Perfume From Orange Buds.

The fruit buds of the bitter orange also give an essential oil known as essence de petit grain; and from the white flowers is extracted a delightful perfume called essence de Neroli. That is prepared chiefly at Nice, Cannes and Grasse, in the south of France. All the flowers of a fine tree will yield only a single ounce of Neroli oil. The peel also yields an aromatic principle that the ancient Arab physicians esteemed highly as a tonic; it is still considered a useful stomachic.

"Brainy" Lizard Discovered.

Colorado has made an interesting "find." A mass of skeletonized bones was unearthed some time ago from a deep pit, and since then archaeologists and experts in natural history have been occupied in piecing the bones together. The result is a singular formation. It is 14 feet high at the shoulder with a giraffe-like neck stretching 20 feet into the air and a total length from the front of the head to the tip of the tail of more than 50 feet. The lizard had a brain an inch in diameter.

Wealth in Central Congo.

Opal is a precious gem found in quantities in the marshy forests of the Central Congo. It is gathered from living trees (principally of the euphorbia species) or is dug from the ground in a fossil state, often being found in sandy river bottoms. The natives it is said, show considerable ingenuity in finding opal, searching for it with iron-tipped sticks in localities where experience teaches them it is likely to occur.

Famous Landmark.

The old windmill on the famous Wimbledon common, a few miles out of London, has been shorn of the chief feature that has made it a landmark for many generations. Its four sails, which could be seen many miles away, have been removed, the common conservators having been advised that owing to their great age they were a danger, not only to the structure, but to those living in the mill house underneath. The old windmill presents a strange appearance without the sails.

Chaplain's Forgetfulness.

The chaplain of a jail was once invited to preach to a large and fashionable congregation in a neighboring church. Somehow he managed to bring with him a sermon that he had preached to the prisoners in the jail itself, and astonished the fashionable folk by telling them: "But for the unmerited mercy of the crown many of you would long ago have expiated your crimes on the scaffold."

He Had to Laugh.

A private with the A. E. F. felt thirty, and not having a franc in his pocket decided the only way he could get some wine was to faint. So he pretended to faint in front of the first inn. Two French girls ran out, picked him up and started toward the inn. Unfortunately one of the girls inadvertently tickled him and he laughed. The indignant girls left him sitting on the ground.

Virtue of Cold Water.

We have read that if a man on the wrong side of fifty, getting out of cold water, finds the bathroom looking-glass fogged, he may continue his practice safely, knowing that it is beneficial; that there are some who when the water is only a little above freezing point find it necessary "to towel only their head and their feet, natural evaporation doing the rest."

EVERYTHING THAT IS BIG HAS HAD ITS SMALL BEGINNING

At some time the large fortune was small, but it grew. Your fortune may be now in its infancy; you may not have more than a dollar that doesn't need to be spent at once for some necessity. But put that dollar away, in a safe place; let it draw interest; by and by put another dollar with it, and then another and another. Like a child your fortune will grow—steadily, surely. In time, what you have put aside, added to what your savings have earned, will amount to enough to make a good investment. You have made the beginning of your fortune.
