CENTRAL OREGON FARMERS WARNED OF POTATO WART

(By Lester J. Bell.)

The United States department of agriculture warns all potato growers of a new potato disease which has been discovered in parts of Pennsylvania, probably introduced from Europe some time about 1911 when a large number of potatoes were imported.

This disease is said to be one of the most destructive of all potato diseases, usually making the tuber entirely unfit for food purposes. When established in the soil the wart disease will live for eight years, so that another crop cannot be grown. There are no control measures, and the only means of combatting the disease is by preventing its spread into other parts of the country. For this reason all growers, buyers and distributing agents should use all vigilance to detect any spread of the disease. If it became widely spread over the United States it might mean the entire destruction of the potato industry.

Potatoes infected by the wart are frequently converted into a spongy, shapeless mass. The young warts are light brown in color and usually start from the eye of the potato and become as large as a walnut. When decay begins the warts turn black, which has caused the disease to be known as "black scab" in certain localities. However, the cauliflower-like enlargements do not all resemble scab.

The hopes of Central Oregon are tied to her alfalfa and her potato crops. Anything which would menace either would be the greatest blow to our agricultural future. The potatoes we raise have become famous in all parts of the country, both for table use and for seed. We cannot afford to let any new disease come into the Deschutes basin. It is probable that the potato wart will never be spread to the northwest, but we should take no chances whatever, and use all precautions against its introduction.

DELEGATION OF TAXPAYERS APPROVES OF CITY BUDGET

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

That the city budget for next year, tentatively set two days ago at $51,010, will go before the people for formal ratification without change, was decided last night when the estimate of expenses was thoroughly explained in the presence of a delegation of taxpayers attending the adjourned council meeting. Questions were called for following the explanation by City Attorney C. S. Benson, and many were asked, not in a spirit of criticism, but apparently to secure information. At the close of the session the only fault found with the budget was that it may not provide large enough salaries for some of the city officials. Proposed expenditures were considered to be entirely necessary for the city's welfare.

The estimate as formulated this morning is as follows:

City attorney	$ 500.00
City Treasurer	600.00
Recorder	900.00
Engineer	400.00
Health department (garbage collecting)	1,000.00
Health department (maintenance)	1,000.00
Fire department (salaries)	3,350.00
Fire department (maintenance)	1,000.00
Fire department (water)	1,500.00
Fire department (completing firehouse and city hall)	4,000.00
Police department	4,340.00
Street repairs and crosswalks	3,000.00
Lights	3,500.00
Elections	150.00
Telephone and postage	150.00
Printing	500.00
Miscellaneous	1,000.00
Cemetery improvements	500.00
Interest on warrants	750.00
Total	$39,100.00
Estimated tax loss, 2%	1,000.00
Estimated deficit, 1918	5,610.00
Outstanding indebtedness	9,000.00
	$54,710.00
Estimated receipts	3,700.00
Balance to be raised	$51,010.00

Economies Effected.

Al Edwards, formerly a member of the council, spoke emphatically on the city's need for money if Bend's affairs are to be handled as befits a municipality of this size. "When I was on the council, we tried to get by without funds," he said, "but we made no progress." In response to one of his questions regarding the police department, it was shown that although increased salaries have gone into effect, and while further advances are expected for the coming year, the allowance made for this department is no larger than two years ago, a number of important economies having been effected which have tended to preserve a balance.

Election Not Yet Set.

In addition to the budget, a $3000 appropriation for the Carnegie library fund, a $5000 bond issue to provide a revolving fund for immediate financing of city improvements and a charter amendment making the city election law conform to the statutes, will be submitted to the voters. The charter amendment, it is expected, will be drawn up by Thursday, and on that evening the council will again convene to fix the date for the special election at which these questions will be decided.

COUNTY VOTE IS FAVORABLE

(From Friday's Daily.)

Not a measure on the ballot in the state and county election, held Tuesday, was defeated in Deschutes county, the official canvass of the county vote, completed this morning, showed. The lieutenant governor constitutional amendment came closest to losing, with 429 for and 345 against, the biggest majority, 532, was polled for the state guarantee of irrigation and drainage district bonds, in which only 134 negative votes were cast, while the Deschutes county measure for flotation of $125,000 road bonds carried, 652 to 161.

The count on other measures was as follows. Six per cent. county indebtedness for permanent roads amendment, 587 for, 226 against; industrial and reconstruction hospital amendment, 538 for, 246 against; Roosevelt coast military highway bill, 568 for, 245 against; reconstruction bonding bill, 467 for, 309 against; soldiers', sailors' and marines' educational financial aid bill, 556 for, 222 against; market roads tax bill, 626 for, 167 against.

