

PUREBRED LIVESTOCK LOOMS BIG AT 9TH TUMALO FAIR

FARMERS SHOW WHAT THEY ARE DOING.

Agricultural Displays Not Up to Usual Standard, but Quality is Good—Prof. Feisted Praises Ranchers for Progress.

TUMALO, Oct. 16.—The farmers of the Tumalo Irrigation project and the West Side Agricultural Fair Association stepped into the limelight with its ninth annual agricultural and livestock fair last Thursday and gave all who attended, and especially the livestock fanciers, a surprise. In former years the show has been confined almost exclusively to field and garden crops pantry shelf, school, needle work displays, but this year these features had to divide honors with purebred livestock, and many believe that livestock took first place in the hearts of the exhibitors as well as persons who attended.

E. J. Feisted, of the Oregon Agricultural College expressed his surprise at the advancement that has been made by the Central Oregon farmers, who practically speaking, have taken up the purchase, breeding and raising purebred livestock only in the last two or three years. Prof. Feisted not only judged the livestock from the point of awarding ribbons, but gave the farmers of the project some useful tips on the manner of feeding livestock and getting them into proper condition. He touched upon the important features in determining the best livestock material when bettering herds.

To speak in glowing terms of the livestock, which was absolutely the best display that has ever been seen in Central Oregon, does not mean to reflect any discredit upon the high quality of the displays of grains, grasses, vegetables, pantry-shelf department or needle craft work. The displays of grains, grasses and vegetables was not as large as the fair has shown in some former years, but the quality was excellent and gave a very plain conception as to what the project is capable of doing. One of the most promising crops for the project was shown in alfalfa, much of which was of old seeding, but the new alfalfa measured up with the older most favorable.

There was keen competition in the livestock department. The grand champion in the Shorthorn class went to E. A. Griffin. This bull, 10 months old was purchased for Mr. Griffin by the First National Bank of Bend. The second prize in this class went to the bull owned by the Tumalo Bull Association.

A. J. Harter won first prize in the heifer class, two-year-old stock, R. F. Flickinger, second and Olaf Anderson third. To Mr. Anderson went first place in the yearling class. In the yearlings and under A. J. Harter took first, P. G. Flowers, second and Armstrong & Son, third. In the class of grand champion Shorthorn cows A. J. Harter was first, and J. W. Brown, second. A. J. Harter was first in the Jersey class and Fred N. Wallace second.

Grover Gerking had his Aberdeen Angus beauties well groomed for display. He was the only exhibitor in this class and made a splendid impression with his cattle.

It was intended to publish the awards made last week at the Tumalo Fair, but Secretary C. P. Becker announces that the list has not been compiled. The prize winners will be made known at a later date.

OFFICIALS FIND SPARKLING WINE

12 Quarts of Burgundy Aid in Conviction of La Grande Motorist.

Whiskey may be seen, smelled, and even tasted at intervals, and home made beer—chiefly foam—may be procured, but the case of sparkling Burgundy taken by Sheriff S. E. Roberts and Police Chief L. A. W. Nixon in their last anti-liquor expedition, is a novelty in the way of intoxicants. The owner, W. H. Perkins, of La Grande, who was found seven miles to the northeast of Bend lying under his car and making needed repairs to the machine, pleaded guilty and paid $100 in Judge Eastes court for having liquor in his possession.

He had started out with 30 quarts of the sparkling wine, but all but 12 bottles had been broken during the trip, he told the court. He frankly admitted bringing the liquor over the line from California.

REDMOND FAIR WILL FEATURE KING SPUD

Best of This Year's Potato Crop Will Be on Display—Street Sports and Races on the Program.

Redmond steps into the limelight this week with its annual Potato Show and Fair to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday. With the county spud growers in full swing digging the 1919 crop the best of this year's crop is likely to be on display. Although this year's yield is short of previous years the quality is said to be excellent.

The tentative program includes Friday street sports and parade; Saturday awarding of prizes and auction of prize winning potatoes, and street sports and races. Friday will be known as Bend, Tumalo, and Sisters Day.

Primarily a potato show the exhibits will include grains, grasses, fruits, vegetables, art and fancy work; flowers and livestock. Worth while prizes have been offered for every entry.

You can buy livestock through The Bulletin classified ads.

COLD WATER NO TERRORS FOR MRS. CURRY

"Mother may I go out to swim? Yes my darling daughter. Hang your clothes on a 'juniper' limb, but don't go near the water," doesn't apply to Mrs. Anna Curry, truant officer, school nurse, high school matron etc. etc.

