

DRAFTEES HEAR RUSSELL SPEAK

PEOPLE MUST STEEL SELVES FOR WAR.

Men Worried Over Business Matters Make Poor Fighters—War Insurance and Civil Relief Laws Explained.

(From Saturday's Daily)
Bringing to Bend the message of the State Council of Defense that the people must steel themselves to endure until the German peril is ended for all time, and the message from the war department that our young men must be clean and stay clean in order to do their part in ending that peril, John K. Kollock of the council and Captain Richard Russell of the National army addressed a large audience at the gymnasium last night. Colonel Hibbard of the Multnomah State Guard also spoke.

Contrary to the announcement first made, ladies were invited to attend the affair and to hear Mr. Kollock and Colonel Hibbard, but were requested to withdraw before Captain Russell began his talk.

In opening his address, Mr. Kollock first talked especially to the drafted men, saying that it was the wish of the war department that before leaving home they see a lawyer and go over their business affairs with him, learn how to draw a deed and to execute a power of attorney. Men who were worried by business affairs were not good fighters, he said, and the department was anxious that all business worries be removed.

He next described the two great laws passed by congress for the benefit of soldiers and sailors. One was the war risk insurance law, providing that every soldier or sailor must allot part of his pay to his dependents, who also received an allowance from the government equal to the allotment. The law also provided compensation for injury and insurance in case of death, all benefits being available without the interference of attorneys.

The other law was the soldiers' and sailors' civil relief law, designed to protect men in their civil rights while serving their country. Its general effect is to maintain all their rights as they existed when they left home.

Leaving this subject, Mr. Kollock then discussed general war questions, urging that committees be organized for war work and that there be no thought of peace until the war was well won. Mr. Kollock's remarks were frequently applauded, especially his eulogy of President Wilson.

Colonel Hibbard, who followed Mr. Kollock, spoke of the organization of the Oregon military police and of the Home Guard organizations.

Captain Russell's talk to the men was a combination of the three lectures given soldiers at the training camp and was received with close attention.

County Judge Barnes presided and musical numbers were played during the first part of the meeting by Mrs. M. H. Horton, Mrs. E. V. Ward and R. D. Ketchum.

M'KENZIE TRIP ONE OF INTEREST

For startling scenic grandeur there are few automobile trips in the west that compare with that over the McKenzie pass, between Eugene and Sisters, Ore. This is one of the favorite routes for California-Oregon tourists, many of whom travel north through Central Oregon via Bend and Sisters.

From Sisters, which has an elevation of about 2,600 feet, the road climbs steadily through the yellow pine woods to the top of the pass, where the crest of the Cascades is reached at an elevation of a little over 6,000 feet. The road is steep and in some places is sandy. Small powered cars frequently have trouble in this sand, which in dry weather seems to be of bottomless depth, and it is not an unusual sight to see half a dozen light cars stuck on one of the several steep sandy hills on the eastern climb up the mountains. There is no way out of this dilemma, excepting for all hands to get behind and push the car ahead until it can gain solid footing again.

Over Lava Fields.
Once at the summit, the road turns sharply to the south, dropping off at a brisk grade, but few passengers are wise enough not to stop in amazement at the view that confronts them. A tumbling, black wall of lava lies directly ahead, stretching for miles to the north and east, on which there is never a tree, shrub, or blade of grass. To the right the curious sugarloaf peak of Mount Washington rises over its snow-covered bosom. The forbidding cones of Belknap and Black craters show over the river of lava, along which the road runs for miles.

In many places it is rough going, though there has been so much travel over this road that the rocks and lava are said to be rounded off to a degree that makes them less severe on tires than would be imagined. The lava stream, when winding its way down the mountainsides has occasionally reached a knoll higher than the adjacent country, and these stand up, tree covered and green, like oases in the black desert of hardened mud and rock that not so long ago poured over this part of the Cascades.

Although the forest service has been at work on the road down the western slope of the pass, that part from the summit to Alder Springs has been badly washed out and is in poor shape. The lower portions of the descent, however, are in fairly good condition. After the lava beds have been left behind, the road passes a number of charming mountain peaks, over which the great snow peaks of the Three Sisters stand guard, their glaciers plainly discernible from the road. The road finally reaches the McKenzie river, following that scenic trout stream into Eugene. It is rough and in rather poor shape as far as Blue river, though readily passable for any car.

Tourists eastward bound would probably have the same trouble with sand that many westward bound cars experience, excepting after a good rain. Travelers over the pass last week found the road well packed, however, as a result of the storms of the week previous.

ARRESTED FOR STEALING BOY

MAKES RACE FROM ALBANY TO LA PINE.

E. R. Feller Taken in Custody by the Officers Yesterday—Held Until Linn County Authorities Arrive.

(From Monday's Daily.)
Charged with kidnapping his four-year-old son and stealing a Hudson super six car, E. R. Feller, who gives his home as Klamath Falls, was held at La Pine by C. L. Clark yesterday afternoon upon information furnished by the sheriff's office here until L. A. W. Nixon arrived to take charge of the man.

