

DELEGATES OFF FOR SPOKANE

EIGHT MEN FROM THE SHEVLIN-HIXON AND BROOKS-SCANLON MILLS, REPRESENTING LOYAL LEGION, LEAVE TOMORROW.

(From Saturday's Daily.)
Eight members of the Loyal Legion, three from the Brooks-Scanlon mill and five from the Shevlin-Hixon Company, will leave tomorrow morning for Spokane to attend the conference of Inland Empire division of the legion, which opens at that place Monday.

The men are going at the request of a call issued by Brice P. Disque, colonel commanding of the spruce division, and are expected to follow the lead of a similar convention in Portland last week and agree to Col. Disque as sole arbitrator on all labor questions that may arise during the period of the war.

This movement was set afoot by employers representing the lumber industry of Western Montana, Northern Idaho, Washington and Oregon, who met in Portland July 19. They agreed upon Disque as sole arbitrator.

The delegates represented every local of the Loyal Legion of Loggers and Lumbermen in this territory. They were all American citizens, and all actively engaged in the timber industry.

The Portland convention praised Disque highly and adopted a resolution which was forwarded to the war department urging that no change be made in the administration of the spruce division.

The delegates from here were: David Hodge and Charles Hughes, from The Shevlin-Hixon logging camps, and W. H. Bond, David Kelley and Tom Murphy, from the mill. The Brooks-Scanlon delegates were A. D. Morton from the logging camp and J. Blew and C. L. Simpson from the mill.

FIRE DESTROYS SMALL SHED

OTHER BUILDINGS IN THE VICINITY ARE THREATENED—LITTLE DAMAGE TO THE PROPERTY.

(From Friday's Daily.)
Fire breaking out in a woodshed at the home of Henry Burton, on Florida avenue, this forenoon brought out the fire fighting equipment of the city. Little damage was done.

The fire evidently started from ashes which had been thrown out in or near the woodshed. Residences are congested in this section and for a short time it was feared that material damage would be done, but a corrugated iron roof on the structure prevented the spread of the flames and aided the fire fighters in keeping them under control.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)
Living up to his reputation of being a hard man to down, Ad Gustavo, Argentine champion, won the wrestling match over Young Norbeck, light heavyweight champion of the Northwest, at the gymnasium last night by getting two falls out of three.

Gustavo won his first fall at the end of 35 minutes, using the Turkish toe hold. Nine minutes later Norbeck took the second fall from the local man with a front body hold, and 25 minutes following this Gustavo won the match with a single toe hold.

This match was an interesting one from the commencement, although Gustavo forced the game in each instance, Norbeck being cautious.

Gustavo announced this morning that this will probably be the last match in which he is to appear until probably the middle of October, when he will take on either Charlie Olsen of Olympia, Washington, who holds the middleweight championship and is in the same class as the local man. In the meantime the local man will go to Aberdeen, Washington, where he has a match scheduled for the 25th of this month. He will return here after this match and await further developments.

From here Norbeck will go to Astoria, where he will wrestle on Saturday night with a wrestler by the name of Jepson, who is instructor for the Astoria Athletic club. If Jepson wins this match, Gustavo will endeavor to make a match with him for the near future.

TUMALO CREEK HAUNTS BEAUTIFUL

Waterfalls and Ideal Camping Places Make This Spot One Worthy to Be Visited.

(From Monday's Daily.)
Some of the most picturesque outing places in the county are to be found on the two branches of Tumalo creek in less than 20 miles of Bend, according to W. G. Coombs, manager of the Bend Garage. Mr. Coombs was one of a party which made the trip Sunday. The party drove to the Tumalo ranger station and from there to the three falls which are in the near vicinity. Crossing over the first fork of the creek below the third fall, they went back onto the next fork. Here a series of four other falls were discovered. According to Mr. Coombs, these are of even greater interest than those on the east fork, which are more frequently visited. He states that while it is somewhat difficult to make the trip in through the woods, even on foot, as it is not accessible for a car, it is well worth the time, and there are many beautiful camping places to be found.

FILTH CAUSE OF EPIDEMIC IN THE CITY

PROPER SEWAGE SYSTEM MUCH NEEDED.

