

FREMONT SPAN MODEL TO BE DISPLAYED — One of the featured exhibits at the Oregon State Highway Department open house Tuesday will be this model of the Fremont bridge to be constructed over the Willamette River in Portland. This will be a two-deck span. Inspecting the model is Dean Swift, engineer in charge of the Bend division, OSHD. He and his fellow staff members will be hosts at the open house Tuesday.

Highway workers recall early days as they prepare for open house in Bend Tuesday

Oregonians were calling for legislative action 46 years ago to lift out of muddy ruts and place them on the 1917 version of good roads, which in that day was any road passable in both sunshine and rain.

This was recalled here today as members of the Bend division plant of the Oregon State Highway Department made ready for its open house program Tuesday, May 28 that will include tours of offices and shops.

The open house will be from 2 to 9 p.m. Informal guided tours will be conducted through the afternoon. Of special interest will be the shops, among the largest in the state. In these shops equipment is brought in from about one-fifth of the state, for maintenance and repair. Units range from huge snow plows to hand tools.

Engineers in charge stress that the open house Tuesday will be for all Central Oregonians and others interested. A model of the Fremont bridge that is to be built over the Willamette in Portland will be on display, as will maps of local engineering projects.

One of the projects now on paper is a new, modern highway over Horse Ridge, on U.S. Highway 20. There will be time out for recollections of Central Oregon's roads of the past, as compared with the present.

The Oregon State Highway Department was created on Feb. 28, 1917, when the legislature appointed three unpaid commissioners and gave them 4,000 miles of primitive roads and a $6,000,000 bond issue to finance the road program for the first two years.

Today's highway department employees 3,700, headed by a former Central Oregonian, Forrest Cooper, and the payroll is over $14 million annually. Total mileage of roadways has been increased to 7,500.

Central Oregon's roads of 1917 were rutted and seasonally dusty or muddy.

SINGLE RUN MADE

City firemen made a single run over the weekend. Saturday about midday they were called to the 100 block on Oregon, to wash down fuel spilling from the ruptured tank of a parked pickup truck. No damage occurred.

Luncheon honors Cecil Sly at Prineville on Saturday

Special to The Bulletin

PRINEVILLE — Cecil M. Sly, Crook county school superintendent for the past 18 years, was honored Saturday, May 25, at a luncheon in the Crook county high school cafeteria by some 100 well-wishers.

Sly will retire June 30. Following the luncheon, Lloyd Lewis, Crook County high school principal, introduced D. D. Williams, assistant superintendent, state department of education. Williams commended Sly for the enlarged school system developed during his years in office and spoke of the annual outdoor education school for sixth graders, pioneered by Sly.

Lynn Hampton, County School Superintendents' Association president, spoke in high acclaim of Sly, as did Cecil Posey, executive secretary, Oregon Education Association. Final speaker, introduced by Lewis as master of ceremonies, was C. R. Matheny, chairman of the Crook county school board.

Among laudatory letters read by Mrs. Charles Straughan and Mrs. Robert Thompson, of the superintendent's office, was a letter from the Weston volunteer fire department which Sly helped organize many years ago when teaching school there. Letters were also read from Rex Putnam, state superintendent of schools; P. W. Snyder, state game commission and other education officials and county school superintendents. R. H. McAttee, former Crook county school superintendent, was introduced.

A gift of two rose bushes, in token of Sly's interest in gardening, was presented by Ken McGuire, president, Oregon Bookmen's Association. Mrs. Lyle Chalfont, county OEA president, presented Sly with a box of films of pictures taken during the luncheon, and finally the camera with which the pictures were taken was given to him from Crook county school personnel.

Sly, deeply moved, responded to the program with brief recollections of his years in office.

Among the numerous dignitaries and friends present were Mrs. Sly, their daughter Mrs. Jay Scott, Athena, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sly, their son and daughter-in-law, Portland.

Welcome cards being issued

Special to The Bulletin

PRINEVILLE — Start of the free over-parking season for out-of-state cars was marked May 24 with the first issuance of large welcoming cards to be placed under windshield wipers of visiting overparked cars.

The new cards, issued this year for the first time by the Chamber of Commerce with the cooperation of the Prineville police department, invite visitors to visit a lengthy list of local attractions including free agate hunting grounds.

