Electrician Knocked Unconscious by 2300 Volts; Hands Burned, Knee Dislocated; Dry Weather Saves Life

Only the fact that the material with which he was working was entirely dry saved E. A. Smith of the Bend Water, Light & Power Co. from death by electrocution late Saturday afternoon. Twenty-three hundred volts passed through Smith's body, slightly burning his hands, knocking him unconscious and, in the reflex caused by the shock, dislocating one knee. Smith was at the top of a pole, making a connection from the 2300-volt wire to a 220-volt circuit, when the full force of the current struck him. His belt kept him from falling and, on regaining consciousness, he disregarded the injured knee and put in 10 minutes trying to make the connection. He was unsuccessful and was finally forced to climb down, one leg dangling, limp and useless, as he made the trip to the ground.

Lee Henry and George Gillander, linemen, assisted him to his home, where he will be confined for the next 10 days because of his injuries, the attending physician states.

Mile a Minute Rate Exceeded By Bend Birds

Aided by a stiff wind, two homing pigeons from the W. J. Sproat loft made the almost unbelievable time of 28 1/2 miles in 25 minutes Friday morning. The birds were released at La Pine by Forest Supervisor H. L. Plumb at 8:30 o'clock and arrived in Bend at 8:55 o'clock. The rate was well over a mile a minute. Just how much the birds were assisted by the wind is impossible to tell, as its velocity could not be measured. Without considering the wind, the time made by the homes would constitute a world's record, Mr. Sproat says. Flying conditions were not ideal, even with the breeze, however, for the pigeons were confined for two days, being carried by Mr. Plumb from Bend to Fort Rock, and from Fort Rock back to La Pine before being released.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR IS IN CHARGE OF "Y"

Brandenburg To Hold Down General Secretary's Job—Harry Hayden Is Membership Secretary.

Physical and social activities for the winter are being worked out to include all association members, and an idea of the activities centering about the association building is given by the fact that the gymnasium is engaged for every night remaining in this month and for half of November.

Additions to standing committees to fill existing vacancies are being made, Mr. Brandenburg reports.

STRAHORN FAILS TO STOP IN BEND

Although Robert E. Strahorn left Lakeview, on his way to Bend, last week, according to the Lake County Examiner, no information concerning the railroad builder's presence here could be gained. If he stopped here, it was merely long enough to change from auto to rail transportation, it is believed.

MENINGITIS FATAL TO RANCHER'S WIFE

Funeral Arrangements For Mrs. Mildred R. Taylor Deferred Pending the Arrival of Two Sisters.

Mrs. Mildred R. Taylor, wife of Walter Taylor, rancher in the Alfalfa section, died Sunday at Mountain View Hospital in this city of meningitis. Funeral services were held from the Niswonger chapel Wednesday, Rev. H. C. Hartranft officiating. Burial was in Pilot Butte cemetery.

Mrs. Taylor was born in Hillsboro, Vernon county, Wisconsin, July 25, 1876, and at the age of 21 married in St. Paul, on January 7, 1897. In 1920 Mr. and Mrs. Taylor came to Central Oregon, first homesteading near Brothers, and later buying in the Alfalfa district, when the old Johnston ranch was cut up and placed on the market. Three children, Mrs. Gladys Stidham of San Francisco and Vayle and Mark, of Deschutes county were here at the time of Mrs. Taylor's death.

ADVERTISING SIGNS MUST BE TORN DOWN

Advertising signs along state highways in Deschutes and Jefferson counties must come down.

This is the declaration of R. P. Newland, in charge of highway construction for the state in the two counties. Mr. Newland is anxious that merchants and others who have signs along the highway be given the first opportunity to remove their property, but points out that the 1915 Oregon laws give to any individual the "right to remove or destroy any sign or advertisement placed in violation of this act, and without resort to legal procedure."

In taking this stand, Mr. Newland is carrying out the orders just issued by J. H. Scott, division engineer, in which Mr. Scott writes: "You will please arrange to have advertising signs removed at once from the right of way of the state highways within your jurisdiction. It is suggested that the owners of these signs be given the opportunity to remove them before direct action is taken."
