BIG CONVENTION PLANS STARTED

500 STOCKMEN WILL GATHER HERE.

Committee Preparing to Give Royal Welcome to Members of Oregon Cattle and Horse Raisers' Association in April.

(From Friday's Daily.)

More than 500 stockmen are expected to invade Bend on April 22, when the annual convention of the Oregon Cattle and Horse Raisers' association is held here, and the local committee in charge of arrangements for the entertainment of the association members is making preparations to show the city's guests a royal time. Baker alone will send a delegation of 30 stockmen, according to Secretary S. O. Correll, who has written asking that accommodations be reserved for this number.

Aside from the important business sessions which will be held, a feature of the convention will be a cowboy breakfast which will be served in a corral to be constructed on the river bank near the Pilot Butte Inn. Round-up chefs will prepare huge quantities of "bacon and" and sour dough bread, with black coffee of sufficient strength and quantity to keep the visiting delegates on their toes for the balance of the day.

A ranch dinner, with viands furnished by the Central Oregon stockmen and their wives, will be another bit of entertainment which, it is predicted, will be long remembered by the Cattle and Horse Raisers' association. This feature is being planned on the suggestion of George Russell of Prineville, who was largely instrumental in securing the convention for Bend.

Flying squadrons are now at work throughout Central and Eastern Oregon to insure a large and representative attendance by the stockmen from those districts.

WORK STARTED ON NEW HOUSES

TO MEET INCREASED DEMAND FOR DWELLINGS, JAMES RYAN WILL BUILD 20 INSTEAD OF 15, AS ORIGINALLY PLANNED.

(From Saturday's Daily.)

Work on four five-room bungalows, the first of a series to be constructed this spring by James Ryan, was started this morning. Two are in Park addition and two in Staats addition.

Mr. Ryan had originally announced that he would build 15 modern dwellings in the mill district, but since then so great has become the demand for homes in the city that he has arranged to put up five more.

The houses will be thoroughly modern throughout, will average five rooms in size, and will be placed on the market as soon as completed, as Mr. Ryan does not contemplate renting. It is understood that a number of the dwellings have already been spoken for by prospective purchasers.

WASHINGTON REJECTS PLAN OF J. H. HANER FOR CENSUS

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 21.—An ingenious suggestion to make easier the taking of the 14th national census, suggested by J. H. Haner of Bend, Oregon, has just been rejected by Sam L. Rogers, director of the census, which is due next year.

Mr. Haner, who has been serving on a county war board for nearly two years, planned to make the people report to an enumerator in every precinct in the United States, just as draft eligibles were compelled to report to local boards, 30 days being allowed for the count. With this completed, he suggested that the list be posted for public inspection, so that any errors could be corrected.

In outlining his reasons for rejecting the scheme, Mr. Rogers says:

"The enumeration of population at the 14th census will cover something like 110,000,000 persons. It would be possible, probably, to provide an organization for the registration of the population at designated places, precincts and the like, but serious problems undoubtedly would be encountered in providing for a full and accurate enumeration of all the inhabitants irrespective of age, within a period of a few days at most. If such a system of registration could be perfected for the enumeration of such persons as should duly appear in compliance with the law some additional means involving police power would have to be invoked to insure the ultimate registration of persons who failed to appear because of an absence from home, inability to appear on account of illness or other disability, ignorance of the law, indifference to its demands, or who, for criminal reasons, did not want to be registered, and unless all these absentees are duly and quickly accounted for the constitutional population of the country cannot be ascertained for apportionment purposes as provided for in the constitution.

"Some provision also would have to be made for the registration of all persons under a given age and who are not required to appear for registration, and some provision must also be made for the collection of the statistics of agriculture and such other statistics as the law may require, which would be otherwise collected through the medium of census enumerators."
