Paradoxical.

"There is a contradictory sort of advertisement in the paper of this big business firm." "What is it?" "It is a summary of their winter stock."

DESCHUTES IS FIRST COUNTY OVER THE TOP

"YOU WIN" SAYS STATE RELIEF DIRECTOR

HIGH PRAISE IS GIVEN

County's Work Stands as Inspiration

To Oregon, Writes Robert E.

Smith—Fund For Starving Continued To Grow In Bend.

Deschutes was the first county in Oregon to go over the top in the European relief fund campaign, a letter received from state headquarters in Portland by R. W. Sawyer, county chairman, stated Friday.

"You win," Robert E. Smith, state director, wrote. "Deschutes has the proud distinction of being the first county in the state to fully complete its quota. The city of Marshfield reported a few hours before Bend, stating that it had $1400 in cash and that North Bend had $1200 in cash, both exceeding their quotas, but that the entire county had not yet quite reached the top.

"We congratulate you and thank you exceedingly for the splendid accomplishment. You may be assured that the work in Deschutes county is standing out as an inspiration to the balance of the state."

To provide better accommodations for the tourists who will visit Bend next summer, the Pilot Butte annex will be thoroughly overhauled, fitted with modern plumbing, including running hot and cold water in every room, and new carpets and bedding will be purchased, it is announced by Manager W. C. Birdsell of the Inn.

The estimated cost will be $4,500. In the main hotel building, preparatory work for painting, enameling and varnishing has been started. The improvements will not be completed until the middle of January.

SCARIFYING STREETS OF CITY COMMENCED

Western Willite Road Construction Company Begins The Preliminary Work For Paving Operations.

The Western Willite Road Construction Co. got into action in Bend yesterday in preparation for hard surfacing downtown streets of the city. A scarifier, drawn by a big tractor, was at work on Wall street this afternoon and the new green barriers were placed in readiness to close the street as soon as the cinder surfacing has been loosened sufficiently to allow for regrading.

The Willite paving bid was accepted by the city council early in November.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR WRECK VICTIM

Lane Thomas, victim of Saturday night's automobile accident, three miles north of Bend, on the state highway, was buried in Pilot Butte cemetery this afternoon. Funeral services, held at the Niswonger undertaking parlors and at the grave, were in charge of the local lodge of Redmen, of which Thomas was a member. Father Luke Sheehan of the Catholic church was the officiating minister during the first part of the services this afternoon.

The accident which resulted in the death of Thomas took place shortly after 11 o'clock Christmas night, the auto driven by M. M. Rogers, in which Thomas and Fred Fosburg were riding, going over the edge of a fill, turning over and imprisoning all three. Concussion of the brain terminated fatally less than three hours later.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS ARE FELT IN SOUTH

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin) WILLOWS, Cal., Dec. 29. — Two earthquake shocks were felt here early today. The first was severe, but no damage was done. Sleepers were awakened by the shocks.

Fifteen Years Ago

(From the Columns of The Bulletin of December 29, 1905.)

The surveying party working from the Deschutes river along Willow creek into Madras is not running an extension of The Dalles-Dufur line, but is locating an entirely new line from the Columbia up the Deschutes river.

W. J. Ward, representing the Brooking Box & Lumber Co. of Highlands, Cal., returned Wednesday from a week's trip into the timber south of Bend. To a Bulletin reporter, Mr. Ward stated that his company desired to purchase about 50,000 acres of Deschutes pine lands.

Bathing and Health.

The Hebrews, Hindus and Mohammedans, as a part of their religion, are required to keep the body clean by frequent ablutions and baths and this has had a far-reaching effect upon the healthfulness of those people. When the Roman empire fell, the magnificent system of baths, which its people had and used for cleanliness of body, soon lapsed into decay. Only in Spain, under the Moors, was the system of bathing kept up. There, to conform to the religious rites of Islam, luxurious baths were maintained, but when the Moors were expelled the misguided pious people razed to the ground these remnants of heathenism.

Probably Oldest Industry.

The impending sale of Brandon Park, an estate of 2,000 acres on the Norfolk-Suffolk (Eng.) borders, recalls what is probably the oldest and most enduring industry in the world—flint working.

At Brandon the first flint working industry has been carried on for several thousand years. A small colony of workers is still making gun flints there and exporting them to savage tribes in Northern and Central Africa. It is said that these workmen are lineal descendants of the flint workers of the neolithic age.

Slowing Down Production.

"How do you like the new hired man?"

"I like him first rate," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "But I've got my doubts about whether we can afford to keep him. He talks so interesting about political economy and things that everybody wants to quit work 'n' listen."

Famous Conservatory Gone.

The celebrated horticultural conservatory on the ducal estates at Chatsworth hall, near Manchester, England, collapsed recently—as surely destroyed by the World war as any French or Belgian structure on the western front, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The glass house was erected in 1890-40, and served as a model for the great Crystal palace still to be seen near London. It was itself of no mean size, measuring, as it did, 277 feet long, 123 feet wide and 67 feet high. Forty thousand panes of glass formed the arching walls and roof.

Not Exactly Church Music.

Reverent Catholics of Dunkirk are demanding an investigation why the Dunkirk cathedral chimes, instead of playing the Angelus, are now calling the faithful to worship by exhilarating jazz tunes, with fox trot music predominating.

Fox trotting is not especially rampant in Dunkirk, but the cathedral bell ringer must have had his vacation in Paris, for, according to his astounded listeners, he has been playing recently with a pure Montmartre touch, not missing a single note.—London Mail.

Inventor's Triumph.
For years it was believed that a machine could never be made which would weave wicker baskets and furniture. But a machine which produces flawless work at 30 times the speed of the best hand weaving is now in use.

Most Patient Woman.
Jed Tunkins says the most patient and forbearing woman he knows of is the piano player who puts in the entire day playing request numbers.

Test in Acoustics.
To test the acoustic properties of a hall, the lecturer proposed counting the number of seconds the clapping of the hands could be heard; if five or six seconds, the hall is unfit for public speaking, for which it must be reduced to two or three seconds, but for musical purposes a little longer may be allowed. Trapping the hall is the best way to reduce the reverberation, belief in the efficacy of stretched wires being a mere relic of superstition.
