Dominick Burgess was in Portland a few days last week.

Miss Fay Bussett took her school for an egg roast on Easter Sunday.

FOR FOOD CONSERVATION The Big Profit Maker that Pays for Itself.

On more than 60,000 farms the Indiana Silo has already paid for itself in crops saved, in fatter cattle, in more milk, and is returning big profits to every owner, every year.

High meat, milk and butter prices make it doubly important to preserve the full food value of your crop—to keep it succulent, whole and tasty. These prices increase the profits from the

INDIANA SILO

One year's saving with an Indiana under present conditions more than pays back the investment. And the silo can do the saving before you pay for it.

Our large purchasing power enables us to supply better materials and better workmanship than can be had in silos that cost more. Ask the owners of Indiana Silos in your neighborhood. Prove to yourself that there is no silage better than that made in an Indiana. It's a big profit maker for your farm, and lasts a lifetime.

STORM LASHED SEA BATTERS TRANSPORT

Bend Soldier Returned to Camp Merritt Tells How Men Were Injured on Board Troop Ship.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

After service overseas, B. F. Grinstead of Bend has arrived in Camp Merritt, N. J., and will probably soon be discharged from the army, according to a letter received here by relatives in this city.

"We had pretty bad weather coming across," he writes. "The sixth day out we had a 69-mile gale, and the ship would pitch first to one side and then to the other, tipping over as much as 60 degrees. Sometimes the waves would flood the decks. I was pretty lucky coming across, for I wasn't even seasick, although some of the boys have broken arms and legs as a result of being banged around during the storm."

DAIRY HUSBANDRY EXPERT IS COMING

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

E. L. Westover of the dairy husbandry department of Oregon Agricultural college will spend a week in this county, beginning April 23, discussing silo problems. Mr. Westover has made a specialty of silos and knows the business from the ground up. As many meetings as possible will be held among the local farm bureaus, and a definite plan for a silo campaign will be adopted during Mr. Westover's visit.

PAYS DEBT OWED FOR 27 YEARS.

SUMMER LAKE MAN, HERE FOR CONVENTION, SEEKS OUT C. S. STAATS, WHO PUT HIM UP AND COULD NOT CHANGE A $20.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Twenty-seven years ago C. S. Staats, brother of W. H. Staats of Bend, lived near La Pine and occasionally took in travelers. To his place one night came E. M. Brattan on his way from the Willamette valley to the Summer Lake section. Mr. Brattan spent the night, and in the morning offered a $20 bill in payment of Mr. Staats' charges of $2. Mr. Staats could not make change and Mr. Brattan went on his way.

The years passed. Mr. Staats left La Pine and made his home in Yakima. Mr. Brattan became a prosperous farmer and stockman of Summer Lake. They never met. But Mr. Brattan did not forget that he owed $2 for a night's lodging.

Last week Mr. Staats came to Bend to buy seed potatoes to ship to Yakima, and yesterday Mr. Brattan came in to attend the stockmen's convention. Mr. Brattan knew that a man named Staats lived in Bend and at once hunted him up to pay the bill. He found W. H. Staats, learned from him that his brother was still here, saw him and paid the $2.

After having that $2 debt on his mind for 27 years, Mr. Brattan will now sleep more easily.
