

Mr. Rancher--

You are hearing a lot about the high cost of living. We admit merchandise has advanced in price at a rapid pace, but we can sell you merchandise cheaper than the mail order houses or the one man merchant. Our buying power enables us to get prices on merchandise the one-man merchant cannot get. This means that you profit by our buying power. We mark our goods as low as possible--not as high as we can. Come in and compare our values with those found elsewhere and you will be surprised what we can save you. Below we quote you a few of our everyday prices. Compare them with others. We stand back of every article that goes out of our store.

The World at a Glance -

While interest in world happenings during the early part of the week centered chiefly about the efforts of congress to find the solution to the high cost of living problem, the investigations of the chief law making body of the nation have switched in the last two days to a consideration of the peace treaty with Germany and the league of nations covenant, both as yet unrati- fied by the Senate. This action is being taken on representations by President Wilson to the effect that no permanent adjustment of economic conditions in this country can be expected until America's relation with the world at large has been defined. In answer to the movement of a conservative wing of the republican party, who sought to effect a compromise between the extremists of both parties by endorsing reservations and interpretations of the treaty, the president has declared that no changes, however slight, would be considered, and that the treaty must be accepted or rejected, as it stands.

Government work in regard to lowering food prices has been confined chiefly, during the past six days, to seizure of large stocks of food, alleged to have been hoarded in violation of the food administration's orders. Surplus army food supplies have been placed on sale through the various postoffices of the United States, and the food seized by government officials will be disposed of in the same manner if it is condemned by the courts. In regard to the sugar situation, Attorney General Palmer states that 10 cents is a fair wholesale price per pound, and that 11 cents is the proper retail quotation.

President Wilson's championship of the daylight saving law proved unavailing yesterday when the senate passed the repeal measure over his veto, the House having taken similar action on the day preceding. As a rider to the agricultural appropriations bill, repeal had been attempted earlier in the session, but sufficient strength was not mustered at that time to override the president's objections.

Cavalry Invades Mexico.

After a series of depredations and crimes committed by Mexican bandits near the border, trouble with the outlaws apparently reached a head when two army aviation officers, Lieutenants Paul Davis and Harold Peterson, were captured and held for ransom. The amount demanded, $15,000, was promptly raised by private subscription, the officers released, and immediately afterward troops from the Eighth cavalry started in pursuit of the bandits. At last reports there was little indication that the expedition would be crowned with success, as a cloudburst had obliterated the trail of the outlaws.

At the first it was considered that the capture of the Americans and the subsequent invasion of Mexican territory might lead to serious trouble between Mexico and the United States, but yesterday's wire news developed that President Carranza or the southern republic, had ordered a detachment of his cavalry to aid the American forces.

Fire Season at Worst.

Reports from the northwest indicate that the fire season is at its worst, and heavy losses of livestock and ranch property with a few deaths of firefighters, are reported from Spokane, in the Clearwater, Selway and Nez Perce forests. The flames are absolutely beyond control. It is stated.

Strikes continue at irregular intervals throughout the country, among the most important being the New York subway and elevated railway tie-ups, the packing house strike at Cudahy, Wisconsin, and a walkout of inter-urban and street railway employes at Los Angeles.

From New York City was reported the murder of Cecil Laudon, of Portland, a University of Oregon student, recently returned from service overseas, who was lured to a hotel, killed and robbed.
