

FEW MEASURES ARE APPROVED

NEGATIVE VOTE ASKED BY SPEAKERS

Anti-Vaccination Measure Strongly Condemned—Bird Refuge, Oleomargarine, and Market Commission Measure Favored.

If the advice given by speakers at the voters' meeting Tuesday night in the circuit courtrooms is followed, the number of the measures on the ballot at the coming elections will be defeated. Some of the measures, such as the single tax bill, were not considered worthy of discussion, the simple counsel, "vote no," being given by the speakers. Others, notably the anti-vaccination and the Roosevelt bird refuge measures, were gone into at considerable length. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Women's Civic Improvement league, with an attendance of nearly 50.

Dr. A. Lessing spoke against the anti-vaccination bill, quoting from numerous statistical compilations proving that vaccination and re-vaccination have almost wiped out smallpox, or have made the disease no longer a serious malady. Thirty thousands lives annually are being saved by the use of diphtheria anti-toxin, he said.

Mrs. John Runge took issue with the speaker, contending that vaccination is filthy and that compulsory vaccination would be an infringement of personal liberty.

Dr. Lessing declared that the sterile vaccines are not in the same class with the actual diseases for filth and maintained that if people do not know enough to take preventive measures, they should be forced to do so. Dr. Anna Ries Finley ended the discussion with quotations from a letter from an eastern life insurance company, urging the defeat of the bill.

Oleo Bill Favored.

R. A. Ward took the stand of the Oregon Dairymen's league in asking the passage of the oleomargarine bill and opposing the compulsory voting measure chiefly because, he said, it lends itself readily to corrupt practices through the mail-voting provision. The market commission bill, he said, has wandered far away from the California law, on which it was patterned, but the basic idea is still good. He advised its passage as a measure to forestall the entrance of the Non-Partisan league into Oregon and to eliminate needless middlemen.

"Vote no on the 60-day legislative session, the divided session and the single tax bill," was H. J. Overturf's advice. The 60-day session, he said, would be so long that it would keep good men from serving in the legislature, while the divided session measure carries a clause providing for a four-fifths majority to amend a bill. This he considers highly dangerous.

N. G. Jacobson spoke strongly in favor of the bird refuge bill, declaring that the great nesting place for water fowl provided by Malheur lake is of far more value to Central Oregon and to the state than would be the farm lands of doubtful worth which would be acquired by draining.

PIONEER WOMAN PASSES IN BEND

Mrs. Almira Swalley, Resident of Central Oregon Since 1882, Will Be Buried in Prineville Cemetery

Mrs. Almira Swalley, widow of a pioneer settler of the Deschutes valley, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Landingham, in Kenwood Sunday. The funeral was held here Wednesday at 10 o'clock from the Niswonger chapel, Rev. J. E. Purdy officiating, with burial in Prineville, her former home.

Mrs. Swalley was born in Ohio in 1848 and came to Oregon in 1877. In 1882 she went to Prineville to live and a few years later moved with her husband to the Deschutes, taking up a homestead on the river a mile and a half below Tumalo. The Swalley bridge, the only river crossing at the time between Lower Bridge and the Slesmore place, above Bend, was built by her husband.

Mrs. Swalley is survived by her daughters, Mrs. E. C. Landingham and Mrs. Ballard Gile of Bend, Mrs. Sam Lowry of Alaska and Mrs. Fred Stuart of The Dalles, and by two sons, the younger of Deschutes and Charles Swalley of Yakima.

Giving Her Away.

The giving away of the bride by some man, generally her father, is a relic of the time when woman was "a thing" a chattel without rights, and unable to hold property. In such circumstances, she could not, of course, choose her own husband, and was given away to the man who wanted her in exchange for a substantial present.

Dreaming of Pennies.

If you dream of pennies it's a sign you will receive a letter from a friend at a distance which will contain money. The contents will be in proportion to the number of pennies in your dream.—Exchange.

Lemon Juice.

Lemon juice will whiten the skin and remove stains from the hands. Lemon juice will allay the pain from insect bites. Lemon juice and salt will remove rust, ink and fruit stains from white goods.

CITY BUREAU CAMPAIGN PLANS ARE RECEIVED ENTHUSIASTICALLY BY CLUB

greatest successes in its work in Bend. "We will have a real organization—something which we haven't now," he said.

"If there is a need of such an organization, let's have it," declared R. S. Hamilton. "If you believe in it, you will make it a real success."

Mayor J. A. Eastes showed his stand by asserting that "Bend has always been a town of boosters and always will be."

D. E. Hunter, who has only recently returned from a protracted visit in Canada, pleaded lack of information on the issues involved.

"Sure we can put it over," was C. S. Hudson's comment.

E. P. Mahaffey voiced his belief in the success of the campaign in no uncertain terms and Dr. Anna Ries Finley pledged the support of the women of Bend.

Campaign Outlined.

Mr. Schouboe, in his remarks on the objects and purposes of the campaign, said, in part:

"We are not here to tell the people of Bend what they must do. We are here to bring to them the experience of more than 300 chambers of commerce which have been organized under the American City bureau plan. We will then find out what the people want and point out the means by which these aims may be accomplished. The people of Bend can make this city just what they work for and want. The Bend of 1926 will be just what the citizens of today plan it to be. Anything within the limitations of reason can be accomplished if the people will work for it.

Team Work Needed.

"The modern chamber of commerce does not pretend to do more than bring about team-thinking and team-acting on the part of the membership, for the informed minds of the people of Bend are the best brains to solve the problems of Bend. It is merely up to your local civic-commercial organization to provide the machinery and funds to bring these minds together and then stimulate action.

"So far as natural resources and advantages are concerned, there is no one who can gainsay the fact that God has been very good to Bend. But He has done all that He can reasonably be expected to do, and the rest remains for the people themselves to accomplish.

"There is another most important thing that should be borne in mind by the people of Bend, and that is this fact: A chamber of commerce is not 'organized' when its campaign for members is completed. Its 'organization' has barely commenced. It has entered on one of the most critical phases of its existence. Skilled guidance is never more vital to its success.

Expert Service Pledged.

"A member of the bureau's staff—an expert in organization methods, with particular training in directing the organization's development—remains on the ground and performs these distinct services:

"1. Submits new constitution and by-laws.

"2. Installs a democratic system of election and supervises the election of officers and directors who will genuinely represent the enlarged membership.

"3. Determines accurately just what this enlarged membership wants the organization to do.

"4. Outlines a definite plan, provided by experience, for the organization and control of committees of active members to bring this work to accomplishment. The bureau assists in the initial steps of putting this plan into operation.

"5. Educates these workers to an understanding of the methods by which their purposes may be attained.

"6. Organizes a members' forum.

"7. Suggests an office system.

"8. If there is no paid secretary, he puts the directors in touch with the best secretarial talent they are in a position to pay for.

"9. Presents to each director at the close of the period of installation service a special report embodying (a) a program of work; (b) a manual of organization procedure; (c) recommendations for the application of these principles to the problems of the local organization.

"10. Presents to the directors a research report, giving detailed information regarding the most important activities immediately before the organization, based on the experience of other cities."

Following the talk delivered by Mr. Schouboe, volunteers were called for to assist as workers on the teams of the field organization. A large number of those present signed workers' cards.

Mr. Schouboe declared that he had never encountered a more magnificent community spirit than that found here and predicted a successful campaign for the city of Bend.
