

SHEEP ARE SENT ONTO RESERVE

4,800 PASS THROUGH BEND DURING PAST TWO DAYS ON WAY TO RANGE NEAR THE SISTERS—FLOCKS IN GOOD SHAPE.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)
Forty-eight hundred head of sheep, the property of James Hinton of Shaniko, have been driven through the city the past two days on their way to the summer range in the vicinity of the Sisters mountains. Mr. Hinton, who is in the city today, states that the sheep are in good condition on the range, but that the exceptionally dry weather has made the ranging of sheep a problem which the stockmen are unable to master. The usual spring and early summer range has been cut short by several weeks the usual annual grazing period, and many of the sheepmen were forced to send their flocks to the reserve much earlier than was anticipated. Conditions on the reserve are, however, excellent, he stated, and it is not thought that the sheep will suffer from lack of range.

GUNNER NEPHEW OF T. W. CARLON

BEND MAN READS OF OREGON'S COMPLIMENTS BEING SENT TO THE BOCHE BY RELATIVE IN THIS MORNING'S NEWS.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
A description of the firing of the first shot against the Germans by Battery A of Oregon, appearing in Portland papers, is especially interesting to T. W. Carlon of Bend because of the fact that a nephew, who is a member of the battery, was the gunner. Corporal Charles O. O'Malley is the nephew's name and as a member of the section I gun crew he participated in sending Oregon's first compliments to the Boche. Mr. Carlon was much interested to read of his nephew's activity in this morning's news.

For the time being the tank is being used by girls from 1:30 to 3:30, boys from 3:30 to 5:30 and men from 7 o'clock on.

PORTLAND BOY RECEIVES KIT

H. E. ALLEN RECEIVES WORD FROM TWO CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE BULLETIN TOBACCO FUND, DELIVERED JUNE 19.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
Corporal Elmer J. Shipton, whose home address is 406 1/2 Broadway, Portland, Oregon, but who is now with the American expeditionary forces in France, was one of those to receive tobacco from the Bulletin tobacco fund. H. E. Allen of this city, who several months ago made contributions to the fund, received a card from Corporal Shipton yesterday, together with one from Private Joseph E. Selfert, whose home address is not given. Shipton's card was mailed from Angers, France, June 19, and is as follows: "Just a word to let you know that I received a package of your tobacco. I wish to thank you very much for the cigarettes. My home is in Portland at 406 1/2 Broadway, and I started from there one year ago the 26th of this month. The boys sure do enjoy the tobacco." Private Selfert writes: "Accept my sincere thanks for the many things the folks back home are doing for us boys at the front. These gifts are certainly very highly appreciated."

WEST POINT AND ANNAPOLIS TESTS

(From Friday's Daily.)
Congressman Nick Sinnott will hold competitive examinations, open to every eligible boy in the second Oregon district, for the West Point military and Annapolis naval academy on October 19, 1918. The examinations, which will be given for the congressman by the United States civil service commission, will be held simultaneously in the following eight cities: Klamath Falls, Lakeview, Ontario, Bend, Baker, LaGrande, Pendleton and The Dalles.

Those candidates standing highest in each examination will be appointed as principals and alternates in order of standing to fill the one vacancy in West Point and one in Annapolis. Such successful candidates will take the official examinations in the spring of 1919 and if successful in same will enter the academies in June. Candidates to be eligible must be bona fide residents of the second Oregon district, and if trying for the West Point cadetship must be between 17 and 22 years of age on the date of admission, and if for appointment as midshipman at Annapolis between the ages of 16 and 20 at date of official examination. Those interested should write at once to Hon. N. J. Sinnott, room 242, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., stating whether they prefer the naval or military academy and requesting copy of booklet giving full information and sample questions.

CHARLES NICKELS LIKES THE ARMY

Is Now Located in New Jersey Awaiting to Be Sent to France at an Early Date.

(From Friday's Daily.)
Charles Nickels, formerly owner of the Windmill in this city, and who left here with the May 16 draft contingent, has written to E. P. Mahaffey of the Central Oregon bank, describing the army life since leaving Bend. Mr. Nickel was stationed but a short time at Camp Lewis when he was transferred with his company to an eastern cantonment, and at the time of writing was located at Jersey City, expecting to be called at any moment for embarkation to France. Before leaving Bend Mr. Nickels disposed of his business and with all available funds purchased Liberty bonds. He declares in the letter that he is very much enthused with the army life and is anxious to get to the front.

SIXTY-THREE INCHES IS MINIMUM HEIGHT

Men Must Now Be Three Inches Taller to Enter Uncle Sam's Army—Rejections on This Basis.

(From Friday's Daily.)
Men under five feet and three inches will not be accepted for service except in the limited classification, according to an order issued to the local draft board. Many men called during June were rejected by the examining board at Camp Lewis because of the new ruling, changing the height from 60 inches to 63 inches. The local boards had not been notified of the change in the ruling and the men were sent under the old order, while the board examined under the new. In the order issued July 8, the adjutant general's office states: "Local boards can in no way be censured for the large number of rejections in the June call." There was one rejection from Deschutes county.

CONFISCATED BEER CONTAINS ALCOHOL

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
The beer taken from Knute Bjorge and his son in this city last week contains from 3 1/2 to 7 1/2 per cent. alcohol, according to a report made by the state chemist after testing four quarts of the liquor. In selecting the samples which were sent to the state chemist's office, the authorities chose both quart and pint bottles. One bottle tested 7 1/2 per cent. alcohol, another 6 1/2 per cent. and another 5 1/2 per cent. and the fourth 3 1/2 per cent.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
The Red Cross surgical dressing work, which has been interrupted until the new instructions for making the cellulose dressings should arrive, has been continued. These instructions have been received and the work is to be resumed on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The delay has thrown the local work behind schedule and it will be necessary to have a number of extra workers in order to get the Bend allotment out on time.

