

STOLEN MOTOR CAR WITHOUT OWNER FOR SIX WEEKS

FOUND BY ROADSIDE NEAR BROTHERS.

NUMBER GIVES CLUE

Portland Man, from Whom Car Was Taken in Broad Daylight June 23, Told That Auto Had Been Seen in Bend.

While Bend auto dealers are bewailing their inability to secure enough cars to fill orders, a perfectly good Chevrolet touring car has been at Brothers for more than a month waiting for an owner. Six weeks ago the machine was found near the roadside, a half mile this way from Brothers postoffice, but no one appeared or wrote to claim it.

According to the motor vehicle register, the car, which is a 1918 model bearing a license number 54352, issued in March of the present year, was the property of Sarah Horenstein of 32 North Second street, Portland, Oregon. That the machine may have been stolen was indicated by the fact that one of the wheels, bearing an anti-theft device, had apparently been removed, lashed on the rear of the car, and another wheel, with no obstacles to progress attached, put in its place. The car was not damaged, and a considerable supply of gasoline was in the tank.

Owner Is Located.
Inquiries made by The Bulletin by wire in Portland established that the car, although registered in the name of Sarah Horenstein, was the property of her husband, Joseph Horenstein, president of the Portland barber school. Horenstein, the wire reported, said that the car had been taken from in front of the school at Second and Couch in broad daylight on June 23, and that four weeks ago it was reported to him that a Chevrolet, with his number, had been seen in Bend.

Car Held at Brothers.
When the car was first found, it was thought to belong to hunters, but when no owners appeared it began to attract some attention from residents of the section. In the course of a trip through Brothers, Sheriff Roberts turned the case over to State Special Agent J. M. Grant, who accompanied him. Shortly after Mr. Roberts received a letter from the special agent, stating that he had found the identity of the owner and that he was on the trail of the thief.

FAIR ACTIVITY IS TO BE BROAD

PLANS BEING LAID BY WEST SIDE PEOPLE FOR BIG SHOWING—CHILDREN WILL HAVE INNING.

The farmers of the Tumalo section are grooming their stock, coaxing their pumpkins, potatoes, squash and alfalfa to make a most creditable showing for the West Side Agricultural fair this fall.

It is expected that the exhibits will be more extensive and of a higher quality than they have ever been since the fair association began its activities. The premium list under consideration indicates that the fair will be far more comprehensive in its scope than it has ever been.

The part that the children of the west side will play will be more important than in other years. Stock judging, by the members of the various boys and girls clubs, will be a big feature this year.

Inasmuch as there has been controversy between Grimm and Cosack alfalfa plans are being made for the awarding of prizes to the best exhibits of these two grades of alfalfa sown in the last year, from which the first crops have just been cut.

SHORTAGE IS SEEN AT JOBBING HOUSES

Bend Buyer Returns from East, Reporting Mad Scramble to Fill Orders in New York.

Mrs. J. C. Smith of the Parisian returned last Friday from an extended trip to New York. In speaking of conditions which face the buyer, Mrs. Smith says:

"The buyer who goes to New York for merchandise for immediate delivery, or who hopes to place orders of any considerable size for the coming fall season, finds that he has his own troubles. There is nothing for immediate delivery beyond some small lots in jobbers' hands and these are running lower every day. Jobbers are forced to depend upon manufacturers for deliveries. Labor troubles make it difficult in the textile business to hope for better.

"It requires a great deal of strategy and no end of diplomacy to successfully plan on order this season. When one sees the buyers for large concerns who usually buy in large lots picking up any number it makes the small buyer wonder if there's going to be any core."

IF FARM STOCK DO NOT NEGLECT HERD BOAR

Management is Important Part in Raising Strong, Healthy Pigs—Deserves Best Care.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The management of the boar is a very important part in the raising of strong, healthy pigs, and one which is sometimes neglected. He should be the most valuable animal in the whole herd, and as such deserves the best of attention. The boar should be purchased from a breeder of pure-bred hogs when between eight months and one year of age. Many breeders, however, purchase a boar when a weanling pig, but to be successful in this choice requires a wide experience and sound judgment. Aged boars which have proved their worth can sometimes be purchased at a reasonable price. It is much safer for an inexperienced breeder to buy an old, active boar than a young untried boar. If possible, the farmer should visit the herd where the boar was raised and note the conditions under which he was bred. At any rate, it is always possible to obtain from the breeder notes on the health and kind and amount of feeds used, so as to serve as an index to his subsequent treatment.