The total vote cast in the county was 860.

"Impossible," is Austrian Reply to Allied Terms

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin.)

PARIS, June 11.—Chancellor Renner's first note protesting against the Austrian treaty was delivered today. It covers the economic situation, declaring that the treaty renders industrial and commercial life in Austria impossible.

Premier Orlando, at the request of the Italian cabinet, is reported to have rejected the last proposal for the solution of the Adriatic question, which includes the independence of Fiume.

were lost within a half mile of Nashville, and he was two hours late when he arrived in town. One of the passengers told the story on the driver after he had found out that Mr. King was not going to tell why he was late.

When near town he drove across Owl creek to let one of the passengers out, and instead of turning around he turned the horses only half way, and then drove into a 40-acre cornfield. One of the women passengers, hearing the cornstalks popping, asked Mr. King when they would get back on the road. He did not answer, but kept driving around and around in the cornfield. After a few minutes she asked him where they were. He replied, "he d—n 't I know." The passengers, all strangers, became alarmed and, after calling for help, a young farmer appeared and showed the driver how to get out of the cornfield and on the pike.

After the story had become known Mr. King said that he had two dash lanterns on the hack and was just lost.—Indianapolis News.

BOY SCOUTS OF BEND ENJOY CAMP LIFE IN HEART OF CITY

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

A practical demonstration that Bend has a wide-awake, "peppy" Boy Scout organization was given last night when a detachment of the scouts, 50 in number, paraded through the streets of the city just before seeking their blankets in the camp near the gymnasium. Observation of Boy Scout week is general among the members, and morning and evening camp fires are surrounded by eager youngsters, who cook their own meals, enjoy an outing in the heart of the city, and learn self-reliance and an appreciation of outdoor life.

Last night the camp was under the supervision of E. L. Payne and J. L. Luckey. For two hours and more Mr. Payne was kept busy cutting steaks and distributing them among the lads, who needed little instruction as to the best method of cooking the meat. A few fried frying pans, but more preferred steaks broiled over the open fire. If a choice morsel dropped in the dust, it was promptly recovered, washed, and eventually eaten, for the boys are learning economy as part of their outdoor schooling.

Only one thing was lacking, for it was noted that the number of parents who visited the camp was few. The scouts are keeping open house this week, and a cordial invitation is given to fathers and mothers and all other persons who would like to know just what the organization means to the boys. Recruits, too, are wanted, for the benefits of the work are such that the present members wish them to become general.

Tonight Mayor J. A. Eastes has promised the scouts unlimited quantities of ice cream, and will also provide meat sufficient for the entire membership. A number of short talks by Bend business men will be given as a feature of the evening program.

Relics Given Cathedral

The dead bell of Dunblane (Scotland) cathedral and the sand-glass formerly in use in the pulpit have been presented to the kirk session by the family in whose possession they were for many years. The dead bell is dated 1613, and was used at funerals in the parish, a small fee being charged by the kirk session for its use. The beadle rang the bell through the town when he proclaimed a death, and again when he walked at the head of the funeral procession. The sand-glass dates from 1702, runs for about 20 minutes and it was no unusual thing for it to be turned two or three times during a sermon. The gifts are being exhibited in a specially constructed case in the cathedral.

Muns Have a Town Crier

The officers of the regiment have nothing on the burgomaster of Polch when it comes to having a striker. The only difference is that he is a danger, for he rings the bell to announce new tidings to the populace. For instance, if the square heads are not on the square with the Americans and a fine is imposed, the tidings of Heine's hard luck must be published broadest. So the chief mogul of Polch crooks his finger and explains the mission to the bell ringer, who in turn goes to each street corner announcing that Herr Hassenoffer has been fined 200 marks for not leaving the outside door unlocked. All this time the bell plays a clanging accompaniment.—From Barrage, Polch, Germany.

The Stradivarius Secret

Will N. C. Holcomb of Newark, N. J., discover the secret of the violins made in Cremona? His friends believe he will. With a persistence that has won him general admiration, Mr. Holcomb has been studying faithfully for 25 years or more to learn why the Stradivarius and Guarnerius instruments yield their matchless golden tones.

Mr. Holcomb is firmly convinced that the old Italian master violin makers obtained their amazing results in large part through the adroit use of gun copal as a finish.

Not long ago he decided to see what influence varnish had on the tone of one of his instruments. Upon removing the entire finish he was surprised to find that the voice of the violin had become dull and lifeless.