FIRE THREATENS FOREST RESERVE

BLAZE WHICH HAS BEEN BURNING ON RESERVATION FOR SIX WEEKS IS HEADED TOWARD THE SOUTHERN BOUNDARY.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
A forest fire which has been raging on the Klamath Indian reservation is approaching the Deschutes national forest on a front five miles wide, it has been reported to the forest service offices here. Preparations have been made by the government officials for meeting the emergency and fire fighters are being held in readiness to cope with the situation when it comes. Ranger Stringer, in charge of this portion of the Deschutes national forest, has notified the authorities that he will be able to hold the fire if he is furnished with five men and teams and fire fighting appliances. The fire has been burning on the reservation for six weeks.

OFFICIAL SAYS REPORT UNTRUE

NO OFFICIAL ACTION HAS BEEN TAKEN REGARDING REMOVING RAILS OF O.-W. R. & N. ON THE DESCHUTES.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)
The report that the O.-W. R. & N. company rails between Metolius and Sherman were to be taken up and used for other building purposes was emphatically denied by an official of the company who was in Bend today. This official stated that no such action was being contemplated officially by either the government or railroad officials. He was emphatic in his declaration that while the railroads were under the direct control of the government, the federal officials would take no such action without first consulting and obtaining permission of the owners of the roads. "There is no question," he declared, "but that the building of two roads up the Deschutes was a mistake, and that the steel is now worth a great deal more than when it was put down, but any gain that could be made by the company in a resale of the rails would be offset by a greater loss in right-of-way and other construction."

WALTER SPEAKS OF HIS PLANS

and to pledge themselves to advance the interests of their country in the crisis which it faces. The judge, being a candidate, had inadvertently remarked early in the campaign that he intended to do no campaigning about the state and as a result he couldn't attend the get-together gathering in person, but he could write a letter and so he sat himself down and wrote. And the letter was a dinger.

It has just come to light again, as letters will some times do, being resurrected from the hoary archives of antiquity, but nevertheless still a perfectly good letter, and here is what the writer writ, in part:
Pledges His Support.
"I desire to state that in the event I am not successful in securing the Republican nomination for state treasurer, I pledge my unqualified support to him who does secure this nomination and will do everything in my power to promote his interests and secure his election in November."
"Bravo! Score one for the judge. Loud cheers at the meeting as it was read and hurra for our side! But, hold! Inadvertently the judge didn't get the nomination. Something like a little matter of 118 votes stood between him and glory.
Ay! There's the rub!
What painful memories are sometimes stored away in an innocent looking little letter! That letter must be sad reading for the judge these days as he pulls out his old files and ruminates over what might have been.
And just to show that he was in earnest about what he said he also tacked on to what has been published in the foregoing a little sentence like this: "And will give my unqualified support to the nominee of the Republican party for the office of state treasurer and will do all I can to assist in the advancement of the Republican principles and policies and the upbuilding of the party in the state."

"Bevo, Judge!"
And now to those who are slowly accumulating knowledge of the fact that in a sorrowful moment the judge had typewritten those memorable lines, is as slowly sinking in the thought relative to his tentative announcement of not long since that he may possibly become an independent candidate against O. P. Hoff, the successful nominee.
How he can do it after writing that letter is more than a great many politicians around these parts have been able to guess. Perhaps he won't do it. Probably, as he has sober second thought about the matter, he won't do it.
One of his very, very close, bosom friends was asked by the writer the other day how he thought Judge Ryan would explain the letter he wrote before the primaries in event he became an independent candidate for the treasurership.
"Back to Farm," says friend.
"What letter?" said the bosom friend, drawing himself up very promptly.
"Why, that letter in which he promised to support the successful Republican nominee," was the response.
"Did he write a letter like that?" queried the bosom friend.
"He sure did, and how will he explain it?" still angled the writer.
"If I were he," which is the identical way the bosom friend put it, "I would explain it by going back to the farm—that's the way I would explain it."
And those were his identical words. Immediately after saying them, however, the bosom friend shrugged his hat on his head and walked out of his office, taking a direction which suspiciously tended toward the state treasurer's sanctuary.
And like the bosom friend, the writer rises to remark also that "if I were he, I would go back to the farm." And the chances are that such will be the explanation when the story is told.

Petitions Are Ready.
Although, regardless of that fact, it is understood that petitions already have been framed and ready to circulate to put Ryan's name on the ballot as an independent candidate. This also comes from a bosom friend. To announce the names of these bosom friends would be the height of ingratitude, but Judge Ryan may guess at one of them by remembering who came rushing into his office the other day with his hat tilted back on his head as though it (the hat) had been hurriedly put on.
But enough for that. From rumblings heard it seems to be a pretty safe bet that the judge will go back to the farm anyway, whether he becomes an independent candidate or not. So what's the use?

Governor Withycombe dropped an interesting bit of information the other day when he stated that while he will favor the continuance of a state constabulary after the war, he will also favor its being cut down to about one-fourth of the present size of the military police. The governor believes that a state constabulary can grapple with many questions, such as liquor law violations, local rioting and so on, which many times the local officials shy at, as witness the fiasco some time since of the arrest of the sheriff in Washington county for the importation of liquor. The state constabulary, he believes, would not be circumscribed and hampered by distracting local influences and would be inclined to do its duty when stubborn conflicts of duty and friendship frequently come up to hamper the local officials. But he believes that the military police should remain at its present strength until after the war. And when this will be, while it is a matter for man to determine, is still for God only to know.
