SEVERE CARPATHIAN WEATHER CALLS OUT SOLDIERS' INGENUITY; MAKE HUT OF SKIS

HUT CONSTRUCTED OF SKIS BY AUSTRIAN SOLDIERS IN CARPATHIANS

Probably nowhere in the great war is the ingenuity of the fighters in winter more severely tested than in the Carpathians, where weather conditions are extremely severe at this time of the year.

The Carpathians are notorious for their gales and heavy snows, with low temperatures, often going below zero. The roads are few and far between, and the paths over the mountains are virtually impassable in winter. The soldiers of the battling armies are hard put to it for shelter and utilize every means of protection when not fighting. The body of Austrian soldiers shown in the picture have constructed a shelter or hut with their skis as a framework.

FILINGS FEW UNDER NEW 640-ACRE LAW

Doubt as to Right of Homesteaders of Agricultural Land Causing Delay in Taking Grazing Tracts.

Because of doubt still existing in regard to the rights of individuals now homesteading, to take up land under the 640-acre homestead act, but few are taking advantage of the new law, local attorneys report. Filings made here so far are principally by individuals having particularly desirable land in view and wishing to take no chance on losing it.

The chief difficulty, it is explained, is that holders of land under the additional homestead law, allowing the taking up of 320 acres, are uncertain as to whether their present holdings may be classed as part of a 640-acre tract suitable for grazing only. Previous filings have been based on agricultural adaptability.

INTEREST CONTINUES IN REVIVAL SERVICES

Dr. Elwood Lyon Speaks on "The Finished Work of Christ."—Scores Protective Religion.

Dr. Elwood Lyon, evangelist, spoke last night on "The Finished Work of Christ," when he addressed more than 200 Bend people at the union revival services being held at the Presbyterian church. He spoke of Christ on Calvary hill as pertaining to the past, present, and future of the race, then branched into a discussion of the prodigal son.

"The prodigal son was at all times a son, the only difference being that he got dirty and lived in a pig pen for a time," Dr. Lyon declared. "When he came to his senses, he went home. Many people today live with the pigs, then they join a church, but take a little pig with them. When the minister preaches against dancing or card playing, you can hear a little pig squeal."

The speaker asserted that religion to some people, is nothing more nor less than a fire insurance policy.

In mentioning the lecture given by the evangelist yesterday afternoon on "Satan's Opposition to Christ," Rev. Hartranft, pastor of the Presbyterian church, declared it to be the most masterly exposition on the subject to which he had ever listened.

Services will be held again at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

GOVERNOR GEO. W. P. HUNT

When Thomas E. Campbell, who is called governor elect of Arizona, went to the state house in Phoenix to take over his duties, Governor G. W. P. Hunt, incumbent, refused to surrender the office. A ballot recount, which gave Campbell a slight lead, is incomplete, and Governor Hunt told Governor Campbell that he could not recognize the latter's credentials. After a formal demand for possession of the executive office Governor Campbell withdrew and will maintain his headquarters in a downtown office building pending the outcome of legal proceedings to force Governor Hunt to give up the office.

The meeting between the two governors was strictly formal, and the conversation was conducted principally by the attorneys. The postoffice department has ruled that mail addressed to the governor of Arizona shall be delivered to Governor Campbell at his temporary office, but that mail addressed to Governor Hunt shall go to him at the capitol.
