America stands on the threshold of a great adventure and a great test. Adventure abroad, where our army is poised for a plunge into territory long held as German soil—a plunge through what must be the flower of Germany's troops if the kaiser is not at once to concede defeat.

A scorching test abroad—since our first American army, released from the tutelage of French and British war experts, must pit its own newly acquired skill against the Boche past-masters.

Glorying in the valor revealed at Cantigny and Chateau Thierry, secure in the strength of the millions of other Americans hurrying to the battle front, our army as impatiently as confidently awaits the issue.

America at home faces as great a challenge in the fourth Liberty loan, and as great a test.

The huge size of the loan—whether for six or eight billion dollars, it outstrips all precedent—thrills our imagination and rouses us to our most extreme efforts that it may be "put over" in the short time set.

A searching test—since it will reveal inexorably just how much in earnest America-at-home is in its desire to crush autocracy into the mud of this winter's battlefields.

Germany will laugh if more than the allotted three weeks is required to raise the minimum sum called for.

Germany will tremble at the news of an oversubscription in less time.

The loan is not a large one when the huge resources of the United States, $250,000,000,000, are considered. The oversubscription of the fourth Liberty loan will require less than a fifth of the annual income of the country, now estimated at $50,000,000,000.

BRISBANE AND BEER.

Arthur Brisbane is unfortunate in having his brewery newspaper loans uncovered at a time when suspicion attaches to anything of a secret nature that has a German atmosphere. The list of the brewers who joined in making the loan to Brisbane that has been disclosed by the alien property custodian sounds like the roster of a German machine gun company, and while they may be all good Americans they cannot but be viewed with suspicion until all their operations are disclosed.

For Mr. Brisbane the situation is equally bad. Grant that there is no German propaganda mixed up in it, he is still a self-confessed newspaper man who sold himself for some beery dollars. That is bad business.

In extenuation Brisbane says that he has fought for beer and light wines for years, and on that account he would have people think it proper for him to be kept by a bunch of brewers to continue fighting for their product. And proper enough it is so long as the public knows that he is being kept. If the public does not know it is being misled.

Arthur Brisbane has been called the greatest newspaper editor in the country. Greatest or not, he is enough of a newspaper man to know that so long as a newspaper puts forth its own ideas, unbought and unpaid for, it is respected and believed; but if it puts forth ideas which are identically the same, but bought and paid for, it is neither respected nor believed. Arthur Brisbane, the great editor, fighting for beer and light wines, carries weight; Arthur Brisbane, the recipient of a big loan from big brewers and then fighting for beer, has no weight whatever.

OUR INDIVIDUAL PART.

Some observers think that the most characteristic thing about the American soldiers in France, something which astounds the enemy and excites the admiration of our allies, is the capacity of the American soldiers to do individual thinking and fighting. The German fights successfully only in mass formation, in organized bodies, while every American soldier has an initiative and independence of action which gives him remarkable efficiency in open fighting. They are not senseless cogs, but each is an individual working unit in a great fighting machine. Every American at home should feel an individual responsibility and do his or her individual part in winning the war. There is not an American citizen who cannot help win the war. The fourth Liberty loan drive, which begins September 28, offers a great opportunity for concerted action and for individual action, and the loan will be a tremendous success if each American will do his or her individual part as each American soldier in France does his part. Our soldiers deserve such support from the people at home.

SOME OF THE BITS YOUR LIBERTY BOND WILL DO.

If you buy a $100 bond of the Fourth Liberty loan you are lending the United States government enough money to feed a soldier in France a little more than seven months. Or you have furnished enough money to give him a complete outfit of winter and summer clothing, including shoes and stockings, and slicker and overcoat and blankets, with enough left over to arm him with a good revolver. You have done that much to beat back the Hun.

It takes $35 more to arm him with a rifle and a bayonet on it, and if you buy a second $100 bond you furnish him this rifle and 1000 cartridges for it; and there will still be enough of your money left to purchase a good sized bomb to throw in a dugout, or demolish a machine gun together with the Huns operating it.

CURTAILMENT OF LOANS BY BANKS.

Credit extended by banks to their customers for non-essential purposes hurts in several ways. First, it involves the use of money that might be better invested in government securities, thereby helping to win the war, and shorten the war with the consequent saving of American lives. Second, it involves the use of labor, material and transportation, which ought to be left free to meet, to the fullest, the needs of the government. Third, it involves unnecessary competition with the government, both delaying government operations and making them more expensive.

There is one consolation in this lumber embargo business, and that is that all sections of the country are treated alike, the mills of the south being shut out of the embargoed territory as effectively as those of the west.

