

HIKE ACROSS U. S. FOR $2,000 PRIZE, THEN LOCATE IN BEND

Trip Made Without Funds—More Than 20 Miles a Day Averaged.

Hiking across the continent from Lancaster, Pa., to Seaside, Ore., in a race for a $2,000 prize; starting with only a camping outfit and a five dollar bill, with the requirement that they must not beg or steal anything, nor pay any fare for any part of their journey; enduring exposure through three Wyoming blizzards; going for two days and a night without food or drink; finally winning the race by a margin of hours; those are the experiences which Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Gobrecht, now of Bend, will have to remember for the rest of their lives.

After experiences like these, it is hardly surprising that Mrs. Gobrecht, interviewed at her home on Riverfront, should have almost forgotten to mention the two occasions on which she and her husband narrowly missed being robbed. After all, they had little that the prospective bandits could take. The first, a burly negro who accosted them in West Virginia, was driven away at the point of Gobrecht's revolver; the second, who posed as a game warden and insisted that they place the guns in the packs, offered no violence after learning that they had no money.

Use "Pup" Tent

Mr. and Mrs. Gobrecht, with the two other couples who started in the race, left Lancaster on February 27, taking a southern route, the Old National Trail, to Chicago. From there they traveled along the Lincoln highway. At first, because of the cold weather, they stopped at hotels; but after reaching Wyoming, the army "pup" tent which Gobrecht carried was their shelter at night.

In the east there were few tourists, so that free rides were seldom gained. The couple followed the rule of walking for 50 minutes, then resting for 10. At this rate they walked as high as 25 miles a day, averaging a little more than 20. As they came further west, rides were more frequent.

Cordiality of the people encountered also improved greatly as they proceeded westward, said Mrs. Gobrecht. The scenery through the Rocky Mountain region was wonderful, she said, but Oregon is the prettiest state of all. After completing the race, they walked to Bend from Seaside, just to admire the scenery along the Columbia highway. Mrs. Gobrecht still thinks walking is great fun.

Survive Hardships

Through a terrific blizzard in Telephone canyon, Wyoming, they managed to keep going; but in the second, in Granite canyon, they wandered off the road and were only saved by locating a ranch house. In the Red desert, which they entered without learning its nature, they spent two days and a night without food or water, finally being rescued by a motorist.

After seeing most of the United States, the Gobrechts decided that Oregon should be their permanent home; and learning from a Pendleton physician that work was plentiful in Bend, they came here after completing the race. Gobrecht went to work in a local saw mill the morning after he arrived. He is an ex-service man.

Auto Racing, Water Fight, Balloon Ascensions, Are Among Plans For Fourth

Automobile racing, a water fight between two teams of the Bend fire department, balloon ascensions, the election of a queen for the celebration, and other new features are being planned for the two-day Fourth of July observance in Bend, it is announced by members of the firemen's general committee, which met last week. The definite program will be announced soon.

The auto races will include several novelty events, as well as a fast race on Newport avenue, entrants to be restricted to dealers. This, as well as the horse racing, will be on the first day of the celebration, July 3. On that evening street dancing is planned, and in connection with it, trapeze and tumbling acts and possibly a Hawaiian musical and dancing act.

A smoker is planned for the evening of the Fourth, but the particulars of this attraction will not be announced until after the smoker of next Monday night. A baseball game between Bend and Madras teams will be played on the afternoon of the Fourth. Footracing and field sports will be held the same day.

Two brass bands have already been engaged for the parade, on the morning of the Fourth, and for concerts which will be held on both days. Following the parade on the Fourth will be a program of patriotic speaking and entertainment features, including fancy dancing numbers.

Members of the committee in charge are Chief Tom Carlson, Frank Hearn, T. W. Rhoads, R. S. Winters and Frank Gallagher.

K. C. SMOKER DRAWS LARGE ATTENDANCE

Bouts, Debate, Kangaroo Court, Included In Program At Club Rooms.

Boxing bouts, and a debate on the general question of boxing featured the smoker given last week by the Knights of Columbus in their club room on Wall street. The attendance was so large as to point conclusively to the need for bigger quarters.

