

AID IN PLACING DISABLED VETS ASKED OF CLUB

600 Vocationally Trained Men Ready Soon

WORK IS DESCRIBED

W. T. McNulty Asks Cooperation of Bend Business Men—92 Vocations Represented—Need of Road Signs Is Discussed.

Assistance of the business men of Bend, through the Commercial club, in finding employment for disabled war veterans who have received vocational training, was asked Wednesday by W. T. McNulty on behalf of the Veterans' bureau at the forum meeting. Six hundred men whose training has been completed will be available for employment within a few weeks, he declared. Over 92 vocations have been taught to these men in the schools and universities of the northwest.

Business men who have work for these men are asked to let the Veterans' bureau know of their needs. A man will be sent at no expense to the employer, and if he is not suitable, a second man will be sent, or the first man will go back for any additional training which may seem necessary.

Suggests Local Committee

A permanent committee in Bend to assist the bureau in placing these men was asked. McNulty suggested that, as in other cities, this committee be arranged by the Commercial club. The national chamber of commerce and practically all local organizations are assisting, he stated.

Appreciation of the work of the Veterans' bureau was expressed by Dr. Fred Thompson of Salem, of the state industrial accident commission, and by Dr. D. H. Leech, district superintendent of the Methodist church for the district in which Bend is located.

Dr. Leech complimented the Commercial club on its efforts toward community betterment.

"People measure their culture in two ways; by their ability to criticize, and by their ability to appreciate," Dr. Leech remarked, adding that he was assured through watching activities here, that the appreciative type of culture prevails in Bend. He announced the coming dedication of the Methodist church here.

G. W. Ager, superintendent of the Bend schools for next year, made a short talk.

Symons Urges Signs

The urgent need of road signs was pointed out by M. H. Symons, particularly leading to the Century drive, inside the city limits of Bend. "We are sending our tourists to the city dump," he declared. Symons offered to place signs all the way around the drive, if the club would have them prepared. On motion of D. G. McPherson, the old signs committee was revived, and Symons placed at the head of it.

A map which is being distributed by local merchants, put out by some private concern as advertising matter, was condemned by McPherson, who declared it to be out of date and misleading. The members of the club were asked to refrain from using this map. Secretary Antles reminded the members that the State Tourist and Information bureau has headquarters at the Commercial club office, and that they may secure accurate maps there, published by the bureau.
