MARKET FACTS

To January 17, 1929

The trend in the seed market is upward in price. Some shipments of red clover from European markets have been received at New York. The demand for clover is active. There is no export demand for this class or seed.

Foreign alfalfa seed, especially from Italy and Argentina, is arriving in the U. S. The demand for alfalfa seed is reported exceptionally strong.

The hay market has been reported quiet. San Francisco reports hay receipts increased with improved car situation. Cold frosty weather throughout western states has stimulated demand for hay. The market up to January 17, has been firm at the highest quotations.

The general trend in the meat market is toward higher prices. Receipts show choice beef at all centers to be scarce. Short feeding period and willingness to turn cattle no matter in what condition is given as the reason for this situation. Demand for lambs showed healthy condition. Mutton market was regular.

During the recent active advancing potato market in western New York dealers at times could not secure enough to stock fill orders. The inquiry from the South and Middle Atlantic States was very heavy. A few country dealers who had storage space practically filled their houses at prices much lower than those now prevailing. Storage space is reported very scarce in producing sections, and in general growers own most of the remaining supply. The situation at present is extremely strong, and as most stock shows a generally fine quality and is keeping well most dealers are very optimistic. Some feel that it may be possible to find an outlet later this year much farther west than usual. Stock shipped almost invariably gives satisfaction to buyers, resulting in repeat orders, and for some time shippers have experienced

San Diego Men Gains 25 Pounds

Was in Poor Health Twelve Years—Six of Which He Couldn't Work.

"I have gained twenty-five pounds in weight and am just as full of energy and as strong as I ever was since I began taking Tanlac," said G. I. Bickell, who resides at 4458 Louisiana street, San Diego, Cal. Recently, Mr. Bickell is the father of the publisher of the Faulkton Advocate, Faulkton, S. Dakota, in which state he resided before coming to California, continuing, he said:

"Twelve years ago while in Mitchell, S. Dakota, I suffered a general breakdown. It just seemed that my whole physical machinery went wrong all at once. I lost in weight very rapidly, and of course, my strength went also. I had scarcely any appetite and became so nervous I could get but little sleep. I was also badly constipated, and had to be taking some kind of laxative all the time. I finally became so weak and run down I just had to quit work entirely and for six long years I was unable to do a thing.

"I had tried lots of different kinds of medicines, but none of them did me any good, and I went to Denver, Colo., in search of health, and while there I began to read about the good Tanlac was doing and one case I read of was so similar to mine I decided to try it, and shortly after I began taking it I began to feel stronger and to pick up in weight, and my appetite began to improve.

In all I took eight bottles of Tanlac while in Denver, and the way it built me up was remarkable. I was soon able to go to work again, and I worked steadily for sixteen months, and then came here to San Diego, and am working every day, and feel fine and strong and am not a bit nervous, and am never troubled with constipation any more. It is a pleasure to recommend Tanlac, when it did so much for me, and I advise every one to take it who is in the same condition I was."

"Tanic is sold in Bend by Owl Drug Co., in Sisters by Geo. F. Aiken, and in Bend by Horton Drug Co."
