Even in Japan the jellyfish is in ill repute, since that creature, once a boned fish like the carp, was beaten to a jelly by his king because he allowed himself to be gulled and outwitted by a monkey. But the carp is honored and sung, and every Japanese boy looks forward to the day he may, if called on, meet the chopper with the same stoical behavior.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

WATCH FOR No. 5.

A Certain Central Oregon sheepman paid an-unheard-of price for some pure bred registered Rambouillet range bucks.

The wisdom of the high price was doubted by many. This year the lambs from these bucks are far larger than the average range lamb of the same age and are woolled from the nose to the toes, which gives indications of heavy shearing qualities. The lambs will bring a big price as breeding ewes and the additional weight in wool will pay dividends on the purchase price of the bucks.

This sheepman is convinced of the value of his investment and will buy only the best bucks obtainable, regardless of the price, hereafter.