People have been asking why our soldiers are called "doughboys." After exhaustive investigation we are able to report that they are called doughboys because Baker (k) named them for making pancakes of the Germans.

Fifteen Years Ago This Week

L. D. West has been under the weather this week with a severe attack of cholera morbus.

"Dad" West and the Bend Mercantile company have built a very serviceable walk between the stores on Wall street. When the weather is dry it keeps pedestrians out of the sand, and when it is wet it keeps them out of the mud.

The bands of sheep have already begun to make their way back from the mountains to the winter range.

Rev. Mr. Comerford will arrive about October 1 to take charge of the Presbyterian church work in this field.

The Steidl & Reed mill is being kept busy as a beehive getting out lumber for building purposes. Broadway in the Lytle townsite is getting to be quite an impressive thoroughfare.

F. M. Phillips is hauling lumber from Bend for improvements at Kline Falls.

The mail stage is now frequently held at Prineville for the arrival of the mail from Shaniko.

Half a dozen vaqueros are here this week rounding up horses for the fall market.

Prepare for Changeable Weather. H. B. Miller, R. F. D. 10, Wooster, O., writes: "By the changing of beds and the weather, I took a very bad cold and sore throat. Four doses of Foley's Honey and Tar put me right in a day's time." It pays to get the genuine Foley's and avoid substitutes and counterfeits. Contains no opiates. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

TO REPORT ON LIVING COSTS

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO INVESTIGATE.

Also Study County Tax Valuations—Matter Presented by T. A. McCann in Connection with Effort to Increase Values.

(From Wednesday's Daily.) A Commercial club committee will make a study of the cost of living in Bend with especial reference to increases over a stated period, and also will confer with the mill companies and others in respect to tax matters, according to a vote taken at the lunch time meeting today.

Both matters were brought before the club by T. A. McCann, general manager of The Shevlin-Hixon Company, the motion for the appointment of the committee being made by H. J. Overturf.

Mr. McCann said that although 24 representative mill owners and employees at a Loyal Legion conference, after a complete and thorough discussion of living costs, had agreed on a wage scale, an effort was being made to obtain a higher scale in Bend on the ground that living costs were higher here than elsewhere. In order that the facts might be obtained he suggested that the club investigate.

Turning to the matter of taxation, Mr. McCann said that his company was paying 28 per cent. of the taxes of the county and the Brooks-Scanlon company probably 20 per cent. A large percentage of the county funds went for roads, but they had no benefit from them and only slight police protection. Now, he said, an effort was being made to have the property valuation increased, a few merchants being included as a sort of camouflage. He thought that farm land valuations were low, but that in any case there was no clean-cut issue between the town, the county and the mills, and that an investigation should be made by the club to get at the facts of the general county valuation. The treatment his company received, he concluded, would have considerable weight in its decision as to the location of additional industries.

Following Mr. McCann, C. S. Hudson urged that the club give the matters consideration in order that new mills might be insured here instead of locating elsewhere, as would be the case if they were antagonized.

In moving the appointment of the committee, H. J. Overturf said that valuations were ridiculously low in the city and probably so all over the county, and that while it would not affect taxation if they were higher at the same time it would look better.

That farm lands were probably assessed higher in proportion than any other property was asserted by T. H. Foley.

Other business coming before the club was a report from H. J. Overturf on the progress of the Liberty bond campaign, and remarks on the need for work in getting out the vote to insure the passage of the bond measure at today's election.

HE FEEDS BRITAIN'S ARMIES

This is Lieut. Gen. Sir John Cowan, quartermaster general of the British army, who is responsible for the supply of food, materials and ammunition to the British forces on all fronts.

MOTORS SPEED THEM TO FRONT

Motor trucks by the tens of thousands have made the great war different from any other in adding mobility to the opposing armies. Where preparation for battles in previous years required days, hours are now necessary. Since taxicabs won the first battle of the Marne, gasoline and rubber have been increasing factors.

Some of the American troops in recent battles, perhaps those shown above in a momentary halt in a French village, have traveled thirty hours with hardly a stop for rest.

Your subscription to the Fourth Liberty Loan will add to the certainty that some day troops will not reach a fight too late to win it.

Seattle Man Has Gained 25 Pounds

"I Never Felt Better in My Life," Says Bland After Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac has not only made a wonderful change in my wife, but I have been greatly benefited by it myself. It has put her in shape to where she has gained twelve pounds in thirty days and now she feels fine all the time. And as for myself, I have picked up twenty-five pounds, and never felt better in my life."

