TRIBUTE IS PAID TO WASHINGTON, FARMER

First President Pioneer in Crop Rotation and Soil Improvement Is Recalled.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 22.—"George Washington was the largest and most progressive farmer of his day," Commissioner Houston Thompson of the Federal Trade Commission told the Greve Coeur club of Peoria, in discussing "What Would Washington, the Farmer, Say Today?" Thompson continued:

"Washington was: 1. A pioneer advocate of crop-rotation. 2. First to import and raise mules. 3. First to attempt the raising of alfalfa. 4. Studied and practiced soil improvement and use of fertilizers. 5. A leader in horticulture. 6. Promoted stock breeding. 7. Practiced farm cost accounting. 8. Struggled to obtain the most modern methods of farm machinery and management. "Looking at life through the eyes of one who was a lover of the soil, he left this observation to the American people:

"How much more delightful to an unbaunched mind is the task of making improvements on the earth than all the vain glory which can be acquired from ravaging it, by the most uninterrupted career of conquests."

MEYERS TAKES PART IN SCHOOL DEBATE

Crook County Superintendent Refutes Bend Debaters' Statement, Local Team Reports.

J. E. Meyers, Crook county superintendent of schools, took a part in the high school debate between Bend and Prineville Saturday night at Prineville, when he arose to refute a statement made by Ervin McNeal, of the Bend team, that Meyers had declared the county unit plan of school administration, which was the subject for debate, a compromise in the legislature, the Bend debaters reported on their return home. Prineville secured a 2 to 1 decision at Prineville, while Bend won 2 to 1 from Redmond here.

Lloyd Blakeley was McNeal's partner at Prineville, the opposing debaters being Hazen Cram and Mabel Polk. Miss Naomi Hoskins, debate coach, accompanied the Bend team to Prineville.

Robert McKee and Wilbur Watkins easily outclassed their Redmond opponents, Leland Numbers and Faye Miller, in the debate here.

MERCHANTS TO URGE WOODEN CONTAINERS

Bend merchants will urge on wholesalers from whom their stocks are purchased, the advisability of using wood rather than fiber containers, it was decided Monday at the meeting of the Merchants' association. The decision came following presentation of information on relative durability of containers by L. O. Taylor, assistant general manager of The Shevlin-Hixon Company. The loss in goods more than balances the additional cost of wooden boxes for shipping purposes, Taylor stated.

Discussion on the auto park situation resulted in no definite action.

REPORT MAHAFFEY IS OUT OF DANGER

E. P. Mahaffey, vice-president and manager of the Central Oregon bank, who for several days past has been critically ill at his rooms at the Benson hotel in Portland, is now out of danger according to reports brought to Bend Monday by C. T. Terrill on his return from a trip to Portland. It will be a matter of several weeks, it is expected, before the patient will have regained his strength sufficiently to allow his being brought home.

Bend's heaviest single snowstorm of the winter came Sunday when fine, dry flakes drove rapidly earthward until six inches on the level was piled up. The storm started before daylight, and was virtually ended by 2 o'clock in the afternoon. During last night the snow drifted badly.

The snow was apparently confined to Central Oregon, travelers reporting that none fell north of Madras. It was even deeper at Culver than at Bend, however.

The county road crew was ordered out Monday to clear the road as far as La Pine, using the forest service tractor.

Amber. Amber is a fossil resin, arising from the exudation of coniferous trees, as is shown by its composition and physical properties, by its occurring in drops and globular masses, which resemble the resin seen exuding from the bark of pine trees, and by its common association with fossil woods. It is of a clear brownish-yellow color, varying in shade, and is often clouded with irregular streaks. It is usually transparent and brittle, and burns readily, giving off dense fumes.
