

"Doing Something About It"

Mark Twain said that the "weather" is talked about more than any other subject; yet nobody seems to do any-thing about it. "Service" is something like that; every talks about it, but few do anything about it. We're doing something; we're giving you the best merchandise on the markee and we're backing it with a "reinforced concrete" guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

There's Nothing Better For You

By that, we mean the guarantee; here at this store Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes are guaranteed to satisfy you. It means that your clothes expenditures are protected; you're sure of your money's worth. If you think you don't get it—you get yours back.

The Way It Hangs

Half the effectiveness of a suit is in the way the coat hangs. The fronts, the lapels, the sleeves, all seem to "flow" into the general lines of the draping; and the flare of the skirt simply carries out the effect. It is in these respects that have been most successful this season; the suits and overcoats they're made for us show all the artistic points.

Double-breasteds

You certainly ought to see these new models before you spend a cent for clothes. They're live ones, so are the "belters;" the newest ideas in clothes.

BEND PORK PRICES UNTOUCHED BY GENERAL DROP IN MARKET

Although today's swine quotations in the Portland markets ranged from $12.30 to $15.50, live weight, Bend butchers are paying from $18 to $20 for pork raised in Central Oregon. A survey of the local markets revealed today. Dressed pork will cost the Portland retailer from 18 to 19 cents a pound, while the Bend dealer pays 24 to 25 cents. This is the reason why prices to the consumer have shown little or no change in the past two months here, as far as fresh pork is concerned, while cured meats, which are shipped in from outside points, give the housekeeper the advantage of five or six cents a pound over former quotations.

While swine shipped into Portland, actually bring considerably less than those marketed here, it would not be advantageous to local dealers to ship from the larger centers, on account of freight charges and with this is coupled the fact that they are anxious to patronize Central Oregon ranchers.

The chief cause for higher wholesale prices prevalent here, as outlined by Charles Boyd, proprietor of one of the city's leading markets, is the late harvest, with the result that hogs being prepared for the market have not yet completed their finishing diet of grain. Because of this, locally raised pork is not yet ready to be sent to the market, and in consequence no reflex is felt from lower prices prevailing elsewhere. As soon as stock is ready for shipping, this influence will be felt, and prices asked of local dealers by farmers will drop correspondingly. This lower rate will be passed on down the line to the consumer.

Fresh pork is now selling over the counter at from 38 cents to 45 cents. The apparent discrepancy between these figures and the 24 to 25 cents dressed weight paid to farmers, Mr. Boyd explained when he told how the butcher must sell the head and feet of an animal for 10 cents less per pound than is paid for the entire carcass, while loss in rendering lard will run from 20 to 40 per cent, the lard itself retailing at 35 cents.

COST OF LIVING IS DUE TO DROP SOON

In its digest of trade conditions the Central Trust company of Illinois says: "The average price of all commodities, according to the Bankers' Price Index, stood on the first of September at $658.77 compared with $728.86 on the first of August and $626.14 on September 1, 1918. The decline shows in the average price of all commodities indicates a considerably decreased cost of living, which will be more apparent to the consumer in a month or two, which this decrease in the cost of prime commodities has found. Its way through to the retail markets. It will be seen that the decrease compares with the decline in per capita circulation of money and with the decline in gold production as compared with the previous month.

SCHOOL BONDS GO OVER PAR

$10,152.50 OFFERED BY E. L. DEVEREAUX & CO., OF PORTLAND, BEST BID FOR DISTRICT SECURITIES.

Bids on the $10,000 bond issue authorized by the Bend school board, necessitated by additional expenses on the Kenwood school building not covered by the original estimate, were opened this Wednesday at a special meeting of the board of directors, and the contract for the purchase of the district securities awarded to E. L. Devereaux & Co., of Portland. The offer of the successful bidder amounts to $10,152.50, and while other proposals were apparently higher, they contained conditions which would not have been so advantageous to the district.

The bonds will draw five and a half per cent interest, and will run 15 years, being retired serially at the end of the first five years.

TO WINTER FEED LAMBS.

The first attempt at winter feeding of lambs in Central Oregon is to be tried this year by Horrace Brookings of Lower Bridge. Mr. Brookings drove about 300 head of lambs to his ranch this week. The lambs were purchased through the First National Bank of Bend from George A. Jones of Bend. The bank also purchased 200 head of lambs through Ned Angland for H. T. Mikkelson, of Deschutes.
