

BILLS FLOOD CLERK'S DESK

OVER 100 PRESENTED IN HALF DAY

Resolution For Presidential Eight Year Term Withdrawn—Movement Started To Bar Aliens From Teaching.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

SALEM, Jan. 31.—A flood of measures deluged the clerk on the 20th day of the session and, under the rules, the last day for filing bills, except by obtaining consent of the house. Over 100 new bills were introduced by noon and a large number followed in the afternoon. Among the measures filed was the soldier bonus bill, calling for the submission to the people of a constitutional amendment authorizing the project.

Governor Olcott's veto of bill No. 13 of last session was upheld in the house by 31 votes. This bill related to the raising of county salaries, which, on January 25, was passed over the veto by the senate.

A joint resolution, asking Senator Robert N. Stanfield to address the legislature, was adopted, along with several other resolutions and memorials. House joint resolution No. 9, by Gallagher, providing for a joint committee to look into affairs of boxing commissions to ascertain amounts, if any, contributed by them to patriotic or charitable funds as a requisite of operation, was passed.

A house resolution by Davey, providing for the acceptance and transportation of a siege gun, donated by the United States government for the state capitol grounds, was passed unanimously.

Senate memorial No. 4, by Upton, providing for investigation of animal diseases in Wood River valley, Klamath county, was unanimously adopted by the house.

Safety First, Aim.

House memorial No. 7, asking congress to submit an amendment making the president's official term eight years, was laid on the table on motion of its author, Lee of Multnomah, then, on motion of Kay, was recalled after the distribution of the printed copies. This was indefinitely postponed.

A bill requiring all drivers of motor vehicles on public roads outside of municipal corporations to bring their vehicles to a full stop not less than 12 feet from any railroad track before proceeding across such track, and to look in both directions, and to listen for approaching trains before attempting to cross the tracks, was introduced in the house by Representative Albert R. Hunter of Union county. The penalty for violation is fixed at a fine of not more than $10 or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than five days.

A bill by Representative E. H. Belknap provides that aliens shall not be permitted to teach in any of the schools unless they have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States.

Few Oppose Salary Raise.

With only four senators—Dennis, La Follette, Patterson and Strayer—opposed, the upper house adopted joint senate resolution No. 6, by Smith, Eberhard and Hare, increasing the legislative session from 40 to 60 days, and changing the pay of legislators from $3 to $5 per day.

The resolution limits the introduction of bills to the first 40 days of the session, except appropriation bills or bills pertaining to defense of the state or nation, except by unanimous consent of both houses of the legislature.

The resolution requires a constitutional amendment and will be voted upon by the people if adopted by the lower house.

Because of their drastic provisions and certain reaction of defeat, senate bills Nos. 85, 86 and 90, the three prohibition measures, were withdrawn by their authors, Senators Farrell and Eddy. One of these bills defined violations of the prohibition laws, another provided for search and seizure of premises suspected of containing illicit liquor, and a third bill created the office of state prohibition commissioner.

Booze Debate Bitter.

It is believe now that prohibition bills of a less drastic nature will be drafted for introduction into the house.

These proposed measures caused wide and bitter discussion on the ground that a man's home is his castle and that no officer should have the right by law to enter a person's home at any hour of the day or night without a proper warrant, even though he might suspect, but had no positive proof, that liquor was contained on the premises.

MEMBER OF FACULTY OF B. H. S. RESIGNS

Death of Sister Makes It Impossible For Miss Agnes Campbell, Latin Instructor, To Return.

The Bend high school is minus another faculty member, it became known when City Superintendent S. W. Moore stated that he had received a letter of resignation from Miss Agnes Campbell, former instructor in Latin, who has been in Monmouth for the last 10 days.

Miss Campbell was called from Bend by the death of her sister. At first she believed that it would be possible for her to return and suggested that a substitute be placed in charge of her work until she could come back to Bend. Her letter, however, stated that it would be necessary for her to remain with her mother.

GROUNDHOG THEORY JOLTED BY WEATHER

Length of Winter All Depends On Time Animal Arose This Morning To Look For Shadow.

It all depended on what time the groundhog picked for rising yesterday. If the animal supposed to determine the duration of winter peeped out of his hole early, no shadow would have darkened the ground, but if his alarm clock failed to ring, it's just possible that he overslept and saw his shadow after all, for sunshine followed clouds. In that case, six weeks more of winter are on the calendar.

Believers in the infallibility of the groundhog's predictions will know in another month and a half whether or not he turned out on time.

SIGN OF WARNING WORRIES NURSES

A card bearing in black letters the word "Beware," found tacked on the door at the alley entrance to St. Charles' hospital, occasioned considerable alarm among the nurses, until Sheriff S. E. Roberts ascertained that the placing of the sign was the work of a small boy, who considered his work in the nature of a huge joke.

Two signs had been secured by the youngster, but no report was received of the second being placed.

BEND-PRINEVILLE GAME IS FRIDAY

The second game of the basketball season to be played on the home floor is announced for Friday evening, February 4, when Prineville's return contest will be put on at the gymnasium against Coach M. H. Horton's pupils. The teams in their previous games were practically equal, Prineville winning, 25 to 20, and Friday night's encounter, it is expected, will be one of the closest of the season.

The game will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

FISH LADDERS FOR DESCHUTES ASKED IN BILL

worked hard for the development of North Portland harbor and in order to see that this development was carried out, it was their purpose to see that there were sufficient members of the commission who would be in sympathy with the desires of the man from the wheat and cattle country and they regard it as a distinct victory that the names given were added to the list of commissioners.

Through the insistence of the Eastern Oregon senators the requirement that North Portland harbor be improved was written into the measure.

