BETTER SIRES, BETTER STOCK

IMPROVED METHODS ARE SHOWN.

Greater Returns Result When Scrub Stock Gives Way to Pure-breds—Profits and Output Increase.

The following authenticated incidents are cited by the United States Department of Agriculture in its "Better Sires—Better Stock" campaign to show what American farmers and stockmen may expect through improved methods of breeding and handling animals:

One Cow Equals Five. A New Jersey boy was influenced to buy a high-grade cow for $155. The cow on freshening gave 24 quarts of milk and kept it up for a long period. The father owned 5 cows, the average cows for the neighborhood. They were fresh in the spring. Their product did not equal the product of the cow owned by the son—five times the labor and five times the feed, in comparison with one good cow.

High-Class Bully Beef. An Oklahoma farmer had 2 registered Shorthorn yearling bulls that he priced at $100 each for breeding purposes. A butcher saw the bulls, asked the price, but learned that they were registered and that it would take $100 each to buy them. He bought them, killed them, and stated that they were the cheapest cattle he had bought for some time, because they cut the better kinds of beef, and more of it.

Valuable Stock—Valuable Offspring. In several counties of North Carolina more pure-bred live stock has been purchased during the past year at the higher prices which have prevailed than in any other year. Hogs were never so high, and yet hundreds of boys bought pure-bred pigs at high prices with the expectation of selling their offspring. Through the county agents many hundreds of pigs bred by the boys have been sold at good prices and this is stimulating the extension of pure-bred hogs.

Better Poultry—More Meat. In a southern community, following the introduction of well-bred poultry for breeding, there was noticeable improvements in the size of the next generation of the fowls. The average weight of the birds marketed was 25 per cent greater than previously, according to the observation of an experienced poultry buyer.

V. D. LILLE SELLS BEND PRODUCE CO. Announcement was made Saturday of the purchase by the Pacific Fruit and Produce Co. of the business of the Bend Produce Co. from V. D. Lille of this city. The consideration was not given, but it is understood that it was in the neighborhood of $3000. The transfer will be actually made on September 1, and after that time Mr. Lille will be retained by the purchasing company as local manager.

Fred King, representative of the Pacific Fruit and Produce Co., who closed the deal Friday night, stated that lower prices should come in Bend as a result of the sale. "Our company covers Oregon, Washington and California rather thoroughly," he said, "and buying in immense quantities will be able to lay down commodities in Bend in carload lots much more cheaply than has been done heretofore. From what I have noticed of your retail merchants, I believe that this will be immediately reflected in their prices."

How to Make $4.00 an Hour

Farmers are busy this time of the year, and yet nobody is ever too busy to make more money.

If you are wasting time on a fifteen cent an hour job, when you might be making $4 an hour, you are not busy, you are merely fussing with trivial details.

In short, how much paint is left on the weather side of your house? It costs twice as much to build now as when you did.

Painted houses, and barns, last anyway twice as long as houses unprotected from the weather.

Two coats of paint on your house will save you more money than you can make any other way in the same time.

Averaging farmers the country over, their houses lack paint.

They think they are too busy to paint in the summer, and they can't paint in the winter.

But there is always time around the farm to make $4 an hour.

And $4 is an underestimate of what a job of paint makes for the farmer.

Farmers think they are too busy to bring tools and implements under cover.

Many times it is impossible at each week's end to house all the implements scattered over the farmstead.

But certainly in the fall all implements can be put under cover, and through the summer a few canvas tarpaulins, to spread over the most expensive machinery, are money makers.

Farmers' houses and tools last about half as long as they should because they are not repainted, and not given ordinary protection from long seasons of bad weather.

And when you paint, remember that linseed oil and white lead are the only things in paint worth having. The best system is to buy your lead and oil and turpentine and do your own mixing; if not, get the paint you can find; cheap paint is a waste of time and cash.

And When You Paint, be Sure You Use

NEWS PRINTED ON WALLPAPER

PLAINVIEW WOMAN HAS PUBLICATION ISSUED IN VICKSBURG ON DAY OF CAPTURE BY UNION FORCES.

Noting the mention made in a recent issue of The Bulletin of the possession by Mrs. R. P. Minter of this city of a copy of the Ulster Gazette giving an account of the funeral of George Washington, Mrs. A. E. Hoss of Plainview reported yesterday that she has a facsimile of the same issue, and has, in addition, one of the famous wallpaper publications put out in the south during the days of the confederacy.

The copy owned by Mrs. Hoss is of The Daily Citizen, published by J. M. Swords in Vicksburg, Miss., bearing the date of July 2, 1863. This was at the very close of the siege conducted by the Union forces, and among the news heads appear such captions as "Federal Losses at Vicksburg" and "Yankee News from All Points." Down in one corner of the page is a brief statement that the city has just been captured and that it will no longer be necessary to print The Citizen on wallpaper.

He was apprehended after a parcel of jewelry addressed to O. A. Thorson had been taken, a dummy package being placed in the Thorson box and a watch kept. The case has been referred to the postal inspector.

People Go—Roads Bad

Although it is well into the month of August, and families are beginning to think of school days, the vacation spirit throughout Central Oregon is everywhere rife. Despite the almost unbearable conditions of many of the roads in Central Oregon, tourists and home folks are willing to meet with unpleasant situations on the road in order to get out into the country.

This year is a banner year for the motorist in Central Oregon. Oregon's lakes, streams and beauty spots are becoming known everywhere through the publicity of various types. However, it is problematical whether the bad roads propaganda which the tourists of other states are sure to spread will have its deterring effects on travel next summer.

Without an exception the tourists who have been questioned about the roads to the south say "they are terrible," and in many instances have most unkind and unprintable comments upon the highway between Bend and Klamath Falls. Mayor George L. Baker of Portland is among the kickers, but he is, however, enthusiastic about a program he will immediately put on its way, whewby the north and south highway, connecting with the Columbia highway south to Klamath Falls and connecting with the Crater Lake highway and California thoroughfares, is to be improved. Mayor Baker, when in Bend this week en route to his home, expressed a surprise that the highway through such scenic country should be allowed to deteriorate, and further promised to take something like definite action among good roads boosters of Portland to obtain funds with which to build a permanent highway north and south through Oregon on the east side of the Cascade mountains.

The advantages of the permanent improvement of this highway are innumerable, but one advantage from the viewpoint of the traveler is that from Portland the tourist may see the Columbia highway, journey down through the heart of Oregon along the east slope of the Cascades, through its great timber belt, by its innumerable streams, take side trips to its bodies of fresh water, continue south to California, and return, if he chooses, by the west route to Portland. The tourist from the south may take the reverse route. Mayor Baker sees in the improvement of the north and south highway a great loop for Oregon.

Put it in The Bulletin.
