Demand for trained minds never greater, Gov. Hatfield reminds honor students

By Phil F. Brogan
Bulletin Staff Writer

Honor students from high schools in four Central Oregon counties, in Bend yesterday for a national honor society conference, were reminded by Governor Mark O. Hatfield that the demand for trained minds in the United States was never greater.

But, he cautioned the group of more than 220 gathered in the Gold Room of the Pilot Butte Inn for a general assembly in the early afternoon, the attainment of a high GPA rating must not be considered a goal in itself. The "A" rating, the Governor told the honor students "must be accepted only as a symbol of your knowledge."

Governor Hatfield told the students they have proved that they have the capability to study and to apply themselves — and now, he said, they must prove their capabilities in a competitive world.

Governor Introduced
Governor Hatfield was introduced by Vernon Crawford, COC honor student from Prineville, who served as master of ceremonies at the assembly, and also at the opening of the day-long conference Tuesday morning.

Two hundred joined in a box lunch in Drake Park at noon, then

NO FIRES PLEASE

OVERTON, Tex. (UPI)—Residents of Overton hoped there would be no fires today. Eighteen of 25 members of the volunteer fire department, including the chief, quit Tuesday.

Mayor C.W. Keeling said he could find men to replace those who quit.

Firemen would give no reason for resigning but there were rumors of a row between the department and the City Council.

continued their panel discussions in the afternoon. There was a social meeting in mid-afternoon.

At 3 p.m., Gerald Becker, director of counseling at Lewis and Clark College, Portland, spoke to advisers and principals, dealing with the stimulations of leadership among honor students.

The area honor society conference here Tuesday was the result of a suggestion by Mrs. Stuart Shelk of Prineville, who proposed that the students receive

Transportation problem eyed by school board

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — The problems of transporting a number of school children some 43 miles to school in the rugged outlying section of southeastern Crook county was presented to the Crook county school board Monday evening by Art Foss, manager of the GI ranch.

Last year, Foss drove a carry-all vehicle to take 8-12 youngsters from the ranch and a nearby ranch to the Paulina school, over the Camp Creek road. Foss told the school board that he feared for the safety of the children next year, from drifting snow and from the slick gumbo mud in the spring.

He petitioned the board to consider putting a small school at the GI ranch for the education of these children. He pointed out the fact that all concerned were greatly satisfied with education at the Paulina school but that safety was the main factor of concern.

He also told the board that, although he received mileage payment for the travel, he had just about worn out the vehicle in one year.

The board considered the fact that a teacher had been kept at the GI ranch in the previous year, but that the ranch population was not stable and the number of pupils ranged from 12 down to two children. Board members agreed that a school could not be kept at the ranch for a number of reasons, and promised Foss to see what other measures can be taken.

recognition for their scholastic achievements. The recognition was similar to that recently extended to honor students of the Portland metropolitan area by Portland State College.

Annual Affair
Don Pence, Central Oregon College president, said the success of the conference here Tuesday assures that it will be made an annual affair. However, the 1964 conference will be held earlier in the year, possibly in February, prior to the rush of school-end activities.

The honor students through the day had an opportunity to meet groups from other high schools. They were back from the Drake Park noon luncheon meeting on schedule, to hear Governor Hatfield's talk at 1 p.m.

Trailer house action taken

Special to The Bulletin
REDMOND — Said to be one of the largest representations of citizens ever present at a city council meeting, some 50 Redmond residents crowded into council chambers Tuesday evening, most of them seeking restriction of trailer houses on residential property.

After hearing three and one half hours of testimony, the council unanimously passed the trailer house restriction ordinance, effective immediately through declaration of an emergency. In essence, the ordinance prohibits installation of trailer houses on city property other than that designated as a trailer court.

Council members agreed that two permit applications on file with the city before the ordinance was drafted should be allowed.

A few of those present were in opposition to the ordinance. But the others, for whom Attorney George Rakestraw was spokesman, favored the action.

Construction is booming in the Redmond area, with industrial, commercial and residential buildings going up in all sections of the city. This, and Round Butte Dam construction to the north, has brought about an influx of trailer houses within the past few months.

Several new trailer courts are being planned in and around Redmond, and it is believed that others will be started now that an ordinance is in effect.

Banquet vocalists were students Dannie Mettner and Mike Ritchie, both accompanied by Donna Kimm. Gifts of appreciation were presented to the retiring presidents by their chapters.

Chapters hold joint program

Special to The Bulletin
PRINEVILLE — Mrs. Bill Levins and Mrs. Barr Groff were installed as presidents of Beta Tau and Beta Lambda chapters, respectively, at the joint installations, jewel pin ceremony and Founder's Day program of the Prineville chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, recently at the Ochoco Inn. Members of Alpha Mu chapter, Redmond, were guests.

Mrs. Don York, retiring Central Oregon District Council president, conducted the installation, assisted by the retiring chapter presidents, Mrs. Leonard Nelson and Mrs. Bennie Birkby. Beta Tau members were in charge of the jewel pin ceremony.

New Beta Tau officers, in addition to Mrs. Levins, are Mrs. S. Gerald Hogland, vice - president; Mrs. Bill Close, corresponding-recording secretary; Mrs. Willie Begley, treasurer; Mrs. Bob Dahlen, education director, assisted by Mrs. Tom Tompkins, and Mrs. James Fry, parliamentarian.

Beta Lambda; Mrs. Dwight Robirds, vice - president; Mrs. S. Bill Clements, secretary; Mrs. S. Bill Pedley, treasurer; Mrs. Dan Ream Jr., education director, and Mrs. Gordon Shortreed, parliamentarian.

Beta Lambda members receiving their jewel pins are Mrs. Bill Pedley, Mrs. Don Edwards, Mrs. Don Gore and Mrs. Harold Winegar. Beta Tau: Mrs. Dick Gerety, Mrs. Ron Halsey, Mrs. Vern Arledge, Mrs. Tommie Stephenson and Mrs. Don Greer.

Mrs. Groff, Mrs. Robirds and Mrs. Art Taylor presented the Founder's Day program in observance of the 34th year of Epsilon Sigma Alpha.

Appeal schedule set by board

The Deschutes County Board of Equalization held its first meeting Monday at the courthouse.

Two meeting dates were set, to provide an opportunity for individuals who have filed appeals or will file by the deadline, May 20, to meet with the board. The meetings will be Thursday, May 16, at 10 a.m., and Tuesday, May 21, at 3 p.m. Both will be in room 219 of the courthouse.

Additional information may be obtained from County Commissioner George F. Baker, board chairman, at the courthouse. Jesse L. Yardley, Bend, and Priday Holmes, Redmond, are the other members.

Gem society plans display

A display intended not only for local residents but for tourists has been arranged in a window of the City Meat Market by the High Desert Gem and Mineral Society.

Featuring the varied displays is an exhibit of dendritic agates, from the collection of Grahame Horton. This is the central display of the exhibit. Mr. and Mrs. Horton found the agate material on their first field trip this spring.

Other exhibits are from the collections of Don Simpson, Cecil C. Moore, Billy Wyatt and Mr. and Mrs. George Novinger.

The window exhibit will be changed from time to time during the tourist season.