The discussion of the Port of Portland bills began at 2 o'clock and continued until after 5 o'clock. Senator Joseph made a vicious attack on the members of the port commission and assailed the series of port measures when they came up for final passage, but when it came to a vote he supported the measure he had tried to ruin and only Senators Hume and Thomas cast negative votes.

Other details were approved, such as increasing the emergency appropriation from $1,000,000 to $1,050,000 and providing for having the North Portland harbor improved as quickly as engineering problems will permit.

MOISTURE IN SOIL SETS NEW RECORD

Conditions In Agricultural And Grazing Sections Found Best In Years, Reports R. A. Ward.

More moisture is contained in the soil of Central Oregon than for many years, is the report of R. A. Ward following a tour of the agricultural and grazing districts of Deschutes county. Plenty of fodder is on hand and range prospects are the best ever, he says.

The outlook for good lambing conditions is exceptionally bright, Mr. Ward believes.

NEW ROADS SHOWN IN FOREST MAPS

285 Copies Received At Headquarters of Deschutes National Forest For Distribution.

New maps of the Deschutes National forest, corrected to show the Bend-Sparks Lake road last year and other road changes have been received at national forest headquarters here. The maps are 285 in number and are for free distribution. Supervisor Plumb states.

BUSINESS OF STATE SHOWS RAPID GROWTH

use of massage, or vibration, when used upon the face or head; to massage, so long as they do not practice, or claim to be practicing, lawless law, or claim to be, or hold themselves out to be, lawless lawyers; to anyone who shall engage in a domestic administration of family quarrels, or to any person who shall treat the legally entangled by use of prayer or by any other method based upon religious belief.

House bills passing the senate include a measure by Senator Martin amending the irrigation and drainage district act so that the state lands and lands belonging to municipalities can be included in the districts the same as privately owned lands. The other house bill passed in the senate was that fathered by Representative Cary to regulate the granting of licenses to creameries and cheese factories.

Commission Asked.

Representative H. J. Overturf has introduced a bill in the house which provides for the creation of the Central Oregon water resource commission. The bill provides that the commission shall consist of three members, of which the governor shall appoint one. He shall ask the United States reclamation service to nominate a second and these two shall select the third member, to be appointed by the governor. An appropriation of $10,000 is provided for, to be used to make a general survey of water resources of Central Oregon and report thereon, showing its conclusions as to the uses to which the water shall be put to serve the highest economic interests of the state and the comparative desirability of using said water for domestic purposes, irrigation or hydro-electric development, or in part for each.

Representative Sheldon has introduced a new plan for the obtaining and holding of a better grade of teachers. He has introduced a bill authorizing school directors, when so directed by the voters of the district, to levy taxes for the purpose of building or purchasing a residence for a teacher or teachers.

Would Classify Eggs.

Senator Porter of Lane county has introduced a bill in the senate for the regulation and classification of the sale of cold storage eggs, foreign eggs, preserved eggs and incubated eggs. Under the provisions of the bill cold storage eggs shall include eggs which shall have been in cold storage for more than 30 days and shall be branded before being offered for sale with the word "Storage." Eggs imported from foreign countries shall be sold as such and the containers in which the eggs are sold shall be branded with the words, "Foreign eggs."

Representative Woodson introduced a bill in the house which is directed against habitual criminals and which if passed would mean that any person convicted a second time for a felony must be confined in the state penitentiary for a maximum term of not less than double the time of the first conviction and if convicted a third time of a felony must be confined in the state penitentiary for life.

A bill has been introduced into the senate by the joint Wallowa and Union county delegations providing for an annual appropriation of $5000 for the support of the Union Livestock Show association. The life of the appropriation is for two years.

Representative Gallagher has sent in a bill to the house which asks for an appropriation of $25,000, to be used for the eradication of predatory animals and injurious rodents.

LETTER POINTS CROOKED RIVER POSSIBILITIES

"The point to which all of this leads in my mind is this: Assuming that there can be stored in the Post reservoir enough of the waters of Crooked river to irrigate, say, 40,000 acres of land, do the investigations and studies heretofore made show with satisfactory certainty that it would not be feasible to convey this Crooked river water to a point in the vicinity of Smith's Rock and there combine it with a somewhat greater volume of water taken from the Deschutes river through storage at Benham falls, and thus utilize the two sources of supply together for the complete development of the North unit? And if this is feasible, even though it might render the whole cost of development of the North unit project somewhat greater than it would be through use of the Deschutes water only, would not this additional cost be more than compensated for by the use for other purposes of the Deschutes water thus saved?

"With a possibility of storage of Crooked river water sufficient to serve, say, 40,000 acres of land, it certainly seems a pity to take any step which will mean the definite and final abandonment of such possible use.

Bend's Stand Just.

"I take it that there is ample opportunity to use for irrigation purposes on lands east of the Deschutes and north of Crooked river the Deschutes water which would be saved in this way, if it were found desirable to use the water for irrigation purposes in preference to other needs.

"If the use of the saved water for the generation of power or industrial purposes were considered more beneficial it has occurred to me that it might be possible to store enough water to supply the deficiency on the North unit project after application of the Crooked river water by merely holding the excess of the winter and spring flow over the summer flow, or at any rate, that it might be possible to allow the continuous passage down the Deschutes river of enough water to afford an abundant supply for all kinds of industrial development and allow at the same time the generation of a very substantial amount of electrical energy.

"The people of Bend are thinking along these lines and it should be realized that when they contemplate the devotion of the Deschutes water to the North unit project to such an extent as to limit very seriously further irrigation development of their own country, entirely destroy their water power possibilities, and perhaps seriously limit industrial development along other lines, they naturally desire and I think are entitled to be fully assured that there is no practicable alternative."
