, and my recovery is the talk of the neighborhood. I do nothing but rejoice all day long over the recovery of my health and praise Tanlac to everybody."

"I feel so grateful for my escape from the operating table and the knife that you may publish what I have said; you may, if you will, tell other women suffering as I was, to come and see me and I will be glad to tell them all about my case."

Tanlac is sold in Bend by the Owl Pharmacy, and in Sisters by George F. Aitkin.—Adv.
