STATE F. OF L. TO MEET HERE

BEND DELEGATES SECURE CONVENTION FOR JULY 21—TWO LOCAL MEN ARE NAMED OFFICERS OF ORGANIZATION.

(From Monday's Daily.) Local delegates to the state convention of the Oregon Federation of Labor returned last night after succeeding in having Bend named as the next meeting place of the federation. Representatives from the different districts and industries all over the state will gather here on July 21, it was decided. Two from this city received offices in the state organization, G. H. Baker being named a member of the executive committee, while Ray Canterbury was selected as Farmers' union delegate.

The election of officers will be by referendum vote of the members of unions affiliated with the state federation. Election supplies will be forwarded in five days to each union, which must cast its vote and make its return within 30 days, when the vote will be canvassed. The officers elected will be installed March 1.

Without a dissenting vote the convention by resolution petitioned the legislature for the enactment of a law establishing a basic eight-hour day in lieu of the 10-hour basic day for all industries now affected by the basic 10-hour day. Discouragement of overtime work, except in case of extreme emergency, was also recommended.
