Beach for an injunction to prevent the payment of dissolved the temporary restraining order entered last week in the case. The demurrer was objected to by W. P. Myers, attorney for the plaintiffs, who stated after the hearing that he would question the ruling in the supreme court.

Discrepancy Noted

The demurrer set forth that the plaintiffs are not entitled to relief because the individuals bringing suit have not austained any peculiar dam-Any damage resulting from payment of funds would be shared equally by all members of the district Hamilton contended.

The court noted a discrepancy be tween the title of the complaint which mentions the action as being brought against "certain persons," while the complaint alludes to the members of the school board and the district clerk.

Discussion Injurious to Discipline, Stated at Parents' Association Session.

Following the solicitation for membership in the Parents' association of a number of the students present at last week's meeting, during which two girls aged about 12 years signed the membership list, it was declared by George F. Hoover that meetings of the association were not the proper place for students, as the discussion of the merits of teachers might have a harmful effect on school discipline.
