

CIVIC LEAGUE PETITION FOR PARK IS FILED

BOND ISSUE MAY BE UP FOR VOTE

STOCKMEN TELL PLAN

Representatives of New Livestock Board Want Meat Inspection and Pound Reform—Garbage Ordinance Passed by Council.

Whether or not the city of Bend shall issue bonds sufficient to finance the purchase of the Bend Company's park site on the east side of the river is a question brought up at the meeting of the Bend city council on Tuesday, which will probably go to the people at the May primaries. A petition originating in the Women's Civic Improvement League brought the question definitely before the council, and after brief discussion the matter was referred to the public property committee, and action is expected at the next meeting of the council. The park site would cost in the neighborhood of $21,000.

Representing the newly organized Deschutes Central Livestock board, N. G. Jacobson and George Jones appeared before the council to ask a revision of the laws governing the impounding of cattle and horses. Mr. Jacobson suggested a plan by which the poundmaster would also be made meat inspector, acting as a check on the sale of stolen meat and meat from diseased or improperly killed animals. According to this plan, the city council would be put to an annual expense of $300, the rest of the salary of the poundmaster and inspector coming from inspection fees and from a stockmen's appropriation. Mr. Jacobson estimated that the meat eaten in Bend each month represents 190 cattle, 40 calves, 100 hogs, and 65 sheep. He urged that any change in the law to allow for the change suggested, make it imperative that no carcass be sold unless the hide could be displayed at the same time.

Mr. Jones pointed out that such an arrangement as that suggested would be a money saver for the city, and after some discussion the council went on record as favoring the change. The matter was referred to the police and fire committees.

A petition from residents in the north end of the east side of the city, objecting to the maintenance of a contagious disease hospital, was presented, but after an explanation by Mayor Eastes that the place is a safe distance from dwellings in the neighborhood, and with a statement from the health officer that there is no danger to residents in the section, the petition was rejected.

SEES LITTLE HOPE OF GOVERNMENT AID

In connection with the proposed meeting of directors of the irrigation units of the greater Deschutes project, announced for Monday, March 15, in Redmond, statements made by A. D. Anderson, secretary of the North Unit district, in a letter recently received by The Bulletin, are of value.

"We hope that in the near future we can meet with all interested parties of Central Oregon and discuss the building of the Benham Falls reservoir, and that all lands which want water from this proposed reservoir will see their way clear to go with us and help in its construction," Mr. Anderson writes. "It does not seem at all likely that we will be able to get our Uncle Sam to help us, and if he does not we will have to help ourselves," and it seems quite feasible that each district or section can contract one with the other, on a per acre basis for the construction of the dam.

"Then when this is done, if the interests of two or more of the sections run the same way, we can still further contract with each other. This will be possible where districts are formed, and we will have to have districts on land which is not so organized. The idea of a district is for the land to get water and then operate its system for the good of the land and not for individual profit and betterment. This should preclude jealousy of one kind and another, and I feel that we should make real progress this summer with irrigation plans.

NEW INSURANCE RATINGS MADE

New fire insurance rates for Bend, the result of the survey made here by the Oregon rating bureau several weeks ago, are far from satisfactory. Mayor J. A. Eastes declared Saturday following the receipt of a copy of the bureau's report. The fire zone is greatly extended, taking in the west side residence section and that part of the east side beyond the railroad tracks, but the basic rate on residences remains the same as before. In spite of the added protection given by the installation of up-to-date fire fighting equipment, and the training of a crack volunteer department.

The lowest basic rate is for dwellings of fireproof construction, and is 50 cents per hundred. A reduction of from 10 to 15 cents had been expected. Within the business district, a cut of from 22 to 33 cents is made.

Mayor Eastes declared today that he would take the matter up immediately with the rating bureau.

PLEADS GUILTY TO BEATING HIS WIFE

FIRE FIGHTERS TO HAVE A BALL

Organization of a nine was authorized at the weekly meeting of the department Monday night at the firehouse, and further details will be decided on Friday evening.

MILLIONS FOR SPARE MOMENTS

The International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pennsylvania, celebrated their twenty-seventh anniversary in October, 1928, with an enrollment of over 2,500,000 students. Thousands of these students have figured in dollars and cents the actual value to them of the spare moments devoted to the study of I.C.S. technical courses and other subjects ranging from Advertising and Salesmanship to Agriculture and Poultry Husbandry.

$95.00 an hour has been figured by many of these students to be a conservative estimate to them of the value of the spare moments spent in study of I.C.S. courses.

Reports on 27,000 typical students show 14,879 were receiving $1,500 a year or more; 2,451 receiving $2,500 or more; 413 receiving $5,000 or more; 29 receiving $10,000 or more; and 8 with annual incomes of $25,000 or more.

In the twenty-seven years of its existence the I.C.S. has enrolled six times as many students as Harvard in the two hundred and seventy-eight years since its organization; more than ten times the total enrollment of Yale since its doors swung open in 1701; more than five times the total enrollment of all of the colleges, universities and technical schools in the United States combined.

A letter or a post card will bring complete information regarding the subject in which you are interested.
