GRANGE PREPARING FOR OCTOBER FAIR

Permanent Organization Formed by Ranchers Living Near Bend for Annual Exhibit.

Preparing for the autumn fair to be given by the residents of the Grange and South Side districts, a premium list is now being drawn up and will be made public within the near future. The fair will be held on October 8, during morning, afternoon and evening, and an enjoyable feature of the day will be a basket luncheon to be served at noon.

A permanent fair association was formed a few evenings ago when residents of the two districts met at the Grange hall and elected C. I. Wigmore as president and P. J. Pederson as secretary-treasurer. Directors chosen were E. E. Butler, Mrs. Sottong and A. Neff. For premiums, the association has $150 allotted this year by the Deschutes county court.

LOCATING THE POULTRY HOUSE.

In locating a poultry house it is best to select an elevation having natural drainage away from the building, for damp ground means moldy ground. If the house can be built in the lee of a windbreak or hill, or in front of farm buildings, so much the better. A dry, porous soil, such as sandy or gravelly loam, is preferable to a clay soil, for the former is more easily kept in a sanitary condition. If it is impracticable to select a soil that is naturally dry, the soil should be made dry by thorough underdrainage. A purely sandy soil should not be selected.

Flickinger, at which more than 25 poultry raisers attended. The demonstration was conducted by Prof. C. H. Brewster of the Oregon Agricultural college.

Farmers from various parts of the project brought in their hens for scientific culling. Prof. Brewster brought out points of interest to poultry raisers, most of which are contained in another article in this issue of The Bulletin under the heading, "Now Time to Cut Egg Cost."

Owing to confusion in dates, not as large a crowd attended this demonstration as was expected, but Prof. Brewster expects to return later in the year for more extended demonstrations.

In speaking of poultry possibilities in Central Oregon, Prof. Brewster said: "This part of the state ought to be ideal for raising pure-bred poultry. On farms such as there are in this part of the state every farmer ought to have at least 100 hens of a good laying strain. One hundred hens can be made to yield a most satisfactory profit."

UNREAL HONOR IS GIVEN BEND

DISPATCH SAYS FIRE LOSS FOR AUGUST $100,000, BUT ONLY BIG BLAZE WAS OUTSIDE CITY LIMITS.

[Special to The Bulletin.]
SALEM, Sept. 9.—Bend and Klamath Falls share honors for the highest fire loss in the state during the month of August. Each city is credited with $100,000.

As far as any competition is concerned, Bend yields in favor of Klamath Falls, for the only loss which could possibly have brought Bend's total for August up to $100,000, was the fire at the Pine Tree mill last month. As the mill property is only about eight miles beyond the city limits, it is possible that several cities in the state, including Portland, would have a higher loss than Bend.

Calendar Facts.
The month of January always begins on the same day of the week as October and the same is true of April and July, September and December. February, March and November also begin on the same day of the week. This, however, is only true in normal years of 365 days. A century can never begin on Wednesday, Friday or Saturday. Furthermore, the ordinary year ends on the same day of the week as that on which it begins.

NECK BROKEN, RIDER LIVES

PERCY DRINKWATER OF SUMMER LAKE MAKES COMPLETE RECOVERY FOUR WEEKS AFTER FRACTURE.

A broken neck is ordinarily considered to be synonymous with death, but to Percy Drinkwater, of Summer Lake, it is merely an unpleasant accident. Four weeks after suffering a transverse fracture of the third cervical vertebra, he is able to walk and ride, apparently suffering no inconvenience from his unusual experience. An X-ray picture taken last Wednesday showed that the fracture had been successfully reduced, leaving only a slight enlargement at the point where the broken ends of the bone had knit.

Mr. Drinkwater's neck was broken early in August, when he was thrown from a horse at Summer Lake, and dragged for a considerable distance. It was several days before he was brought to Bend, and then it was found that not only had one of the units of the spinal column been fractured, but that a blood clot was pressing on the brain as well. The clot was gradually absorbed, and the recent X-ray examination showed that the fracture had been successfully reduced.

The patient will be discharged from the Bend Surgical hospital Monday.

Put it in The Bulletin.
