"In Every Respect"

says the Good Judge

You get more genuine chewing satisfaction from the Real Tobacco Chew than you ever got from the ordinary kind.

The good tobacco taste lasts so long—a small chew of this class of tobacco lasts much longer than a big chew of the old kind. That's why it costs less to use.

Any man who has used both kinds will tell you that.

AT THE CAMP GROUND

When a family comes to town and locates more or less permanently,

And the man gets a job at the mill, And they avoid paying rent

By staying at the camp ground, And use up all the free wood

That the city provides, Hog the best piece of shade in the park;

Have a bunch of ornery kids that throw litter around the grounds and refuse to clean up;

Holler about poor accommodations, And never say "Thank you"

During the six weeks they live at our expense,

Then the city council and the Commercial club and the Auto Dealers' association and the Woman's Civic league and the Common People wonder if it pays to spend a lot of money on a camp ground for such people to monopolize.

Somebody said the other day that a charge should be made for the accommodations. It'd take a lot of nerve to charge anything for the accommodations we've got now, but it might keep some of these undesirable citizens away.

Somebody else suggested a time limit of two weeks. Anyway, people oughtn't be allowed to live down there forever while the rest of us have to pay rent and taxes and wood and water and light bills and street assessments and dues to the Commercial club, and everything.
