Gross income from poultry, eggs is down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a boom in production and consumption of poultry and eggs the last 10 years, gross farm income from these commodities has taken a shellacking.

In a review of the poultry and egg situation, the Agriculture Department reports that gross farm income from poultry and eggs in the 48 contiguous states in 1962 was $3.3 billion. This compares with gross income of $3.6 billion in 1961. Gross income is made up of cash receipts plus the value of home consumption.

Between 1952 and 1962, broiler production increased 163 per cent; turkey numbers went up 55 per cent; egg output jumped 8 per cent; and production of farm chickens declined 43 per cent. But because of sharply lower prices for each of the commodities, gross income from eggs and farm chickens was down a quarter billion dollars each, essentially unchanged for turkeys, and up only $30 million for broilers.

Gross Income
Income by product in 1962 was: Eggs, $1.8 billion; broilers, $1 billion; turkeys, $400 million and farm chickens, $100 million.

The Department said that between 1952 and 1962, gross income from poultry and eggs increased in only 12 of the 48 states; eight of these states were in the south and southeast and included: Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and North Carolina. The other four were Maine, California, Maryland and Arizona.

The Department said prices to producers for broilers and turkeys in 1962 rebounded sharply from the extremely depressed levels of 1961. But egg prices, which were relatively favorable in 1961, were lower in 1962.

Currently, the Department estimates egg production this year will be about the same as last. Production was down slightly in the first four months, but with an uptrend in the rate of lay extending into the second half of the year, and replacement chickens little changed in number, monthly egg production probably will exceed that of a year earlier.

BISHOP PLANS PARTY

Senior citizens eligible for FHA home loans

Special to The Bulletin
REDMOND — The Farmers Home Administration now has authorization to make loans for modest housing for senior citizens in rural areas, according to an announcement made recently by Glenn J. Barnes, county supervisor.

The term "senior citizen," he says, means a citizen of the United States who is 62 years of age or over. The term "rural area" means areas in or adjacent to communities of 2500 or less population.

To be eligible, an applicant must be a senior citizen without an adequate dwelling for his own use, must be without sufficient resources of his own and unable to obtain necessary credit elsewhere at reasonable rates and terms.

Loan funds may be used to purchase an existing dwelling, construct a new dwelling or remodel a present dwelling. Loan funds also may be used to purchase a site for construction of a new dwelling.

Interest rate on the loans will be four per cent on the unpaid balance. Each loan will be scheduled for payment within the shortest period consistent with the ability of the borrower to pay. In no case, says Barnes, will the payment period exceed 33 years from date of the note.

Loans also can be made to non-profit organizations, individuals, trusts, associations, partnerships and corporations, including municipal corporations or other corporate agencies of a state or local government to build rental housing for senior citizens in rural areas. Funds also may be used to construct, purchase, improve or repair such rental housing.

Democrat raps U.S. for giving away secrets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Democratic congressman said in testimony made public this week it was "utterly fantastic" that the United States gave Russia maps locating the undersea cables that link Distant Early Warning (DEW) line stations.

The Pentagon replied that it would not do Russia any good to cut the cables before an attack, because radio communications are virtually jam-proof.

The DEW line is a network of radar stations in the Far North which are supposed to sound an early alarm in the event of a bomber attack on Canada and the United States.

The subject came up in House defense appropriations subcommittee hearings May 2, when Rep. Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., and others brought up breaks in the undersea cables. Brig. Gen. J. F. Raulor Jr., director of command control and communications for the Air Force Office of Programs and Requirements, said he believed breaks caused by Soviet fishing boats were accidental.

He said the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. had given the Russians maps showing the location of shallow water cables.

Flood said this was "utterly

No danger seen below point of interception

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said today that detonation of Nike-Zeus warheads against an oncoming enemy missile would not endanger populations below the point of intercept.

The Defense Department said, in response to inquiries, that "the danger from (radioactive) fallout from our defensive missiles is insignificant compared to that from an unopposed enemy missile."

The statement was aimed at countering interpretations placed on remarks by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara concerning radioactive fallout problems that might result from use of the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile.

McNamara Testifies
Testimony by McNamara before the House defense appropriations subcommittee was interpreted to mean that the Nike-Zeus itself would create fallout requiring an extensive system of shelters to protect civilians.

"I think I am right in saying our own program will create a fallout problem," McNamara told the House group.

"We are using nuclear warheads, of course, and there are literally hundreds of them that would be detonated under these circumstances (full-scale deployment of the Nike-Zeus)."

Later, McNamara indicated that the problem of fallout would be an indirect result of the anti-missile missile.

"If we had a Nike-Zeus or Nike-X system, the Soviets almost certainly would target some of their missiles outside the range of those systems," he said.

"They would use ground bursts to ensure that we had a substantial degree of fallout even though the defense system might have been successful in intercepting some or even a majority of the warheads targeted in the urban areas themselves."

The new Pentagon statement explained that immediate fallout would be almost entirely a result of ground bursts.

The kind of radioactive fallout that would result from anti-missile missile warheads exploding at high altitudes would contribute to world wide contamination of the atmosphere to some extent, but would have little or no effect on the local population, it said.

Moro gets job of forming new government in Italy

By Phil Newsom
UPI Staff Writer

Aldo Moro is a tall, shy, big-boned man of 46 who has been given the job of forming a new Italian government in time for President Kennedy's scheduled visit to Italy in June.

President Antonio Segni's appointment of Moro was in keeping with the state of Italian politics because Moro is noted as a compromiser. And in the hodge-podge of Italy's political parties it will take a compromiser if the country is to avoid chaos.

The government he is being called upon to head is to replace the left-of-center regime of Amintore Fanfani, who has been widely blamed for heavy Christian Democratic losses in the April elections and correspondingly impressive gains by the Communists.

Moro's fate will depend largely upon his negotiations with Pietro Nenni's left-wing Socialists, whose passive support also was the keystone of the Fanfani government. For Moro's first attempt will aim at a government which also will be left of center.

Business Decline
The question will be just how far left.

The Fanfani government's nationalization of the power industry frightened some industrialists and was blamed for some reduction in private investment.

Other, less drastic, measures taken by the CDU-Socialist allies included an old-age pension plan for housewives, some minor tax reforms and an increase in the age for compulsory schooling from 11 to 14 years.

Results of last April's elections have been a matter of interpretation.

Christian Democratic conservatives blamed party defections on the Socialist alliance.

The Nenni socialists blamed the big Communist gains on government support of any new government. In the end, the price may be too high. Nenni's hand has been strengthened by the fact he also is being wooed by the Communists, who are proposing a renewal of the old popular front.

Neutral Stand

In the last campaign, Nenni demanded a wider degree of regional self-government, controls on ownership of homesites and other land, a definite program of economic planning, and agricultural and school reforms.

The Socialists, once bitter foes of NATO, agreed to take a neutral stand toward that alliance providing the government missed no chance to press for world peace and some kind of accommodation with the Communist world.

Moro first came into the government as Minister of Justice under then Premier, now President, Segni.

As an orator he is noted more for his sincerity than his skill.

Teacher guide study planned on Red course

SALEM (UPI) — The State Board of Education will resume consideration of a proposed teacher's guide on Communism when it meets here June 5.

The guide is planned for use in teaching course on Democracy and Communism in Oregon schools.

The board will elect a new chairman and vice chairman to take over in September.

Other items on the agenda include:

—Personnel changes.
—A hearing on the teaching certificate of Willard McKinny of Klamath Falls.

—Contracts with three school districts for migrant summer school programs.

—Appointment of members to the State Board of Textbook Commissioners.