It was 9:30 on a Monday morning when Mrs. Curry was strolling over the bridge spanning the Deschutes river. She was enjoying the fine morning air. Her step was brisk. Looking around taking in the scenery her eye fell upon a youngster on the river bank.

Consciousness of duty always uppermost in her mind, Mrs. Curry bent her steps in the direction of the innocent youngster. As luck would have it, this enterprising genius of the fourth grade B. proved to be a sort of a water dog. Just as he made a dive for the water, and as he waded in to his knees, sang out to her: "You can't get me."

Well, of course, Mrs. Curry had to do her duty. So into the water she went. As she neared the boy she showed signs of wading into deeper water but unabashed Mrs. Curry called: "You better not try to swim it, for if you do, I will swim right after you."

This little speech had its effect on the boy and he stood still, and allowed himself to be lifted out of the water and piloted back to school.

Moral: If you want to play truant keep away from the river.

CLOTHES for her boy is one of the big problems of every mother. Clothes of high quality will lessen these troubles and also lessen the cost of clothing the boy.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes for Boys Will Stand Hard Wear.

Boys don't need to worry; we have clothes now for them that will stand the strain of a football game; it isn't the best thing for clothes; a football suit is better.

We've never yet found a boy who stopped a football game to see if he'd lost any buttons or torn a hole in his suit. But we do know a number of boys who have stopped on the way and wondered what Mother was going to say when they reached home.

We are glad to say that we can bring you saving on our School Boys' Shoes. They WILL WEAR and we know it. All prices.

But if on the way home from school you can't resist a scrimmage or two—these clothes will stand it. Hart Schaffner & Marx made them; and made them right; young-man style, all-wool fabrics; they'll last a long time.

Monday and Tuesday

H. B. Warner in "The Pagan God"

Wednesday and Thursday

Rex Beach in "The Brand"

Friday and Saturday

Viola Dana in "Please Get Married"

At the Grand on Sunday comes Billie Rhodes in "The Love Call" or the story of the little girl who loves the mountain and mountain people better than the city with its brilliance and attractions. On Sunday matinee Sunday evening and Monday at the Liberty, William S. Hart comes in "Wagon Tracks," a picture story full of real western sentiment and showing Hart in a different character. The wagon tracks take the hero into strange scenes of western life showing the bigness of his character. The Grand Theater will feature H. B. Warner Monday and Tuesday in "The Pagan God," a story with an Oriental setting dealing with the life of a diplomat in Mongolian revolution. The hero is loved by a revolutionary siren. The play is exceedingly good.

Lilla Lee, always known for her pep and Elliott Dexter will be seen in "The Daughter of the Wolf," here Miss Lee has fallen among a band of human wolves that into her life came a man different sort. The story, like all others carrying Miss Lee in the leading role is full of action.

The well known book of Rex Beach "The Brand" will be shown at the Grand Theater Wednesday and Thursday or next week. This is a story of the North country in which right is pitted against might and wins. Marguerite Clark is to be seen at the Liberty Theater Thursday only in "Still Waters," a great story of circus life. It was the greatest circus story when it was written and remains so today.

POTATO FAIR WILL BEGIN ON THURSDAY

REDMOND, Oct. 15.—All arrangements have been completed for the potato show with prospects of one of the most successful events of the kind ever held there. The formal opening will be tomorrow morning, the fair lasting through the October 18th. Liberal prizes have been provided covering all classes of agricultural, live stock, poultry, and domestic science products with assurance that the entry will be a long one.

The amusement side of the fair has not been neglected, ample provision being made for sports and general entertainment that will remove any possibility of there being any idle moments for those in attendance. The best judges possible to find will insure fair distribution of the awards and the liberal cash prizes will make it worth while for the exhibitor to enter in all classes for which he has entries available.

Dances will be held in the gymnasium Friday and Saturday evenings. A movement is on foot to make this annual event the Deschutes County Fair after this year.

U. S. Truck in Last Lap of Farm to Consumer

Congressman M. Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania believes in carrying the farmers' motor truck idea one more step and has prepared a bill to further the use of motor trucks in the postoffice department for direct distribution of farm products to the city consumers by parcel post. This is the biggest truck built on a Washington, D. C. route, carrying 126,000 pounds per month and clearing $31,000 for the postoffice last year. It was Kelly who put through the bill for sale of surplus army food by parcel post. Kelly is shown standing by the new truck.
