It has been known to Mr. Roberts for some time past that Warnstaff was somewhere in this vicinity, and yesterday morning the Deschutes county sheriff started out by auto to make the arrest. After being on the road for nine hours, he found both Jass and Warnstaff near Chiloquin. Continuing on the return trip, he returned with his prisoners in Bend at 9 o'clock this morning, making 22 hours of continuous travel.

Jass, when apprehended, declared that it was his first offense, and was vehement in asserting that it would be his last. His hearing has not been set.

Warnstaff was drafted here on July 6 of the present year, and after training in California camps was sent to Virginia. It was on this trip, it is alleged, that he jumped from the train, never reporting afterward for duty at any army post. It is expected that he will be turned over to the military authorities at Vancouver Barracks, Wash.

WAR DECLARED ON JACKRABBIT

UNITED EFFORT TO BE MADE AGAINST LONG-EARED PESTS—STRYCHNINE SUPPLY IS ALREADY ON HAND.

As soon as a good snowfall makes more effective the scattering of poison, war against the Central Oregon jackrabbit will start at once, and with every prospect of big success, County Agent R. A. Ward announces. It will be the third annual drive in this section, and a united effort will be made to cut the number of bunnies to the minimum.

In the past two years 260,000 rabbits have been poisoned in campaigns waged under the direction of the county agent, and so effective has been the work that Mr. Ward has been asked to outline the jackrabbit war in Malheur county this year.

In the Bend neighborhood 1156 of the long-eared rodents have been eliminated so far this season by the Progressive Rabbit club. The results this year are not expected to be as large as in 1917, as rabbits are much scarcer through Central Oregon than in past years.

In preparation for the drive, Mr. Ward has several hundred ounces of strychnine already on hand.

While in search of Clyde Warnstaff, alleged deserter from the United States army, Sheriff S. E. Roberts last night arrested Fred Jass, ex-lumber mill worker of this vicinity, who, with 96 pints of whiskey in his car, was making his way to Bend. Not only was Jass taken into custody, but Warnstaff, who was aiding in extricating the liquor laden auto from a mud hole, was also arrested. Sheriff Roberts was assisted by a member of the state police on duty in this section.

Andy used to buy the biggest plug for the money

'Till one day Barney gave him a chew of Real Gravelly.

It was an hour or more before Andy said anything. "How much longer does this Gravelly hold its good taste?" he says. "Two or three little squares last me all morning," answers Barney. "This class of tobacco lasts so much longer it costs no more to chew it than ordinary plug costs."

It goes further—that's why you can get the good taste of this class of tobacco without extra cost.
