STOLEN TURKEY RETURNS TO TABLE

CLOVERDALE, Nov. 13.—To have your best and largest turkey disappear from the flock and then have it reappear baked and served on your own table as part of a birthday surprise dinner, without your slightest knowledge of its whereabouts, would be quite a joke on yourself, wouldn't it? Then imagine the surprise of Mrs. Frank Burling when a number of friends pleasantly surprised her at her home in Cloverdale Sunday evening. Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Parberry spent the evening at the Burling home and the next morning the turkey was missing. Of course it was believed that coyotes or owls had feasted on the missing fowl, but certain members of the Burling and Parberry households knew where the turkey was as it gobbled in a coop at the Parberry ranch Friday morning. Well, the turkey met its intended fate, was nicely roasted and carried by some of the members of the band of plotters to the Burling home, where it was ushered into the kitchen by Mrs. Robt. Burling. While the rest of the band, composed almost entirely of the Parberry and Cutler families, were being entertained by Mrs. F. J. Burling in another room, the rest of the feast was being prepared. After the dinner the rest of the evening was spent in enjoying delightful selections of music. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Parberry, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Parberry, Miss Gladys Parberry, Mrs. Cora Cutler, Mrs. Edith Lewis, Curtis Christy and LeRoy Cutler.
