TUMALO BONDS WIN, BUT C. O. I. VOTE NEGATIVE

NEGOTIATIONS TO SELL PAPER STARTED

TO CONSTRUCT CANAL

Purchase of C. O. I. Holdings, Defeated At Yesterday's Elections,
Will Probably Be Re-Submitted To The Settlers.

While the Tumalo irrigation district's $550,000 bond issue was being carried Tuesday by the vote of 56 to 10, the $225,000 bond issue placed before the settlers of the C. O. I. district lost, 162 to 190. Returns on the unsuccessful bond issue were received at the office of De Armond & Erskine, attorneys for the C. O. I. district yesterday, and the report on the results of the Tumalo district balloting was made by telephone by Fred N. Wallace, secretary. Negotiations are already under way for the marketing of the Tumalo bonds, and as soon as this detail is attended to, work will begin on the development program which the district contemplates. Certification and sale of the district's paper will take at least three months, Mr. Wallace said. Immediately on the completion of the necessary financing arrangements, the construction of a canal to divert water from the Deschutes river into Tumalo creek will be started. This will involve an expenditure of $150,000, it is estimated.

To Re-submit Question.
H. H. De Armond of the legal firm representing the C. O. I. settlers stated Wednesday that he was not entirely surprised at the negative result of the $225,000 bond election, as a determined opposition to the purchase of the C. O. I. company's rights by the settlers had developed in the last two weeks. Of the total contemplated bond issue, $100,000 had been intended for this purchase. The matter, however, will in all probability be re-submitted to the settlers, Mr. De Armond said. Discussion on this question will be held at the next meeting of the board of directors for the district, in Redmond Monday.

In addition to the bond elections, G. W. Hobson was elected as a director of the Tumalo district and J. Alvin Riggs was chosen for a like position on the C. O. I. directorate, in Tuesday's balloting.

FINAL INSTALLMENT SENT FOR CHILDREN

County Committee's Receipts, Plus
Sums Raised By Churches, Makes
Grand Total of $2914.72

The final remittance on money raised by the Deschutes county committee in the campaign to aid the starving children of Europe—$436—was sent in to Portland headquarters Tuesday. Subscriptions made by the people of Bend and the vicinity, in Tumalo, La Pine, and in the north end of the county, through Redmond headquarters, totaled $2661.27. In addition to this, the Catholic church of Bend raised $136, The Bend Methodist church, $57.45, and the Baptist church of Redmond, $60, making a grand total of $2914.72 for the county.

NEW LIBRARY BOARD MEMBER IS CHOSEN

Mrs. Carrie D. Manny Named To Succeed Mrs. J. M. Lawrence, As Latter Declines Reappointment.

To succeed Mrs. J. M. Lawrence, Mrs. Carrie D. Manny has been appointed by the county court as a member of the Deschutes county library board. She will serve for four years. Mrs. Lawrence was urged to accept reappointment, but was unable to do so.

MERCHANTS WILL SEND DELEGATES

Two Will Probably Go From Bend
To Attend Convention of State
Association In Marshfield.

Edward A. MacLean, secretary of the Oregon Retail Merchants' association, appeared before the Bend Merchants' association last night in the interest of the state convention, which will be held at Marshfield on February 7. It is probable that two delegates from this city will be in attendance at the convention. The contract with the retail clerks, agreed to by the Bend merchants at their meeting Monday night, was not presented for final acceptance last night, but a number of retailers have signed as individuals, it was learned. At present there are two distinct contracts in effect in Bend, as a previous form which gained some signers has not yet been supplanted by the new agreement.

CLUB VOTES FOR INVESTIGATION

Recommendations for the appointment of a committee to investigate the work done last year by the women's protective division under the leadership of Mrs. E. F. Stockwell were carried in an uncontested vote of the Commercial club membership at the noon luncheon at the Pilot Butte Inn Wednesday. The motion, made by Mrs. Carrie D. Manny, of the Women's Civic league, provided that a report be submitted at next week's session. Also, on Mrs. Manny's motion, a committee of one was asked to work with other organizations in the city in preparing a new ordinance governing public dances.

Discussion centered about the question of an auto camp ground. Secretary L. Antles told of the manner in which tourist camps are conducted in a number of other cities of the Northwest, and stated that he had already written for further information. J. A. Eastes declared that it would be a big asset to Bend and would not cost more than $2500 or $3000.

Paul C. King and Clyde M. McKay told of auto trips which they have made through the western part of the United States, and of the impression which a modern, properly managed camp makes on a tourist. J. Edgar Bloom emphasized that the auto tourist will go where he will get the best treatment.

Two members of the new city council were called on by Chairman R. S. Hamilton. N. H. Gilbert stated that he is interested and will give his support to the extent that the city is financially able to go. H. E. Allen said that he is personally in favor of the establishment of an attractive camp.

On the motion of Mr. McKay, the club asked the appointment of a committee to investigate the question and report.

COBB STORY WILL DRAW TRAVELERS

Permission to Use Article on Central Oregon Is Secured by Northwest Tourist Association.