The reminder that the car is overparked is in small discreet type at the bottom of the card, and adds "instead of giving you a ticket we are extending our most cordial welcome."

Accident toll set at ten

SEATTLE (UPI)— Ten persons died in traffic accidents in Washington state during the weekend—and five of the deaths were the result of one accident.

Bradford Ripley, 62, Seattle, died Sunday, bringing to five the number killed in a five-car pileup on the Alaskan Way viaduct in Seattle early Saturday.

Progress has posed for them a new problem

LANCASTER, Pa. (UPI)—Pennsylvania's Amish farmers have another problem caused by progress.

The Amish, who traditionally have used portable kerosene or gasoline mantle lamps to light the barns and milk houses have been ordered to install electricity in their dairy facilities.

If they do not comply with the order of health authorities of Lower Merion Twp., near Philadelphia, they face the possibility of losing an estimated $1.5 million a year in milk sales.

The Amish are a religious sect, many of whom shun such modern conveniences as automobiles and electricity.

But recently township authorities made an inspection tour of Amish dairy farms and passed the word that it would strictly enforce one of its rules that specifies electric lighting on farms supplying milk to the township.

Sealest Dairy traditionally has bought milk from the Amish and is completely satisfied as to its quality. Sealest even picks up milk on Saturday night and early Monday morning so as not to violate Amish religious principles against doing work on Sunday.

But when the township advised Sealest that it would enforce the electricity regulation, it had no choice but to advise Amish suppliers to electrify their barns by March 1, 1964, or find other markets for their milk.

Approximately 200 Amish farmers shipping between 45,000 and 50,000 quarts of milk a day out of Leaman Place, Pa., are involved.

Lower Merion township is in milk control district 1-A, and their regulations — admittedly "very strict" — effectively serve to control milk supplies for other communities in the same district.

Sealest, for example, could not afford to ignore a township health ruling and thereby lose its customers in that township and probably in the entire control district.

DRAGGED TO DEATH

LEBANON (UPI)—A 7-year-old boy was dragged to death while riding a horse near here Sunday. Killed was Harvey Luehring, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Luehring of Lebanon. He had nine brothers and sisters.

'Circus' held by Cub pack

Big top color and gaiety provided atmosphere for the simulated circus held by Cub pack No. 23, at its monthly meeting last Thursday. This was the last indoor pack meeting of the current school year, and a number of awards were presented.

There were clowns galore, strange and rare animals, bareback riders and tight-rope walkers. Siamese twins, a glow worm and an acrobat were a few of the many and varied acts presented by the Cubs themselves.

Badges for rank went to Kent Williamson, lion; Jeffrey Holmes and Garys Patterson, bear, and Dale Johnson, Mike Peterson, Charles Rector, Charles Smith and Mike Vandehey, wolf.

Gold arrows were awarded to Gregg Geser, Brian Osburn and Dennis Marling; silver arrows to Richard Olson and Joe Prouty. Denkers bars went to Gary Patterson, Bill Shank and Mike Vandehey; an assistant denker bar to John Shaver.

Other awards were made as follows: Michael Priberg, bobcat; Richard Olson, service star; Bill Shank and Richard Olson, one-year perfect attendance pins.

Dates for the summer picnics will be announced after the June meeting of the pack leaders.

KNOCKED INTO WATER

TILLAMOOK (UPI)— Five persons were knocked into shallow water at the Nehalem River bar Sunday when a large wave capsized their 18-foot outboard motor boat.

A 22-foot Coast Guard boat picked up Mrs. Robert S. Wright, 39, Portland. The other persons made it to shore on their own.

There were Wright, 42; their son, Mike, 16, and Jack L. Child, 39, Portland, and his wife, Doris, 22.

Dryfoos rites held in N. Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Funeral services were held today for Orville E. Dryfoos, president and publisher of the New York Times. He died Saturday of a heart ailment.

Dryfoos, 50, became president of the Times in 1957 and was named publisher in 1961 when his father-in-law, Arthur Hayes Sulzberger, retired.

Dryfoos was one of American journalism's "most distinguished figures." President Kennedy said on learning of his death. "Mr. Dryfoos will be sorely missed by those who knew and admired his integrity, courage and his devotion to journalistic truth," the chief executive said.