This interesting and remarkable statement was made by P. O. Bland of 2724 Fourth Ave. North, Seattle, Washington, recently.

Continuing, Mr. Bland said: "My wife has had one of the worst cases of stomach trouble, it seems to me a person could have, and everything she would eat disagreed with her in a way that caused her the greatest of suffering. During the past five years we tried everything we heard of in our efforts to help her and build her up, but nothing seemed to do her any good. Her appetite left her entirely, her complexion was sallow, and her health was all gone to pieces. She used to weigh one hundred and seventy pounds, but fell off to one hundred and thirty-three and was so weak she could hardly raise her arms. For one solid month before she began taking Tanlac, she was down in bed, hardly able to move."

"About last April she started on Tanlac, and the results have been wonderful. She has no trouble whatever with her stomach now. She eats anything she wants without suffering a particle from it, and has a splendid appetite. She was so nervous and miserable before she began taking Tanlac she hardly knew what a good night's sleep was, but now she sleeps the whole night through just like a child. Her color is clearing up and she is able to do all her household work without any trouble."

"When I noticed the wonderful benefits she was getting from Tanlac, I started taking the medicine myself, as I had been suffering for sometime with indigestion and constipation and was badly run down. I had fallen off to one hundred and forty-two pounds and was still losing. I don't suffer a particle with indigestion now, no matter what I eat, and I am always ready with a big appetite when mealtime comes. I now weigh one hundred and sixty-seven pounds, making a gain of twenty-five pounds, and my wife and I are both glad to recommend Tanlac, as it has done far more than we ever expected of it."

Tanlac is sold in Bend by the Owl Pharmacy and in Sisters by Geo. E. Attkin.—Adv.

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon, for Deschutes County. T. H. Foley, Plaintiff, vs. Henry W. Reed, Defendant.

To Henry W. Reed, defendant above named:

In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled case and cause on or before the 7th day of November, 1918, which is more than six weeks after the 26th day of September, 1918, the date of the first publication of this summons and if you fail to so appear and answer, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in the complaint, to-wit: For a decree declaring that the plaintiff is the owner, in fee simple, of Lot Eleven (11) in Block Fourteen (14) of Deschutes, Deschutes county (formerly a portion of Crook county), Oregon, according to the recorded plat thereof now on file in the office of the County Clerk of Deschutes county, Oregon, and that the defendant have no right, title or interest in, or lien or claim upon the real property above described, or any part thereof, and that said plaintiff's title to said property be quieted against said defendant, and that said defendant be forever barred from asserting any claim or interest in or to said premises, or any part thereof, adverse to this plaintiff, and for such other and further relief as to the court may appear just and equitable.

Service of this summons is made upon you by publication thereof in The Bend Bulletin for six consecutive and successive weeks, under and by virtue of an order made and entered on the 11th day of February, 1918, by the Honorable T. E. J. Duffey, Judge of the above entitled court.

The date of the first publication is the 26th day of September, 1918, and the date of the last publication is the 7th day of November, 1918. 30-36c E. O. STADTER, Bend, Oregon, Attorney for Plaintiff.

STATE OFFICES TO BE PROBED

Honorable George M. is just the lad to dig them up.

Incidentally, it might be said if such things develop the war tax on gum will make a terrible dent in the salary of one state official before the probe is over.

The state fair that is going on here this week is taking up most of the attention of state officials these days and consequently items in scarce.

It might be remarked incidentally that the fair is up to the standard in exhibits and general features and one noticeable fact is the additional interest which is being shown each year by Eastern Oregon people. Eastern Oregon exhibits grow in number and magnitude somewhat with every passing year and even running against war conditions they have climbed a little this year. It is a fact that the state fair is getting to be more and more what the name implies—a fair for all the state and much more attention is being paid to Eastern Oregon than in the past, despite the long hauls for exhibits.

The Safe, Steady, Farm Light

especially for driving an electric generator.

It is safe. It is clean. Its cost is low. Its brilliance is always steady, without a flicker.

It has extra large ball-bearings throughout. No other uses two ball-bearings on the crank-shaft; one on the connecting rod.

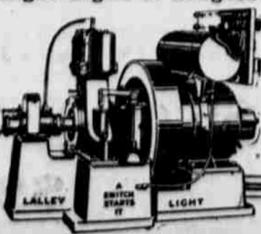

The light direct from the generator, with the plant in operation, is as sure and steady as when current comes from the storage battery.

Lalley-Light has been in successful farm use for seven years. It brings new conveniences, better living, to every farm. Its light and power cost but a few cents a day.

This is so because Lalley-Light engine is designed