That the recent article by Irvin S. Cobb, "A Quest in Yonbetcherland," appearing in the Saturday Evening Post, is to be utilized to the utmost this year in the publicity campaign of the Northwest Tourist association, is the statement made in a letter received by the Bend Commercial club from Herbert Cuthbert of Seattle, executive secretary of the association. "I propose to draw the attention of at least 100,000 people, who have traveled, or who are likely to travel, to this article," Mr. Cuthbert writes. "I have the permission of Mr. Cobb to quote from it anything I please. I was fortunate enough to secure this permission in advance of the article being published. It will be utilized in several other ways, and I am quite sure that it will result in a tremendous attention being given to your section of the country."

WOMEN'S WORK EXPLAINED TO CIVIC LEAGUE

INTERESTED THROUGH CROWDS HALL

POLICY CONSTRUCTIVE

Speakers Emphasize Importance of Protective Division And Fitness of Mrs. E. F. Stockwell, Former Head of The Work In Bend.

Called for the purpose of placing before the public the facts concerning the work of the women's protective division of Bend, the meeting of the Women's Civic league, held Tuesday afternoon, resulted in a lengthy discussion of the work and of the action of the city council in so far as refusing to continue it. Several hundred women and a score of men, including Mayor Gilson and Councilmen Gilbert, Baker and Leverett showed their interest by attending, every seat in Sather's hall being taken and many standing on the side and in the ante room.

Following a short business session of the league, the subject of the afternoon was introduced by the reading of a written report from Mrs. Stockwell of the work she has done since the protective division was created in April of last year. The report, which is printed in another column, showed that in the past eight months there have been 150 girls and women cared for in various ways at a total cost of $1586.85.

Speakers who were called on thereafter included Mrs. V. A. Forbes, Robert W. Sawyer, Dr. A. Leasing, Rev. J. Edgar Purdy and A. Whisnant, of whom Mr. Purdy and Mr. Whisnant made especially able addresses concerning the work that had been done and the importance of going forward with it. Mrs. Stockwell's supreme fitness for the position she has held was one of the matters pointed out by Mr. Purdy, while Mr. Whisnant discussed the difficulty of the problem and suggested that the councilmen who felt that "the source of the river be sought, instead of merely trying to dam it at its mouth," were quite correct.

Criticism Hurts Mayor.

Mayor Gilson, invited to speak after the set program of speakers had concluded, said that he had been surprised and hurt by the criticism heaped on the city administration before it had fully gotten at work, and followed by an assertion that as mayor he would give his best efforts to the city. He declared that his years of experience as a public official in his former home at Riverville, Wash., had made him thoroughly familiar with the problems under discussion and promised that, as justice of the peace, he would deal severely with offenders brought before him on charges based on moral breaches. He also stated his belief that full publicity should be given to all connected with such cases. His only direct reference to Mrs. Stockwell and her work was at the beginning of his talk, when he said that she had never sought him out to inform him of the activities of the division. What particular reason he had against continuing her in office he did not state, nor did he outline any program to be taken up in the place of, or supplementary to, the protective division.

Labor Leader Tells of Work.

Questioned by Mrs. V. A. Forbes as to whether he knew that four councilmen who opposed the protective division work had never visited Mrs. Stockwell's office to obtain information about it, Mr. Gilson said that he did not, and in reply to Mrs. Forbes' further question why the women who had interested themselves in this matter had not been given an opportunity to appear before the council, he said that the council meetings were always open to the public.

At Mr. Gilson's suggestion, Mrs. L. Gee, a union labor leader of Portland, who was present, was asked to speak. While asserting the value of the work, she asked that due consideration be given the opinions of

JOINT SESSION OF LAWMAKERS HEARS MESSAGE

JAP QUESTION MAY BE MOST IMPORTANT

OLCOTT LAUDS RACE

Cannot Be Assimilated By America,
However, He Says—The Governor
Urges Action On Bonus, And Makes Budget Suggestions.

(By United Press to The Bend Bulletin)

SALEM, Jan. 11.—The house and senate held brief meetings today, then met in joint session to hear Governor Olcott's message. A joint committee escorted the governor, supreme court judges and state officers to the house chamber, the senate marching there in a body. Following the delivery of the lengthy message, the senate adjourned until 2 o'clock and the house until 2:30, when routine business was considered.

SALEM, Jan. 11.—That the issue of ownership of land by Japanese may be "the most momentous question to consume the time of your deliberations" was the declaration of Governor Olcott, in reading his message to a joint session of the two houses here today.

"In my opinion, steps should be taken by means of proper legislation to curb the growth of the Japanese colonies in Oregon; to preserve our lands and our resources for the people of our own race and nationality," the governor said. "I believe the ultimatum should be issued that it is the sense of the people of Oregon, speaking through their representatives, that this state is a state with a government of Americans, by Americans, and for Americans, and that Americanism is the predominant asset of its citizenry."