No decision contests were between Mike Mahoney and "Fat" Eperson for four two minute rounds, and between Joseph Sersec and John F. Davis for three rounds. The debate which followed had as its chief speakers James Powers and John T. Gagen. Organization and functioning of a kangaroo court followed.

"Casey at the Bat," recited by Powers, musical selections by Wilson George, and serving of refreshments, were enjoyed in the latter part of the evening.

BEND GIRL ELECTED O. A. C. CLUB OFFICER

Connie Knickerbocker To Be Secretary of Cauthorn Hall Organization.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, June 9.—Miss Connie Knickerbocker of Bend, freshman in commerce, has been elected secretary of Cauthorn Hall club for the coming school year. She now holds the office of secretary of Clone Otz club, one of the organized groups of the hall.

Miss Knickerbocker was recently chosen for a member of the citation committee. This committee is composed of sophomore girls, who see that the new freshman girls uphold the regulations and traditions of the college.

In the election for sophomore class officers Miss Knickerbocker tied with Evelyn Leander. It will be necessary to hold another election this fall to settle the difficulty.

HAD HIGHEST SOCIAL IDEAS

Marriage Relations Among Early Assyrians Subjected to the Strictest Code of Human Laws.

Marriage relations among the early Assyrians were subject to a strict code of laws, it is now learned from a valuable cultural document made accessible to the scientific world in a German translation of the cuneiform text preserved in the Asiatic division of the Berlin Ethnographical museum. The early Assyrian lawmakers had this code inscribed on a set of clay tablets, unearthed during the excavations of the German Asiatic society in Mesopotamia. By comparing this find with other prehistoric documents, the date of these tablets has been established around 1100 B. C., which would coincide with the reign of Tiglat-Pileser I.

The rights and duties of married women and the punishments imposed for the infringements of these laws, and as the marital relations of a nation have always been regarded as a reliable barometer of its culture, this discovery throws an interesting light upon early Assyrian social conditions.

Fuses Prevent Fires.

When an electric current flows through a wire it makes the wire warm, explains Popular Science. Different materials resist the flow to different extents and are accordingly heated to different degrees. Fuse wire is made of an alloy containing a large proportion of lead, which gets very warm when large currents pass through it. Furthermore, since this alloy melts easily, the current, if large enough, may cause the fuse wire to melt.

Wherever current is being consumed in the house or factory, a piece of fuse wire is put somewhere in the circuit. If through accident or design too much current should be used, the fuse wire will melt, or, as is usually described, "blow," and stop the flow of current before the copper wire inside the walls can heat up and set fire to the house.

The Telescope.

Tradition has it that about the beginning of the Seventeenth century one Jansen, a spectacle maker of Middleburg, Holland, constructed a telescope about 16 inches in length, which he exhibited to Prince Maurice and the Archduke Albert, who, appreciating the importance of the discovery, paid him a sum of money to keep it concealed. Another spectacle maker, Lippershey made application in 1608 to the states general for a patent for a telescope as also did Metius, a professor of mathematics, but in the former instance, at least, it was refused, as the apparatus was already known. It seems certain that the instrument was known more or less about Europe, but the honor of its invention usually is given to Galileo who was the first to describe the instrument and exhibit it in complete form in May, 1609.

ALL TESTIMONY IN CASE HEARD

Witness Unable To Appear, Circuit Court Adjourns To Home.

With all other testimony heard in the injunction proceedings against the school board, circuit court adjourned Monday afternoon to the home of Carl A. Johnson, former board member, he being unable to attend court on account of illness. Judge Morrow, the attorneys, the clerk and the court reporter went to Johnson's home to hear his testimony.

The evidence centered about the circumstances under which the board's contract with S. W. Moore, former superintendent of schools, payment of salary to whom is the issue in the case, was signed, it being alleged by L. F. Orrell and the others who are seeking to enjoin the board, that Moore's contract was illegal.

Kipling Was Right.

