

NEW PROJECTS PLAN PROGRAM

Irrigation Demonstrations Are Announced In Lake County.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

LAKELAND, July 19.—Two all-day field demonstration meetings will be held on July 28 and 29 in the Fort Rock and Silver Lake valleys in northern Lake county, for the purpose of demonstrating what irrigation is doing for these sections, and for the purpose of studying possibilities for increased income on the newly developed irrigated lands.

For the first time in history, irrigation water is being pumped and diverted onto the sage brush bench lands for the production of crops in both these valleys and there is little doubt that they are on the eve of great development. On the John Ernst ranch, five and one-half miles southeast of Fort Rock, irrigation water is being pumped from a well to irrigate a number of the crop varieties best adapted to this section, which were planted under the direction of the Lake county agricultural agent. The deep well on the Ernst ranch, which supplies two second feet (or 900 gallons) of water per minute, is one of the two wells drilled in this valley by the state, under the provisions of a recent enactment of the legislature.

To Aid Bend Business.

It is on this ranch that an all-day field meeting will convene at 10 a. m., July 28, when three specialists from Oregon Agricultural college will be present to discuss crop varieties, irrigation methods and farm management. A similar meeting will be held at Silver Lake, and a tour of inspection will be made of the newly irrigated lands adjoining the town, on July 29.

There is little doubt that a number of Deschutes county people will be interested in these meetings, as the agricultural conditions prevailing in Deschutes are similar to those in Deschutes. In addition to this, the development of these two valleys will mean an enormous increase in the volume of business done in Deschutes county, as Bend is the shipping point and center of trade for practically all of the people in these sections.
