VOTERS' PAMPHLETS ARRIVE IN COUNTY

Special Arguments Devoted to Cause of Higher Education, in Advance Copies.

While the great majority of the voters' pamphlets will not be mailed by the Secretary of State for some weeks yet, a few advance copies have arrived in this county. The pamphlet, which in time will be sent to all registered voters, contains the texts of the nine constitutional amendments and measures that are to be on the ballot at the special general election of Friday, May 21.
No negative argument was submitted by any one on the measures for the relief of elementary and higher education, but an affirmative argument appears for each. That for the elementary school bill is one page in length, and is signed by E. D. Reasler, secretary-treasurer of the Oregon State Teachers' association.
The argument for the higher educational measure is three pages long, and is signed by Judge R. S. Bean of Portland, president of the board of regents of the University of Oregon; Judge J. K. Weatherford of Albany, president of the regents of the Oregon Agricultural College and Governor Ben W. Olcott, president of the regents of Oregon Normal school.

One of the striking things in the higher educational argument is the statement regarding Oregon's assessed valuation. Although the wealth and business of the state have increased greatly since 1913, assessed valuations have increased less than four per cent. In fact, the table of assessed valuations shows that in 1914, 1915, 1916, and 1917, there was actually a decrease from the assessed valuation of 1913.
In consequence, the income for higher education has increased less than four per cent since 1913, which was the year when the existing millage bill was passed by the legislature.

PROVIDE WATER FOR CATTLE

Ponds, Springs, Troughs and Other Facilities Should Be Cleaned and Put in Shape.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Before turning cattle that have been kept in the barn or lot during the winter onto a pasture a good water supply should be carefully provided for. Ponds, springs, watering troughs or other facilities for watering should be cleaned and put into shape. It is frequently thought that the water supply is abundant early in the season and therefore that no attention need be given to it. This is a mistake, as springs and ponds fill up during the winter and troughs become damaged so they fail to hold sufficient water for the needs of the cattle. In most cases the water supply cannot be materially increased, so care must be taken to conserve what is available. It is advisable to fence around springs to prevent the cattle from trampling the earth and polluting the water. The maximum use of water from a spring can be obtained by providing two or three troughs set so that the overflow from one will run into the next one. This arrangement not only makes the water more accessible to the stock but keeps it cleaner and better.

Water Supply for Live Stock is of Greatest Importance.

PICKS LOCATIONS FOR SUMMER WORK

On a trip to Central Oregon to select locations for an extensive series of demonstrations and experiments to be conducted this summer to ascertain the duty of water, and also for educational purposes, Prof. W. L. Powers, of the Oregon Agricultural college, arrived in Bend last Friday, and spent today in the farming country tributary to Bend. Headquarters will probably be established in this city while the summer work is in progress, he intimated.

The investigation as to the duty of water is to be made especially in regard to the lands within the C. O. I. segregation. Locations in the Powell Butte, Terrebonne, Grange Hill, and Redmond sections are being selected by Mr. Powers.

FRANK GILBERT IS CALLED BY DEATH

Frank Gilbert, aged 64 years, for several years a resident of Bend, and one of the most ardent believers in the commercial future of the city, died shortly after 9 o'clock Wednesday at St. Charles hospital, after an illness of nearly two months. Suffering was given as the primary cause of death. Three operations which were performed during his last illness, prolonged his life, but vitality was insufficient to make possible his recovery. No arrangements have been announced as yet for the funeral services.

Mr. Gilbert came to Bend after a long service as purser on steamers on the Columbia, found employment here, and was the owner of several parcels of Bend realty. A brother and sister in California are reputed to be wealthy.

Why Have Tired Feet?

NATURE shapes our feet for walking and standing—provides the necessary flexibility and strength. If your feet tire easily it is not because Nature has failed, but because you have crippled and weakened your feet by forcing them into shoes of unnatural shape.

Give Nature a chance to remedy your mistake. Put your feet into Educators—they let the feet grow as they should. Come in and see how good-looking they are. For your protection remember—unless the shoe is branded EDUCATOR on the sole, it is not an Educator.