"The Japanese are a race high in culture. . . . They are a courteous people, a high-minded people, a people of education and progress. But they are not our people. We cannot assimilate them and they cannot assimilate us. Oil and water will not mix. I would live in peace and amity and concord with them, but it would be a peace and amity and concord which extended the hand of friendship across the sea. So long as Japanese and Americans attempt to till their acreage side by side, so long will there be enmity and distrust. Centuries of history have shown us that Mongol and Caucasian must each work out his destiny alone. . . ."

Bonus Favored.

That every Oregonian who served during the World war in the army, navy and marine corps should receive "at least $25 for every month of service," was the recommendation of the governor. He added that the legislature is prevented by the 6 percent tax limitation amendment from appropriating the necessary money, but suggested that the legislature refer to the people a bill appropriating the "bonus."

Governor Olcott asserted the government "should do something for these men. . . . But I further believe the state should wait no longer. Congress has delayed and haggled over this measure until the light of hope is fast fading. If we do our share, and congress should eventually come forward with additional funds, our men will then receive little enough for what they did. . . . The need of bringing the products of the farm closer to the consumer was emphasized by the governor. "Some well-devised move of this sort would be of vast benefit both to the people on our farms and to the population in the cities," he said.

Curb Asked For Profitteering.

He also urged legislation tending to curb "excessive profits in between the producer and consumer."

Governor Olcott pointed out the need of correcting the state's budget system, suggestion that all estimates or appropriations be passed upon by "some responsible body before they are presented to the legislature." He recommended that the state board

BANK TO OPEN WITHIN MONTH

Resumption of activities by the Crook County bank of Prineville, which closed recently, will come within 30 days, was the prediction of Warren Brown, director of the bank, while in Bend Monday on a business visit. Mr. Brown was not at liberty to announce the details of reorganization.

There has been absolutely no excitement among depositors incident to the closing of the bank, and business has gone on as usual, with no flurry or indication of hysteria, Mr. Brown said, in commenting on conditions in the Crook county seat.

NO RESIGNATION MADE BY CROZIER

J. L. Crozier, former principal of the Bend high school submitted no resignation before leaving for Wilkeson, Wash., to take a higher paid job. He just cleaned up his desk, packed his trunk, and went. That no resignation had been turned in became known Monday at a special meeting of the school board. City Superintendent S. W. Moore had supposed that the board had received Mr. Crozier's signed withdrawal, and the board thought that Mr. Moore had it.

The directors, however, took the former principal's action in leaving as evidence that he had severed connections with the city schools, and the superintendent was authorized to secure a man to fill the position as soon as possible. Until this is done, Mr. Moore will continue to hold down the job of principal as well as that of superintendent.

Discussion of departmental education and of means of more adequately heating the bungalow classrooms, completed the business of the evening.

RAPID GROWTH NOTED AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Deschutes county library has on hand a balance of $368.58, it is shown in the first annual report for the year ending December 31, 1929. The number of volumes in the library at the close of the year was 3488, and the total circulation was 14,170. On May 1, 1929, when the Bend public library was taken over by the county library board, the number of books on hand was 2510.

PERTINENCY OF FEDERAL TRADE CHARGE DENIED

BIG PRICE CUTS IN BEND MENTIONED

NO COMBINE, STATED

Buying Centers Controlling Factor
In Setting Prices, Local Mill
Heads Show—Question of Trade Name Explained.

By Ralph H. Couch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 10.—Lumber manufacturers of the country, through 10 regional associations, are able to control production, stifle competition and prevent price declines, the federal trade commission charged today in a special report.

The report, with a mass of seized correspondence to support the charges, was forwarded to congress. The evidence was also given to the department of justice, it was announced.

Particular interest is attached to the report because the price of lumber has been a large factor in an almost complete halting of some types of building, which resulted in housing shortage and high rents.

"They're not talking about Bend, or the Western Pine Manufacturers' association" was the comment made by H. K. Brooks, general manager of the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber Co., when the Washington dispatch was called to his attention. "Our prices are the result of neither influence nor compulsion. As to the charge of preventing price declines, we are selling on an average of 35 per cent lower than in the early fall."

Price Cut Noted.

"There is no price regulation in the Western Pine Manufacturers' association," declared J. P. Hennessey, acting general manager of The Sherrin-Hixon Company. "Dictation of the buying centers, not of the producer, is the controlling factor. Our recent price declines will average 20 to 25 per cent. That the cut has not been even greater is due to the fact that we did not closely follow the runaway market in its upward trend."

Mr. Brooks and Mr. Hennessey were also interviewed regarding an informal complaint filed by the federal trade commission, in which it is charged that Pacific coast white pine is not true white pine, and that its sale under such a name is misleading, bringing it under the definition of an unfair trade practice.

"We have been notified that we were a party to this complaint," Mr. Hennessey stated, "and have taken the matter up with our Minneapolis office." He added that at the time the name of western white pine, under which the Sherrin-Hixon product is marketed, was adopted, it was only after the question had been taken up with the commission.

Mr. Brooks mentioned that the trade name of Oregon white pine had been adopted with the express purpose of differentiating the western product from the eastern lumber.
