 but it distributes yearly from 80 to 90 per cent. of its gross output value for supplies, labor and raw materials to residents and business institutions of the state, which further goes to increase the business and prosperity of this commonwealth.
 The creation of a commission with dual authority to handle both the game and the commercial departments, Mr. Warren avers, was never at the solicitation of the commercial interests, but rather at the solicitation of game proponents. "Since the creation of a commission the commercial fisheries have never had a majority representation on that body; on the contrary, never even, I think, more than one member in five. The charge that commercialism dominates the commission is certainly a reflection on the ability of the four game representatives and the charge that the funds have been juggled for the benefit of the commercial interests is a further reflection on their intelligence and integrity.

"Commercial interests are willing to acquiesce in any policy that is for the state's best interest, but they will undoubtedly and rightfully object to being controlled by any commission on which they are represented by not even one member in five.
 "The principal charge seems to be chiefly the insidious influence of myself, the lone commercial representative, over four game members, or rather three and the executive head of the state. The absurdity of that contention I think I have already made clear.

Mrs. Brown a Well Woman Once More

Was Confined to Her Bed and Chair for Over Two Years Before Taking Tanlac.

"Some strange things happen in this world and the change Tanlac has brought about in my wife's condition is one of them," said J. L. Brown, a resident of College Park, Ga.
 "For over two years," he continued, "my wife had so much trouble with her stomach that she could hardly take any nourishment at all but a milk diet, and she fell off till she was little more than a living skeleton. She got little rest or sleep at night, had no energy at all and was so weak and run down that most of her time was spent in bed or in her chair. Her skin was sallow and unhealthy looking and she didn't seem to take interest in anything.
 "In fact she was about as bad off as she could be to be alive when she started taking Tanlac, and just a few bottles of this wonderful medicine have made her a well woman once more. She now eats anything she wants, sleeps like a child, has gained twenty pounds and is able to do all her housework as well as she ever did."
 Tanlac is sold in Bend by Owl Pharmacy, in Sisters by Geo. E. Aitken, and in Bend by Horton Drug Co.—Adv.

Defends Lobby.
 "That I have been personally attendant at Salem for a number of sessions, either alone or in company with other commercial men, I plead guilty. Many cannerymen, my father among others, have for years gone to Salem to advise with members of the legislature relative to the needs of the great salmon industry. Anyone knows that many essentials are often overlooked but for the so-called 'lobby.' The wisdom of this representation is certainly vindicated by the condition of the industry. * * * I hope to be spared to attend other sessions of the legislature and I hope the suggestions I may have to offer will, if followed, prove as productive of good results as have those of my predecessors.

"The statement that I have bartered game interests for commercial I most emphatically deny. The game code was drawn by Mr. Shoemaker, assisted by Dr. McFarland. It embodied recommendations approved by the whole commission as well as other details agreed upon in conference in Salem. As a matter of duty I attended as many of these conferences as possible. I tried to express the views of the commission when called upon and when the bill was finally agreed upon I did what I could to assist its passage, as did also Messrs. Gill, Moore and McFarland, members of the legislature, and all of whom are members of the sportsmen's league.

Funds Not Tampered With.
 Relative to charges that Warden Shoemaker spoke in behalf of Warren's candidacy for delegate to the national Republican convention in 1916, Mr. Warren simply says if it is true he appreciates Mr. Shoemaker's interest and thanks such wardens as may have voted for him, although he was unable to continue seriously as a candidate because he was out of the state. He declares

EASTER OFFERINGS

From now until Easter, we will have a continuous Style Show, featuring the trend of 1919 fashions in Millinery and Ladies' Ready-to-Wear.

Easter this year may well be called "the day of no excuses" for the woman who is not becomingly dressed. The old cry that there is nothing becoming to me this season falls on unsympathetic ears. It is now, or never, that every type may revel in being set off with distinction.

Many of the Coats shown this season will serve two purposes, as they may be worn both for afternoon and evening, with equally charming effect. Capes and Dolmans, which persist in being the favorite type of wraps, are shown in such a wide range of colors and materials that the most critical buyers could not fail to be pleased. In garments for sports wear, there is no longer any doubt regarding the popularity of the Novelty Silk Skirts and the smart short Velvet Coats.

We are showing a great variety of these Novelty Skirts, in such materials as Jacquard Kumskumsa, Fantasi, Fuf-a-Nuff, Kittens' Ear, Pussy Willow, Tricolette, all shades of Baronette Satin, and in the Velvet Jackets we are expecting another shipment at an early date.

The Suit has been called the American woman's favorite costume, and this Easter Milady may wear a Box Coat, or a Russian Blouse, a Strictly Man Tailored Suit, on the new lines, or the smart new Sport Suit, the coat of which can be worn as a separate wrap.

The materials used in these new models are Heavy Men's Wear Serges, Poirer Twills, Duvetyn, Wool Patriette, Tricotines, and the always popular English Tweeds.

Dresses of Satin Taffeta, Printed Georgettes, Foulards and the soft, clinging Crepe Meteor, are immensely popular.

What could be more attractive for Easter than a frock of smart Black Taffeta? We are showing an exceptionally effective model, with a narrow skirt, over which hangs a tunic heavily embroidered with Henna silk. Another is of Black Taffeta with wide angora insertion embroidered with navy medallions.

In Millinery, such a display of flowers has not been in evidence for many a season. There is also a generous sprinkle of Fancy Feathers and Quills, and always in their company are found Ribbons. A beautiful combination which must grow more and more popular as the season advances appears in hats that have partly transparent brims, or crowns of Malines, Jet especially effective in the wide Nets, and Hair Braids. These are brimmed, picturesque millinery which is in consequence of the new long skirts, for hat shapes are affected by this feature of the style.

We have many more smart new style features, but space will not permit us to mention any more.

It is our pleasure to show you all these new models.

his belief that Mr. Shoemaker speaks the truth when he says he did not spend a cent or travel a mile in his behalf as a candidate.

"The charge that the disposition of funds has been altered at the instigation of commercial lobbyists is false," continues Mr. Warren. "Ever since I have been on the commission, and I think ever since the commission form of control has been in existence, game licenses have been deposited in the game protection fund and commercial fishing licenses in either hatchery funds No. 1 or No. 2 as the case might be, and the methods of disbursement have been the same as at present. I would suggest that a perusal of the statutes might have made the gentlemen who made that statement less apparent disciples of Ananias than they seem to be."

Financial Statement Given.
 Mr. Warren appends a financial statement of the fish and game funds for the last four years.

In another communication to the governor Mr. Warren encloses a letter written to Governor Withycombe and the fish and game commission in January, 1917, signed by E. C. McFarland as president of the Oregon Sportsmen's league, W. F. Backus as secretary of the Multnomah Anglers' club and H. B. Van Duser as a member of the executive committee of the two organizations, which reports that those organizations were not in sympathy with the commission were declared without foundation and the writers declared themselves well satisfied with the commission's work.

Since the controversy over the management of the fish and game commission flared up several weeks ago, Governor Olcott has received nearly 200 letters from all parts of the state commending the work of the commission and of Carl Shoemaker, state game warden. The city of Bend is represented in several petitions to the governor asking that the present officials be retained.
