"MAN'S INHUMANITY TO MAN"

Immortal Line Composed by Robert Burns an Indication of Protest Against Worldly Inequality.

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

Robert Burns (1730-1796), the famous Scottish poet, is the author of the line and the name of the poem is "Man Was Made to Mourn; A Dirge." According to Charles Kent, Burns caught the notion of the title from the refrain of an old song on "The Life and Age of Man," named by him in one of his letters to Mrs. Dunlop, a refrain running, "Ah, man was made to mourn." Mr. Kent says that "the wayfarer alluded to in the opening lines was a certain James Andrew, a miller of Mauchline. Immediately before their chance meeting the poet, in answer to the appeal of a half-distracted mother, had set forth, in the deepening twilight, along the banks of the river, in search of a lassie named Kate Kemp, who, as well as a cow which had been in her charge, had disappeared. As farmer and miller continued their quest together in the gloaming, the former, turning suddenly taciturn, composed the verses." J. G. Lockhart, in his "Life of Burns," remarks: "The indignation with which Burns through life contemplated the inequality of human condition, and particularly (and who shall say with absolute justice?) the contrast between his own felt intellectual strength and his worldly circumstances, were never more bitterly nor more loftily expressed than in some of these stanzas: 'See, yonder, poor, o'er-labored wight, etc.'"

GOT SECRET OF "JOSS-STICK"

Two Adventurers Said to Have Discovered Carefully Guarded Method of Its Manufacture.

There is a huge consumption of so-called "joss-sticks" in all countries where Buddhist worship is celebrated. These ceremonial candles, whose use corresponds very nearly to that of the wax candles used in the ceremonies of the Catholic church, are lighted on similar occasions, ceremonies of festivity, or mourning, prayer or thanksgiving to divinities, etc. Joss-sticks are at once candles and incense, since, like the latter, they burn without apparent flame.

The preparation of joss-sticks is shrouded in some mystery, and the process is still practically unknown, those who carry it on being chosen from a special class and kept in rigorous seclusion. Decker and Hurrier, during a sojourn in Indo-China and China, succeeded, however, in discovering the essential points of manufacture.

A squared strip of bamboo of varying length and thickness, according to the size of the joss-stick that is to be made, is skillfully rolled on an inclined surface, in a mixture of odoriferous powders agglutinated by resin, made viscous by slight elevation of temperature. One of the ends is left as it is, to serve as a handle. In some cases the bamboo is replaced with a flexible rod which enables the joss-stick to be rolled in spiral form.

Wall-Paper Collecting.
The hobby of collecting wall paper had a distinguished pioneer in Sir Walter Scott, who in one of his letters narrates his delight in a gift which came to him when he was adorning Abbotsford. He was in a quandary as to an appropriate wall decoration for his "with-drawing room," which, with the library, was to be the most distinguished chamber in the mansion. Tapestry ran too great a price, and as for ordinary designed wall-papers, they were lacking in distinction. But a friend who had sojourned for long in the East, and had brought home a collection of oriental objects, found among them a number of rolls of gilt Chinese paper, adorned with dragons and other reptiles of the imagination. He offered the rolls to Sir Walter, who saw in the design the very thing that suited. The paper stands today almost as fresh as when it was put up in the "Wizard's" baronial hall.

"Once Won't Hurt You."

All the troubles of the would-be dieter aren't due to lack of will power. A woman playwright says friends are responsible for inducing one to disregard the doctor's orders, however friendly their motives may be.

"I'm having the hardest time," she wailed, according to the New York Sun, "keeping to my diet. Well-meaning friends invite me to lunch and to dinner and then are offended if I don't sample everything on the menu. Just once won't hurt you," they argue—or, "well, I've planned this dinner for you and you've got to eat it." The result is you generally always do eat it—with subsequent regrets. The only remedy is to stay home for all meals—and that takes more will power than it does to diet."

Icy-Hot of Course.

Bert Acosta, the air champion, said at a banquet in Omaha:

"It is so cold in an airplane when you reach great altitudes that if you try to describe the weather up there you feel like a liar."

"Yes, you feel like the farm hand who said:

"'Yep, mighty cold day. But, 'tain' nothin' to what I seen to him wunst in the Vermont mountains. Why, one day in pig-killing time it was so dum cold that we had a kittle of bilin' water settin' on the stove, and when we took it out in the yard, it friz so dum quick the ice was hot.'"