Upon arriving at the farm the boar should be unloaded as soon as possible and placed in quarantine to guard against the introduction of disease into the herd. If he is lousy it is well to treat this condition at once. His feed should be a continuation of that to which he has been accustomed, feeding rather lightly the first few days until he recovers from the strain of shipping and becomes accustomed to his new surroundings. If it is not feasible to continue feeding as previously indicated, the change to a more convenient ration should be made very gradually in order not to disturb the appetite or health of the animal.

animal. As a rule, a pig 8 to 12 months old will be in proper breeding condition when received unless he has been very heavily overfed. In purchasing an older boar, particularly one which has been in the show circuit, it is often necessary to reduce his condition before attempting to breed. With some animals the breeding power is permanently impaired by too high condition at some time in their life. The boar should be well fed but not fat, as a too high condition makes him inactive, a slow breeder, and a rather uncertain sire.

After the breeding season the boar should not be fed so heavily, and should have a wider ration, that is, one containing less of the protein concentrates and relatively more corn. The ration at this time is practically the same as that fed the brood sow when she is not producing a litter of pigs. He should have the run of a pasture a quarter of an acre in area in connection with his paddock. Here he can exercise and obtain much of his feed from the forage, or in the winter when the forage is consumed he may be fed on alfalfa or clover hay in connection with the grain ration. Keep the boar healthy, give him exercise, plenty of rough feeds, and keep him in condition by varying his supply of grain. Under such conditions little trouble will be experienced in getting a normal boar to produce large litters of strong, healthy pigs.

Put it in "THE BULLETIN."

CAR SHORTAGE DANGER SMALL

LITTLE CHANCE OF BEND BEING DENIED USUAL SUPPLY OF ROLLING STOCK UNLESS STRIKE BECOMES GENERAL.

Unless the walkout of railroad shopmen becomes a general strike, there is no immediate danger of a car shortage in Bend, is the opinion of G. A. Johnson, acting freight and passenger agent at the local station. So far the strike chiefly affects the men on locomotive repair work at the large terminals throughout the United States, and at this season of the year, it is stated, there is comparatively little wear and tear on engines and boilers so that they may go for some time without overhauling.

On Thursday there were 60 cars being loaded in the yards, chiefly at the Brooks-Scanlon and the Shevlin-Hixon mills, while 65 empties were on hand, Mr. Johnson stated.

TROUT ARE PLANTED AT INN AQUARIUM

Three Hundred Fry from First Hatch at Tumalo Find New Home—Total Output to Be 2,000,000.

Three hundred Eastern Brook trout have been planted in the aquarium of the Pilot Butte Inn by Manager W. C. Birdsall. These trout are of this year's hatch at the Deschutes county hatchery on the Tumalo.

Future plans provide for closing streams in the county which have been stocked to trout minnows for a period of three years. This will not be effective probably for two years' time. It is expected that the trout output of the Deschutes county hatchery will be two million this year.

HIGH WINDS HALT SOUNDING OF LAKE

High winds sweeping over the Newberry crater for several days past have effectually prevented the taking of soundings of East lake judged necessary before the lake's value for the possible irrigation of the Millican valley is definitely known. The winds make it impossible to keep a boat in one spot and would consequently result in inaccurate readings, Fred Shintaffer, who is in charge of the work, reports.

NAVAL OFFICERS VISITORS HERE

On a trip of inspection of the naval recruiting offices of the state Lieutenant-Commander F. K. Elder and Dr. Whiteside, with rank as Lieutenant, were in Bend Monday.

They expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the representation given the service by William Seehorn, recruiting officer for Central Oregon. They left that night by auto for The Dalles.

FORMER RESIDENT ACQUIRES RANCH

Walter Taylor of Baker Buys 40-Acre Tract on Johnston Property for $3600.

Sale of a 40-acre tract, originally a part of the Johnston ranch in the Alfalfa district, to Walter Taylor of Bend, a former resident of this section, was reported last Saturday by J. B. Miner. The consideration was $3600.

Mr. Taylor will move on his new property immediately and will commence building at once. The new owner states that he has been able to find nothing in the state of Oregon, to compare with the land on the Johnston ranch at less than $200 per acre.