A New Jersey householder, set upon by bandits, lifted up his voice in a wild wail for his wife. The wife appeared, a frying pan in one hand and a rolling pin in the other. The bandits caught sight of her and incontinently fled. Thus is Mr. Kipling's observation of the relative deadliness of the sexes fully vindicated. A woman scorned is, we are told by still another poet, beyond all the furies to be found in a vicinity abounding in furies. But a woman defending her husband's pay envelope is still more to be feared. —New York Tribune.

Rev. W. W. Smith, Penns Grove, N. J., Box 12, writes: "I have tried many different medicines but none relieved the cold in my throat until I used Foley's Honey and Tar." CATARHAL DEAFNESS is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions. Circulars free. All Druggists. NAME OVERTURE AS APPRAISER

Local Man Chosen To Work On Federal Land Bank Loans.

H. J. Overturf of Bend has been appointed Federal Farm Loan bank appraiser for Central Oregon, according to a telegram received Saturday by the Commercial club from Senator McNary, who has been assisting the Commercial club and the Deschutes County Farm bureau in their effort to have a local man appointed. At the request of the farm bureau, Overturf was recommended for the office by the club directors two weeks ago.

A resident of Medford has previously been appraiser for this district, and applicants for loans have received little satisfaction. On the last 18 requests for federal money, 12 were flatly denied, four were granted for reduced amounts, and two were allowed for the amounts asked.

The appointment of Overturf came as the result of work by Senator McNary and Congressman Sinnott.

DECISION WITHHELD IN STATE BANK CASE

La Pine Man, Witness In Suit Against Federal Reserve, Back From Portland.

No decision in the action of the state banks against the San Francisco Federal Reserve bank for an injunction against harassment of small banks to compel them to give clearance at par, was given Friday in the federal court of Portland, according to A. G. Cholick, cashier of the La Pine bank; who was an important witness. Court adjourned until Monday, with three witnesses for the state banks yet to be heard. Cholick finished giving his testimony Friday, and was in Bend Saturday on his way home to La Pine.

The large banks had a practice of presenting checks to the small banks and demanding cash, refusing to take drafts, Cholick said, with the intention of cutting down the cash reserves of the state banks to an embarrassing point.

EAST LAKE TO BE OPEN IN FEW DAYS

Ben Estes and Fred Smith, telephone crew for the United States forest service, Friday drove a car to a point one mile beyond the Paulina lake cabin on the East lake road, indicating that the lake will soon be open to auto travel, according to word received at the local forest office. They climbed Paulina peak, finding eight feet of snow at the top.

DECLARES SCENERY HERE THE FINEST

Cascade Skyline More Wonderful Than Best In Rockies, Says Antles.

After traveling railroads having the most attractive scenic mileage through the Rocky Mountains, L. Antles, Bend Commercial club secretary, returning Friday, said that nothing he had seen could compare in beauty with the Cascade skyline seen in the trip from Madras to Bend. Antles' chief purpose in taking the trip was to visit his mother in Lincoln, Nebraska. He also spent a short time in Omaha.

In the course of his stay in the middle west he had the opportunity of telling hundreds of people of Bend's wonderful scenery, and the angler's paradise which lies at the city's doors. He lost no chance of disseminating information concerning Central Oregon's resources and attractions.

Heavy crops will be harvested in practically every section through which he traveled, Antles said.

Judge Morrow Addresses Meeting of Association—Summarizes Laws of Collections.

Schools for credit men, as well as for those who plan to engage in other special lines of business, were predicted for the near future by Judge Robert G. Morrow, in an address at the Bend Credit association meeting Friday night.

SWIFT'S INTEREST IN BANK PURCHASED

Control of Bend Institution Passes Into Hands of Local Stockholders.

Announcement of the resignation of Carleton B. Swift, of Portland, as vice president and director of the Central Oregon bank was made by Manager E. P. Mahaffey last week. Mr. Swift's interest in the bank has been purchased by D. E. Hunter and other local stockholders, thus transferring the control from Portland to Bend and making the institution more thoroughly a local enterprise.