Yesterday morning Sheriff S. E. Roberts received word from the Linn county authorities that Feller had kidnapped the boy and was heading toward Bend with the idea of crossing the California line before he could be apprehended by the authorities.

The car passed through Bend earlier in the day, and when the authorities had been able to locate it and the driver word was sent ahead to Dr. Vandeventer, who was on the road, to be on the lookout for them. Dr. Vandeventer relayed the message to La Pine, and when they arrived there Mr. Clark ordered them to stop. This they at first refused to do, but later when Mr. Clark used persuasion did so.

Feller last night, after returning to Bend, declared that he had not kidnapped the boy or stolen the car. He said that the trouble had come out of a divorce case between himself and wife. Saturday evening he went to the house of his wife, who resides in Albany, and took his little son out riding. After he had him in the car the idea came to him to take the child with him to Klamath Falls. He declares that the car is his property and that he has already paid over $500 on it.

With Keller in the car were two men, and it is presumed by the authorities that these two men were acting as relays in driving. The trip from Albany was made in the night, and at the rate they were driving would have reached the California line before daylight this morning.

Feller was released from custody this morning under the surveillance of a deputy sheriff, who will remain with him until after the Linn county sheriff arrives here, which is expected will be some time this evening.

LIVED YEARS WITH ESKIMOS

REV. BREVIG OF THE NORWEGIAN LUTHERAN CHURCH WAS FOR 18 YEARS MORE THAN 90 MILES NORTH OF NOME.

(From Saturday's Daily.)
Rev. T. L. Brevig of the Lutheran church, who tomorrow night will address the congregation on the experiences of a missionary among the Eskimos, is well able to discuss this subject. Mr. Brevig was sent into Alaska by the United States government in 1894, in care of a reindeer experiment station which had been established there. Previous to this he had been a teacher in the schools in Minnesota, and upon taking up his Alaskan duties he taught the Eskimos at a school established by him there.

His only companions were the Eskimos and several Laplanders who had been imported into Alaska by the United States government to teach the Alaskan natives the uses of the reindeer. He remained in this country, over 90 miles north of Nome, for over 18 years, when he resigned and came to the States.

When he was called upon to fill the pastorate here, he had resigned from both the ministry and active life, but accepted the call because he believed it his duty to make concessions which would relieve younger men for war service.

WILL KEEP GYM OPEN SUNDAYS

MEMBERS TO HAVE ALL PRIVILEGES.

Swimming, Pool and Bowling, as Well as Club Rooms, to Be at Disposal of Senior Members from 10 Until Midnight.

(From Friday's Daily.)
All departments of the Bend Amateur Athletic club gymnasium are to be open from 10 o'clock Sunday morning until midnight, including pool, bowling, plunge and gymnasium. This was the decision arrived at by the members who attended the mass meeting at the gymnasium last night. When the schedule of hours at the gym were arranged it was planned to close all departments on Sunday, with the exception of the club rooms. This has been overruled by the members on the ground that Sunday is the only day on which many of the members have the time to take advantage of the various forms of recreation.

The hours have been arranged at from 10 until 2 o'clock for the men, including the plunge, pool and bowling. From 2 until 5 the club will be turned over to the women members, and from 5 until midnight will again be at the disposal of the men. Sunday will be for senior members only. No juniors are permitted in the building on this day.

All senior members in the plunge during any hours are required to wear suits, and two committees of three members each, one of men and one of women, are to be appointed by President Johnson to decide upon regulations regarding the suits which are to be worn.

Upon motion by Clyde McKay a rod and gun division to the club is to be organized, President Johnson being instructed to appoint a committee of three to look after this work. The purpose of this division would be to take up matters of interest to the sportsmen in this section, making an effort to retain the fish hatchery, stock streams and other work affiliated with this division.

On Sundays no one under 16 years of age will be permitted within the gymnasium, either for recreation or to be employed.

Eastes, Clark Rhodes and H. C. Ellis.

HUDSON APPOINTED ACTING POSTMASTER

(From Friday's Daily.)
Wilbur H. Hudson has been appointed to the position of acting postmaster in the place of H. B. Ford, who has resigned the position. Mr. Ford expects to leave on an extended vacation trip within the near future. Mr. Hudson will act in the capacity of postmaster until the new appointment is made.

FIRE SITUATION IS OF THE BEST

NO BLAZES ARE REPORTED IN THE DISTRICT—FIRE ON THE KLAMATH INDIAN RESERVATION IS BEING HELD.

(From Friday's Daily.)
The fire situation on the Deschutes national forest reserve and in Deschutes county is the best it has been since the opening of the dry season, according to the state and federal officials. No fires are reported on the reserve or within the county, the only danger now threatening is from a second fire which has been raging on the Klamath Indian reservation for the past three weeks and which has been steadily creeping toward the forest reserve line. This week men from the reserve were sent to the scene of the blaze and are aiding the reservation authorities in holding the front, which is easily made possible through the weather conditions.

Three new lookouts have been established in the district and the one at Maiden Peak has been discontinued temporarily.