WATER SUPPLY PURE

Authorities of Bend Are to Be Asked to Make a General Clean Up and Keep Garbage Hauled Away.

(From Friday's Daily.)

Conditions of filth which exist in and about Bend are alone responsible for the epidemic of intestinal disease which rages in the city among the children each year. This was the announcement made to a representative of The Bulletin last night by Dr. Robert E. Holt, state health officer, who had been called to the city for an investigation of affairs by Dr. J. C. Vandeventer, city health officer. Dr. Holt arrived yesterday morning and spent the entire day going over the city in company with Dr. Hendershott, county health officer; J. C. Vandeventer, city health officer, and J. D. Donovan of the St. Charles hospital.

A general clean-up, which will take in all parts of the city, together with the installation of proper sewerage, is the only necessary precaution to drive out the disease, Dr. Holt maintains.

"Sanitary conditions in the city of Bend are in a deplorable state," the doctor declared. "I have found existing conditions here worse than in the average small town of four or five hundred people, because with your population of between six and seven thousand people these conditions are magnified several hundred times. You have no adequate sewerage system. Garbage and waste materials are dumped in the alleys and back yards to decay and become the breeding places of millions of flies, which pollute the very food which you eat."

"A livery stable is permitted to operate within the business heart of the city, while the refuse from the stalls is thrown out on the vacant lot beside the building and allowed to remain there week in and week out, month in and month out, without any attention from your city authorities."

Restaurants in Bad Shape.
"Filth in some of the restaurants in the city is another cause for the disease," the official continued. "We investigated these places of business on our rounds today and in many instances found that there was no precaution taken to prevent flies from accumulating. There was one instance in particular where the sewerage system was such that flies congregating in the filth at the rear of the building could come up through a hole cut in the floor, in which the refuse from the stove and counters was dumped, to be permitted to decay. There were no screens on the doors or windows, and no attempt made by the owner of this place of business to screen off the food from the swarm of flies that settled over everything in the kitchen."

Garbage in the River.
Disregarding the fact that communities below Bend on the Deschutes river are compelled to use the water for domestic purposes, refuse of all kinds is dumped along the river banks and even in the stream at places north of the city, it was declared. This, Dr. Holt maintained, should not be permitted. Outbuildings, in which the filth of several years had been permitted to accumulate, were found by the men on their tour of inspection of the residential districts of the city.

"Bend has every facility for being one of the healthiest towns in the state of Oregon," he said, "but if things are permitted to run as they are now, it will be dangerous for old as well as young."

Water Supply Pure.
"The water supply for Bend is pure, and uncontaminated, in spite of the reports to the contrary. Four samples of water from the city supply have recently been tested in the state office, and when I make this statement I know. What is needed is a clean up, and the town must have that clean up, the city authorities leading the way.

Will Recommend Changes.
"As soon as I return to my office I am going to write a letter to the city officials making recommendations for certain changes here, and these recommendations will have to be carried through. I would have met with the city council during my visit here, but I understand that both the mayor and president of the council are not in the city, and for that reason I will have to carry out my wishes by mail."

Recommends Pay for Health Officer.
"Another thing I find which needs changing is the appointment of a city health officer without pay. A man cannot be expected to give his time and services to the city, especially where conditions are such as they are here, without receiving some compensation, and he cannot be held liable for these conditions as they now are."

Conditions at Mills Good.
During the investigation yesterday the party made a tour of the Brooks-Scanlon and The Shevlin-Hixon plants and was high in its praise of the sanitary conditions as they exist at these plants. "If only the city of Bend was as careful of the health of its citizens as these operators are of the health of their employes, there would be no epidemic of any kind here," Dr. Holt declared.

Epidemic Strong.
The epidemic is fast attaining the height of a year ago, according to the physicians of the city. Considerable more than one hundred cases have already been reported, effecting the children up to seven, although older ones are also sufferers. Dr. Holt left on the train last night for Portland, and it is expected that his recommendations will be received by the city officials within the next few days.

Mr. Seitz makes the trip over these routes during each tour that he makes to this section and is practically the only person who ever attempts the military trail with a machine.
